Reade Leaves for Study of College Work

President Discloses Plans At Recent Meeting Of Eastern Colleges

Announcement of a planned visit to eastern colleges was made by Dr. Frank R. Reade, during his address Friday evening at a joint meeting of student members of the Student Government Association. Dr. Reade explained to the new students the type of college he desires to establish at Valdosta.

He then explained the absence system recently put into use. He said the administration realized its fallibilities but challenged any student to find a system of better operation. He invited suggestions from the students for any improvements that would be effective on the campus.

The planned trip to eastern colleges is the first ever undertaken by Valdosta College, although it is expected to be given every year. He said he hopes to get details of this trip from other schools that may be interested.

Closing his address, he read from the yearbook of the University of Virginia, his alma mater, a conception of college life, and the way in which it may be approached. This has appeared in the front of every annual since 1903.

Morgan Will Be City Radio Queen

Sponsored by the Valdosta Chamber of Commerce, Eleanor Morgan, member of the freshman class, will sing as "Miss Valdosta" in a radio contest at Miami and Havana in December. She will be the guest of Mr. J. R. Dusenbury, publisher of the Miami Daily News.

At present Miss Morgan is studying under Miss Clara Branham, for the radio contest. She is a past pupil of James Daher.

The contest is being sponsored by the Cuban Tourist Commission, a division of the Cuban government.

Miss Morgan plans to be in Miami December 4, where she will be entertained at the McKadden Deauville Hotel for three days as a guest of Bernarr Macfadden, prominent publisher.

From Miami Miss Morgan will sail for Havana for a five day trip. She will be a guest of the Sevilla-Biltmore Hotel as a representative of Cuba.

As a result of Dr. Frank R. Reade's conference in Atlanta with Chancellor S. V. Sanford this week, Mr. W. A. Edwards, architect, visited the campus Friday.

Mr. Edwards represents the firm of Edwards and Sayward, architects. He was sent to look over the campus and suggest a good location for the prospective swimming pool.

Dr. Sanford stated to Dr. Reade that application for a new library, made at the same time as the request for a swimming pool, would be kept on file in Washington.

Delegates Go to Collegiate Press Meet

Greene and Lane Leave Monday For Chicago to Join Convention of 500 Editors

Carolyn Greene, editor of the Pine Cone, and Lane McFadden, editor of the Campus Canopy, will officially represent G. S. W. C. at the annual Associated Collegiate Press convention meeting in Chicago, October 14-19.

During the three-day conference, college students from around 150 colleges in thirty-five states will attend round table discussions and hear comprehensive talks by people outstanding in newspaper and yearbook work. The highlights of the program are: Speakers, Henry Goddard, editor of the Forum Magazine; Howard Vincent O'Brien, editor of the Collegiate Press, Chicago Daily News; "Dusty" Thompson, editor of the campus newspaper; and the show floor from the Medinah Club's Tally-Ho room.

"We are looking forward to the trip and expect to gain new ideas and interesting knowledge in our respective fields," said Carolyn Greene.

Town Girls Use Rooms Furnished

Special efforts of the administration have been made in an attempt to bring about a closer relationship between dormitory and day students. Annie P. Hopper announced Tuesday that two rooms are now open for the day students, who have been equipped for their comfort and convenience.

These rooms are located in Ashley and Converse Halls. Day students have been invited to have lunch in the dining room for a nominal cost.

Mr. J. R. Dusenbury stated that he will welcome any suggestions from the students as to what else might be done. All day students feel they are part of the college. He urges the town people to attend all meetings of interest to them as part of all college activities possible.

Entries in the snapshot contest sponsored by the Pine Cone should be submitted to Carolyn Greene or Ruth Bunn. Cash prizes will be awarded.

Chocolate Soda Invitation Proves To Be Big Gyp

Pankoke Teaches In Music Department

"I like better than anything else studying and teaching music." This statement came from Miss Marie Pankoke as she sat in the G. S. W. C. music studio waiting for her next piano pupil. Though her home is in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, Miss Pankoke plans to be in Valdosta, where she will return from a three month trip to Europe, Monday afternoon.

Miss Pankoke, who is interested in music and music study, will remain here until Christmas. She is an instructor at the University of Wisconsin. In addition to supervising the freshman and sophomore classes, members of the recently organized class in recreational leadership, gain practical experience.

