Jesus Christ is the way of the truth and that it removes the dread of not being good enough. He stated in showing how our life at college is lived by faith and advance along other lines by faith. He also pointed out that obtaining this larger life is not a matter of practice than the other baskers and M. Margaret Register seemed to be as hampered by lack of practice than the other teachers. Margaret Hudson and Mayme Adams.

Due to the constant showers which have interfered with the practices of both teams for the past two weeks, Miss Ivey gave up the small standard. Margaret Hudson and Mayme Register were leashed in the basket ball conflict and managed to defeat the Kappas by three points with a final score of 19 to 16.

As a Liberal Arts College, G. S. W. C. offers to its students all that is expensive finishing school offering courses in college training and much more in the line of practical arts. They are here and it is a matter of privilege to take advantage of the opportunity.

On Monday night Miss Ivey gave and interesting talk on the need of physical fitness in modern society. Since physical fitness has assumed such an importance, the opportunity was taken to stress this need.

Rev. A. C. Pyle, pastor of Lee Street Baptist Church, addressed the student body at assembly on Wednesday, February 20. His subject was "The Larger Life." The text being the familiar words of Christ, "I have come that they might have life and have it more abundantly."

Assemblies conclude with a quotation from Joseph Newton, "To me the greatest discovery of our generation is the radio or radiun, but that Jesus Christ is the way of the truth and light in our lives."
THE F. E. R. A. PAYROLL

Recently a meeting of all the F. E. R. A. assistants on campus was held to talk over recent changes in the manner of turning in time. It seemed that some of the students never bother to hand in their time at all, which strikes us as being very peculiar. We have never heard of people who wanted to work for no pay, but that seems to be the situation.

Students who are earning F. E. R. A. checks each month are held up by those who are playing for F. E. R. A. checks. Now, if the person does not hand in the time she has worked there will be no pay. And that is as it should be. If the person who has worked for the money is kept from receiving her pay by another girl who has neglected to hand in her time that is not fairness in any sense, but if each person who does hand in her time receives her pay and those who neglect to hand in their time will learn a lesson and be more prompt next time.

It does not seem fair to us either that members of the faculty should chase all over the campus trying to find students to remind them of the fact that they are negligent. It is not their duty. Girls say that they can not finish school unless they receive some aid, and when that aid is given them they forget to worry any more because the problem has been solved for the time being.

It seems to us that a step forward has been taken by the F. E. R. A. authorities in declaring that a levelling off of hours between students has also been declared. Why some students should work harder than others and receive the same pay was not quite clear. But with the new regulations the time will be more evenly distributed.

Perhaps this matter will be cleared up by the recent changes, but we still urge that the students look after their payrolls, watch the bulletin board, and be prompt in signing the payroll. It is only fair to all concerned.

GOSSIP COLUMNS

At the meeting of the Georgia Press Association at Athens last week one of the problems which came in for most discussions by student editors was the problem of gossip columns in college publications. It seems that when they are taken out of the papers that the students demand that they be reinstated; they are without doubt the most popular feature in the papers.

We suppose that this can be explained by the fact that people like to read about themselves and that gossip columns keep them worried all the time as to whether or not their name will appear. Be that as it may, it cannot be denied that there is a steady demand in college publications for this type of column.

In the Open Forum this week there is a letter demanding that we return "Kalamidoscope" and The Open Forum. So this week we have done both. It is the aim of the Campus to publish what the students themselves want—for it is the students’ paper.
THE SOCIAL WEEK

FRESHMAN-SENIOR FORMAL DANCE

One of the most brilliant events of the school year was the freshman formal dance held the senior class on Saturday evening, February 23. Miss Margaret Cannon, president of the freshman class, Miss Virginia Zipple, secretary of the freshman class, and Miss Annie P. Hopper, Dean of Women, formed the receiving line. Miss Cannon wore a green lace gown. Her corsage was of cydamen. Miss Zipple was dressed in pink satin. Miss Hopper wore a brown lace gown and her corsage was composed of white carnations.

Miss Margaret Cannon, of Cairo, acting as hostess, Miss Perry, of Valdosta, led the lead-out to music played by Ed Jenwright and his Rhythm Kings, of Thomasville.

The rotunda was decorated with narcissi, red and white carnations, red gladioli, and smilax.

Those who received at the doors were Janet Cook, Amanda Barksdale, Ruth Jones, Ethlyn Massey, Mary Askew, and Miriam Adams.

PERSONALS

Among those who spent last weekend off campus were: Misses Eleanor Bailey, Ethle Adams, Louell Morris, Louise Smith, Lillian Slumb, Marie Joiner, Martha Gay, Catherine Morgan, Besie Lewis, Florence Tharp, Margaret Zipple, Mary Elizabeth Weatherford, Denise Beasley, Grace Swindle, Zelda Tucker, Sara Ellen Miles, Register, Elizabeth Sims, and Anne Mary Evans.

Misses Lucy Hammond, Leonora DuFour, and Marion Reid attended the Military Ball in Athens last weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Whipple, of Quitman, visited Miss Ted Whipple.

Mr. Jack Williams, of Waycross, was the guest of Miss Ruth Williams on Wednesday.

Field Smith, of Dixie, spent last weekend with Miss Esther Smith.

Dr. Earl Phelan and Mr. James Stokes spent last weekend in Athens, formulating final examinations for the University System Physical Science and Biology Departments respectively. Committee of four were appointed in each department of the University system to serve this weekend.

