

Hope Revived For Restoring Georgia Colleges

The Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools opened the way today for the quick readmission of Georgia's colleges and universities to membership, the Associated Press reported at noon today. The Association ruled that the ten units of the University System which were dropped last December might be reinstated when the state corrects by statute "conditions leading to the suspension of the institutions." The association, which ordinarily takes final action in such cases only at its annual meetings, empowered the Executive Committee to restore the schools immediately upon recommendation of a special committee.

The Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools convened in Memphis on December 1 for its first session since G.S.W.C. and other state institutions were dropped. Governor-elect Eills Arnall, Marion Smith, former chairman of the Board of Regents, and Chancellor

S. V. Sanford were the committee representing the interests of the University System at the meeting.

They sought the appointment of a committee with power to act on the application for readmission into the Association after the General Assembly meets in February and passes measures correcting existing weaknesses in the University System set-up.

Governor-elect Arnall introduced Marion Smith, prominent Atlanta attorney, to the association as "the man who probably will be the next chairman of the Board of Regents."

Following Governor Eugene Falmadge's ousting of Dean Cocking, of the University of Georgia, on suspicion of the dean's favoring co-racial education in Georgia, and the governor's "tampering unduly with others of the University System personnel", the association found it advisable to suspend more than half the units of the system.

Colleges dropped were: The Georgia School of Technology, Atlanta; Georgia Teachers College, Stateboro; Georgia State College for Women, Milledgeville; the University of Georgia, Athens; Georgia Southwestern College, Americus; West Georgia College, Carrollton; Abraham Baldwin Agriculture College, Tifton; North Georgia College, Dahlonega; South Georgia College, Douglas; Georgia State Womans College, Valdosta.

NUMBER 8

Curtain Goes Up At 8:30 On 'Letters To Lucerne'

The curtain goes up at 8:30 tonight on the Sock and Buskin Club's charming play of the present war, "Letters To Lucerne", a drama in three acts by Fritz Rotter and Allen Vincent. The cast, directed by Miss Louise Sawyer, has done such a convincing job that the few who have peeped in for final rehearsals were rushing away tears before the second act was over.

The story concerns an American school in Switzerland in which students from France, England, Poland, Germany, and the United States are enrolled. It is their custom to read their day's mail at bedtime each night, and although the school in Switzerland seems isolated from the world conflict, news creeps through these letters to cause bitterness among the girls.

Betty MaJette plays the role of Mrs. Hunter, head of the school, and Beth Rollison plays Miss Linder, her assistant.

The six students are: Polish Olga Karinski, played by Beth Whitaker; German Erna Schmidt, played by Rachel Parks; French Felice Renoir, played by Betty Barnes; English Marian Curwood, played by Mary Agnes Wolff; and Americans Sally Jackson, played by Sara Catherine Martin, and Bingo Hill, played by Henrietta Walker.

No Accents

No attempt is made on the part of any of the girls to speak with an accent, but each girl seemed at the final rehearsals to get so completely into the spirit of her part that the audience cannot help but feel the nationality of each.

A lieutenant stationed at Moody Field, Billy Howard, furnishes the romantic interest as Hans Schmidt. Oppie Brummitt, a student at the college has the role of Koppler, the policeman.

Helping Mrs. Hunter to keep the school open during the perilous war days are two loyal servants, Gertrude, played by Maria Davis, and Margarethe, played by Christine Young. Virginia Torbert plays the part of the postmistress who brings the important letters to Lucerne.

The play production class is assisting the Sock and Buskin in producing "Letters To Lucerne." Dr. Earl Phelan, an honorary member of the dramatic club, has assisted with special lighting effects. Furniture used in the play is through the courtesy of Register's Furniture Company.

Members of the G.S.W.C. String Ensemble will provide music for the performance. "I Left My Heart at the Stage Door Canteen", by Irving Berlin, will be heard as a theme reminding the audience that proceeds from the play go to the American Theatre Wing. The Wing sponsors, among numerous other wartime activities, the Stage Door Canteens of New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Los Angeles, and other American cities.

International Theme

An appropriate group of international airs will be played as an overture to the evening's performance. (Continued on page four)

Undershirts Go 'Society'

By HARRIET FLOURNOY

Undershirts, yes, undershirts, are now seen in polite campus society. These are unusual undershirts with respectable lineage to be sure, but undershirts nevertheless. Once upon a time they were worn as outer garments and were known as polo shirts, and they are most often to be seen in alternating stripes of light and dark colors.

Julia Storer and Kitty Harms like to wear their shirts under long sleeve blouses. They have matching sox for each of their shirts—it has been said that on cold nights they even sleep in them.