The course in recreational leadership is required of students taking an elective minor in physical education. Otherwise, admittance is gained by approval of Miss Leonora Ivey, head of the department.

In addition to supervising athletics, the class is taught the theory of organized play by Miss Elizabeth McRee. This includes study of background of play, recreational leadership, and practical purpose in instruction of campus sports.

Championships may be awarded to the competitive class. The plan is being studied by Dr. Reade's conference in Atlanta with Chancellor S. V. Sanford this week, Mr. W. A. Edwards, architect, visited the campus Friday.

Mr. Edwards represents the firm of Edwards and Sayward, architects. He was sent to look over the campus and suggest a good location for the prospective swimming pool.

Contemporary's Philo Nation is interested in "the scientific way" and "... who started the gyp anyway?"

"What do you s'pose happened to the gyp," he ejaculated.

"Well, go ahead," the gentleman said, looking down at us impatiently but gently.

"There were once two negroes, Wednesday and Thursday. Wednesday said to Thursday, 'I went to see my gal last night and kissed her.' Thursday said to Wednesday, 'But don't you get germs and microbes?'" Here we muttered something about "the scientific way" and "... who started the gyp anyway?"

Dear Editor:

I wish to congratulate you on an enlarged paper that you are now editing. This was a much needed improvement and marks a definite step forward in the progress of the Canopy. I hope that this additional space will be filled with more serious and feature articles and will also contain some creative work.

Clara Mae Basset

Dear Editor:

I am almost in perfect agreement with your reader editorial concerning the clubs. If, with many others, am very much concerned that someone who is at least radical enough to permit us to enter, say, a dance does not attend the mas festival this year. Not that I am trying to break down the traditional associations of the clubs, but you know what I mean. Let's have something new somewhere. The clubs, as you have suggested, have a great opportunity for getting the enthusiasm of a group and for doing something.

Now the main objection I have to the editorial is it didn't go far enough. How about the Campus Canopy? Would it be an unobjectionable sin to put something new in it?

Catherine Black

Dear Editor:

One of the most interesting parts of the Campus Canopy is the Kaleidoscope because everyone wants to know the campus gossip. Many times, however, the information is so vague that the reader cannot even guess what or whom he is reading about. The Kaleidoscope could be made more entertaining by being more definite.

Eileen Cox

Dear Editor:

Can't you make Kaleidoscope a little longer in the future? Everything that is going on in the Kaleidoscope instead of writing a different title every week on the cover. The Kaleidoscope could also be used to convey the news and feature items to students that think Leonora Dufur's name is too stuffy.

Dear Editor:

Can't you have a picture in the paper every week? It adds to the appearance of the right page. The second issue looked much better than the first.

"Big Sisters" Should Encourage Freshmen

By Kathryn Moore

About 90 per cent of the college's national freshm en should be preserved. But no one of them has yet hit upon an efficient method.

President Roosevelt in Chi cago last week made a "quasi-autumn" of the other 10 per cent. It sounds very well but it will not work. To shut upifications as one would a child with meaIes.

Recognition of Georgia talent in Georgia is very rare. People far away usually get all the attention. It is a fine thing for Lamar Dodd, the artist, to have his paintings exhibited in Athens this fall.

In spite of indignant editors, Jonei Hogan, Editor, is going to keep his seat on the supreme court this week. Will opposition gradually win this and make his adversaries fight harder to defeat him?

Rob the Rotation has completed the flawless grading of 20,000 Freshmen placement examinations for Georgia's University system.

Rob is a mechanical professor. He took the examination papers from all the schools in the state's university system, absorbed them, and spurned back in piles along with the more important.

Beyond the Campus

By Carolyn Greer

Betty Grable and Eleanor Whitney were seen entering the Paramount theater last Tuesday day carrying bags of candy to eat during the performance. We are glad that our screen idol's relations were improved.

"That party the Ritz brothers were at last Thursday night was a great success. The dance, which was attended by so many of Hollywood's film stars, was really a homage in honor of Ritzana's old friend, D. W. Grimes. Everyone said that they had never had a more fine time because their hosts had so entertained them.

We've all heard of mutual newspaper associations, but "its amusing in dear old Hollywood with all the knife-stickers-in-the-back to discover such. It's Paul Muni and Agnes Tracy. Muni thinks Tracy is the lady in acting and Tracy raves over Muni in the best possible manner. It is our opinion that they are the smartest people ever to realize how good each other is—or words to that effect.