Misses Grace and Doris Swindle spent the week-end at their home in Ray City.

Misses Maggie Davidson, Ruth Loughbridge, and Virginia Kirkland spent Friday afternoon at Twin Lakes as the guests of Mrs. Harris.

Mrs. W. B. Watkins, Jr., of Metcalfe, spent Friday and Saturday with her daughter, Ames.

Mr. C. J. Nix, of Jasper, visited his daughter, Mary Elizabeth, Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Miller and daughter, Dorothy, Mrs. Minnie Ledford, and Miss Rena Mayes Rhodes, from Statesboro, visited Miss Eleanor Miller Sunday.

Miss Harriette Radford and mother, Mrs. A. J. Radford, of Quitman, visited Miss Jeanette Shifrin Thursday. Miss Radford attended school here during the first quarter and will return in the spring quarter.

Misses Edith Bennett and Myrtle Parker spent the week-end in Samanah. While there they heard Yehudi Menuhin, the famous violinist.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Beaty and son, Cummings, of Gabbettville, visited Miss Maggie Davidson Wednesday.

Mrs. H. C. Cannon and Mrs. R. J. Dunne, of Cairo, spent the week-end with Miss Margaret Cannon.

Dr. and Mrs. J. T. Holt, of Baxley, were the visitors of their daughter, Miss Lucille Holt, last weekend.

Among the visitors on the campus last week was Mr. Jake Roberts, of Pinehurst.

Mr. B. Simons, of Homerville, was the guest of his daughter, Miss Juanita Simons, last Saturday.

PHILHARMONIC CLUB

The Philharmonic Club met in the rotunda Friday evening. The program consisted of recitals on Lakecle-Tibbert by Misses Ethlyn Massey and Ruth Jones; piano solos by Misses Sara Martha Pyle, Martie Lundy, Annette Phillips, Johnnie Mae Kelley; and vocal solos by Misses Pearl Wilson and Joy Miller.

JUNIORS ENTERTAIN WITH A DINNER PARTY AT HOTEL

One of the more delightful affairs accompanying the Freshman-Junior formal on Saturday evening was the dinner party given at the Daniel Ashely Hotel by a number of juniors and their dates for the dance. Among those present were Miss Lucille Tyson and Mr. Thad Wiseman, of Adel; Miss Leila Mae Tyson and Mr. John Vann, of Waycross; Miss Amanda Barkdale and Mr. Walt Williams; Miss Lucille Thompson and Mr. Charlie Joyner; Miss Virginia Tuck and Mr. Albert Tuck, of Thomasville; Miss Rachel Cowell and Mr. Bo Whittaker, of Fitzgerald, and Miss Patsy Sparks.

KAMPUS KALEIDOSCOPE

Come and gather around all you bad little college girls who want Kaledoscope back and let’s see what we can find in the way of campus gossip. This week we’re going to relate a few of the more interesting facts about the group of near-great that grace our fair alma mammy. Lord, but this job of getting started is no great shakes (try and figure out who that sounds like, you ole sleuths—what do you care who writes this for anyway)? 90 years from now you will wonder “Where did I ever hear the name of Kal—how in the heck do you pronounce it?” So what?

Yeah, We Read It In the Papers!

That was a good one that came out of one of the local papers regarding the Emory Glee Club. To quote: “The men in the Glee Club—personally, we always heard that “two is company, three is a crowd,” but maybe the great love from Emory have discovered a new system. Anyway, maybe it can be explained that the type-setter omitted the “g.” Somebody ought to take the blameless. How about the Glee Club? Note: Next year they will play to a standing room only house. Fame is a matter of a mistake.

I Only Heard

They say that a certain Junior got an earache not very long ago. But—when the one and only (oh yeah?) heard about it he sent flowers, telegrams, specials, and his own personal autographs at the bottoms of very flowery epistles (stop us if we’re exaggerating). If he would do that for an earache, there would probably be no stopping him for appendicitis (if we spelled that wrong blame it on the type-setter—his shoulders are broader than ours).

And Worse Than That—

It nearly breaks our hearts when we think of it—the futility of it all! A very nice little collich (where did we find that?) student was walking along Patterson one day in the hopes of seeing the man of the hour ride by. From the corner of Brookwood to the campus end, then from the campus right back to the corner of Brookwood—and so the hours passed. Still no sight of him, and blisters on her feet, too. Doesn’t it bring a lump to your throat though?

Thoughts

Lucy Hammond’s Pi K. A. pin and bid to Military Ball at Ga.—Mary Agnes Roane’s nice pronunciation in S. and B. try-outs—the s. s. and g. manner of a certain well-known campus figure that gets our goat—Marguerite McCall’s clothes—the Fine Arts Club’s proposed trip to Sarasota—some people with all the luck—Mary Lois Hitch who reminds us of Russian grand duchesses (the very slender kind, not the other you dopes)—Jessie Langdale in a green dress—the very nice manner of the Y. W. C. A. secretary—Mary Beth Mathews, the pianist in the Mercer Glee Club—the spiritualists of the Emory Glee Club—the concert of our own glee club in April—the wildness of our literary society—Tad Whipple’s smile—the dance Saturday evening—heart sisters and presents—the Valentine plan—especially the ice cream and cake—something to fill up space hurriedly—what in the world they’ll say next week—dances may come, and dances may go, but still there’s a thrill in wondering what a corsage will be and what, oh, lots of things—