Ronald Coleman used mirrors to play the dual role in "The King of Kings." He played the part of King Balidor, reneging monarch, and of Rudolph Ramondi, an English king. He cut his nails with a pair of false hands, and discuss matters both humorously and seriously. To make sure, all the nail lines would differ from character to character. Coleman observed himself as he cut through each part. The actual placing of the two characters on the screen at the same all is a carefully-guarded technical secret.

Cinema Cynic

By Katherine Moore

Our invitation for students to take part in the Kaleidoscope resulted in more letters than we can print. After selecting the more critical ones, we hereby present the following defense for the critics.

In regard to getting some "new blood" into the Kaleidoscope, it holds outside space for stories just as long as possible before the current one has been used. We know there are some stories three, four and even five days old. We are a little angry on our own score about some of the club news. It's practically impossible to present one short story per week. We have to hold up the others until we have a meeting and announce them in the next week's edition. As for "scopo," faculty members have promised us some good ones for the year. They will come in the first issue of the paper.

Miss Black, we'll do our best to put something new in the newspaper this year. You didn't say that enough copies of the Kaleidoscope resulted in more letters than we can print after selecting the more critical ones. We hereby present the following defense for the critics.

The Kaleidoscope could be made more entertaining by being more definite.

Kampus Kaleidoscope

Good evening folks! This is Community College coming to you directly from the G. S. W. C. campus, and bringing you the latest news of the week, straight to your newspaper...

Have you heard about the fun three certain freshmen were going to have until the student government vice president and the hall monitor upset their little play cars? Three of them—set to alarm at 11:30, place around the hall in binocular boxes and every transom. By the way, have you seen Anna's array of toys? She has everything from Mickey Mouse down to a baby bottle. Hum-uh, Anna, is that the affect college has on you? Isn't it pity Libba Garbutt can't have a barbecue or hamburger, she wants to go back to a bad taste of her mouth? There was Micky Mouse, Olive Oyl and Popeye and Wimpy, Tom and Jerry, Whoopi, Ameche, Greta Garbo and Lily Pons. Inez Taylor has initiated most of the freshmen in upper Connecticut "Deltarious Society." Have you joined? If not, we advise you to see Inez at once and find out if you are eligible!

Sunday School Now Meets in Auditorium

Sunday school at G. S. W. C. is being approached in a new way this quarter. There are three classes, one for freshmen, one for sophomores, and one for juniors and seniors. Each class has a central theme of study for the quarter.

Miss Thyra Perry is teaching the freshmen and they have begun study of four gospels. Under the direction of Miss Mildred Turnbull, the sophomores are studying a development of religious conceptions from early Hebrew days up to modern times.

Miss John Odum is conducting a study of the prophetic for the junior and senior class. They have begun with Isaiah. This division is a change in Bible study on the campus and is being continued next year if it proves successful.

The classes meet each Sunday evening in the auditorium before the hour scheduled for church services in the Valdosta churches.

I Dug Weeds In My Own Back Yard", Says Miss Bush of Vacation

If you take Miss Leonora Ivey's word for it, she loafed mainly this summer. Most of her vacation was spent in New England where she attended the races at Suffolk Downs and saw the National Doubles tournament at Brookline, Mass. A trip to Puerto Rico and Santo Domingo completed her summer.

Learning to drive her new car occupied the time of Miss Evelyn Deariso, librarian. She said she achieved this aim as well as having a "wonderful summer" at her home in Sylvester, Georgia, with her family. The students of the librarian, Miss Lillian Patterson, spent a profitable summer studying at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. She enjoyed her course in library science as well as the "beautiful scenery," she said.

Not having a vacation, but bringing a brand new master's degree from North Carolina, come Miss Rosalyn Girdner, professor of French. This her first year in Valdosta, and her home is in Reidsville, North Carolina.

Miss Gladys Warren, professor of music, spent some time in the mountains of North Carolina. During July she planned a trip across Georgia to be added to the curriculum this year.

Two girls "in town" are Miss Mary Jones from Columbus, Ohio, and Miss Lillian Smith from Valdosta, Ga. After a pleasant visit to Columbus, Ohio, in a nice house, they taught in Jobsville. She had a good many mother student's, as well as five children to be beater in violin, says that she remained in Valdosta except for a visit to her sister in Tuscaloosa, Alabama, which she enjoyed very much.

Miss Louise Sawyer, professor of vocal expression, divided her time between Hollywood, Long Beach and Pasadena. While there she visited the new dam the Colorado river. During her stay in Hollywood she spent a day with her friend, Dorothy Peterson, visiting the Twentieth Century studio where the Ritz brothers were making a picture.

Grading papers of correspondence students kept Dr. Joseph Durrenberger, history and social science teacher, busy for two months. His vacation to St. Augustine Beach was "like the annals of the poor—short and simple," he said. But Dr. Durrenberger has been busy since his return. He has been working on a study of the Hebraic books and has been giving a course in Greek. He has also been working on a study of the roots of modern times.

Dr. Leo Hawks, dean of instruction and professor of mathematics, said that she rested herself during July. She made a most delightful trip to Mount McKinley in Alaska, however, to attend the scientific convention of the American Institute of Science.

Dr. Mildred Price decided there was more than one way to keep a good figure. She took lots of walks on her farm near Valdosta and read good books. Reaching in summer school at Athens and doing some music work in Valdosta kept Dr. Harold Miller busy.

Dr. Beatrice Nevins had a grand time going on field trips while studying at the University of Wisconsin.

Club Welcomes Members

The Valdosta Club, whose aim is to establish a better understanding between day and boarding students, to interpret the activities of the Valdosta Club to the town, and to unite the day students into an effective group, has extended its arms to the following new members:

Margaret Bruce, Louise Blanks, Martha Bruce, Lois Christian, Yolanda Coppage, Betty Dochen, Frances Giddens, Ernestine Girardin, Josephine Graham, Vivian Grant, Frances Lazarus, Sara Mackey, Susie Mackey.

Katherine Mundy, Louie Peebles, Helen Quarterman, Ruth Reid, Miriam Quinker, Doris Rogers, Sarah Katheryn Bassler, Vera Simpson, Bethrice Combs, Joyce Stewart, Mary Hazel Vickers, Frances Williams, Gwendolyn Winter, Mattie Ruth Parrish, Laura Faye.

An outstanding accomplishment of the Valdosta Club in the past year has been the entertainment of the senior class of the Valdosta high school. A membership in the club is limited to those seniors who are graduates of the Valdosta high school, the entertainments are performed by the students. The present year's entertainment will be given some time next month.

Club Welcomes New Members

Tuesday evening, new members, Lope Tuis and Jeanette Cox, were welcomed into the club by the president.

For their benefit, parts of the constitution concerning purpose of the club, rights and duties of officers were read. The regular date for the meetings of the club was set for the first Tuesday in each month in the Upper Rotunda.

Mrs. Odum informed the members that thirteen volumes of "Library of the World's Best Literature" by Charles Dudley Warren, contributed as last year's project, had been received by the library.

By popular vote, the Open Forum is to continue this year with Ethel Stallings acting as chairman. Plans for this year begin Friday evening and will likely be the definite meetings and program of this group will be announced at a later date.

Relations for the office of secretary-treasurer were reported by a nominating committee and Clara Mae Sasser was elected.

Mrs. Odum's talk was the highlight of the evening. Her superpowers began with her trip across the Atlantic on the "Normandie," the largest ship in the world, and continued through Europe. Mrs. Odum illustrated her talk by the use of picture folders.

Fine Arts Complete Tryouts

The tryouts for the student opera "Fiddling" have been ended. The production, taught by Norma Hoffman and Gay Davidson, is to open Friday evening at 8:30 in the Upper Rotunda.

The hat may be hidden east of the town, and the city will be the scene of the annual senior trip in the spring. The Administration Building is included, with the exception of the music department, which is to be done in the fall. Social Welfare Division Adds Study of Child Welfare

Of the fourteen students who took up the study of social welfare this year, ten are now actively engaged directors of, or assistants in county welfare departments, according to Dr. J. A. Durrenberger, head of the social science studies.

The problem of social welfare work is being continued this year on the same basis as last spring. In addition to the courses previously offered the department has added a new course on child welfare.

This child welfare course will provide the work of important people interested in social welfare. It is a study of the delinquent children and the care of the child at home as well as in institutions. It also includes legislation of the juvenile court, the causes of juvenile delinquency and the methods of prevention.