Jane Williams To Give Program At Coming Assembly

Jane Williams, who will complete her work toward her bachelor's degree this quarter, will present a speech recital at the assembly hour Wednesday, December 9. She will be assisted by Beth Rollison, who is also a speech minor.

The program to be presented is a one-act play, "Happiness" by Hartley Manners. Miss Williams will play the role of Jenny and Miss Rollison has the part of Mrs. Pole.

Miss Williams, a sociology major and a speech minor, is completing her work in slightly more than three years time. She is a member of the Sock and Buskin Club and has ap- (Continued on page four)

Modern But Festive Meal Mark GSWC Yule Season

By M. F. DONALSON

In keeping with the sacrifices and expense-cutting attempts being made all over the nation, G.S.W.C. students this year are giving up the traditional Old English Christmas Festival in favor of a streamlined dinner party. On the evening of December twelfth faculty members, dormitory and day students will assemble in the college dining hall for Christmas dinner and a Fine Arts program afterwards. Instead of the elaborate and expensive costumes reminiscent of feudal England, however, the group will wear modern evening dress.

The Fine Arts program will consist of short numbers from the Music, Speech and Physical Education departments. The Speech Department under the direction of Miss Louise Sawyer will present "Christmas Gifts" by Loretta Hogan and "The Night Before Christmas" by Clement Clark Moore. Choral-leaders who will take part in this are: Maria Davis, Virginia Torbert, Jeanne Whittendale, Mary Frances Donalson, Edythe Cannady, Elsie Goodson, and Mary Agnes Wolff.

The entire Modern Dancing Class of Miss Leonora Ivey, head of the Physical Education Department, will present several dances suited to the occasion. In the class are Alpha Mae Castleberry, Dot Sawyer, Evelyn Gillis, Anne Bacon, Pat Forrester, Rachel Cunningham, Judy Power, Catherine Garbutt, Betty Burke, Alice Gordon, Barbara Bell, Mary Creech, Martha Goodwin, Beth Rollison, Sara Allen Mathews, Constance Kinsler, and Elsie Goodson.

From the music department will come songs by the Chapel Choir, the Serenaders, and the Glee Club. The Chapel Choir will sing a traditional tinker's carol from Ashdown Forest, "The Seven Joys of Mary." Members of the Chapel Choir are Pat Forrester, Harriet Flournoy, Martha Goodwin, Nell Turner, Cleo Mescure, Mary Ellen Compton, Lorraine Anchors, Eugenia Reed, Margie Dorrough, Louise Rowland, Kathleen Hall, Jo McNeill, Beth Jones, Ida Maude McKinnon, Mary Melvin, Selina Williams, Ava Collins, and Annette Massey. Mr. Clifton White is in charge of this group.

Directed by Miss Marie Motter the Serenaders and Glee Club will present several numbers. The Serenaders will sing the "Children's Prayer" from "Hansel and Gretel", then will be joined by the Glee Club in Irving Berlin's popular composition, "White Christmas." The Glee Club will also sing "O Holy Night" by Adams.

The Serenaders include: Ruth Taylor, Corinne Smith, Frances Loosier, Glynn Hill, Margie Dorrough, Betty Sullivan, Rosalind Barnhill, Mary Beth Woodward, Martha Ashley, and Ruth Jinks.

Eight Seniors Selected For Pine Cone Feature Section

Voting this morning by the entire student body resulted in the selection of eight seniors considered the most outstanding whose pictures will appear in the feature section of the Pine Cone.

The eight girls are: Student Government President Sara Catherine Martin, Y.W.C.A. President June Mosely, Senior Class President Jean Thompson, Canopy Editor Jacqueline Smith, Pine Cone Editor, Jean Saunders, Glee Club President Corinne Smith, Fine Arts Club President Gwen Johnson, and Sports Club Officer Alice Meadors.

Students chose this group from a list of sixteen seniors judged most prominent in campus affairs by a committee of lowerclassmen. Miss Annie P. Hopper served as an ex-officio member of the committee. Jean Saunders, as editor of the yearbook, supervised the polls.

The remaining eight of the sixteen girls selected by the committee are: Betty Barnes, Annette Blackburn, Tenzie Coleman, Harriet Flournoy, Elizabeth Gillis, Jean Mobley, Ruth Taylor and Elizabeth Fender Thomas.

Miss Martin, a sociology major, is president of S.G.A., was vice-president last year, and was president of her Sophomore Class. She was chairman of Presidents' Council for one quarter during her sophomore year and is a member of the council this year also. She is a member of the Artist Series Committee and a former member of the Student Attendance Committee. She was a member of both Freshman and Sophomore Councils and was deputation speaker for the Y.W.C.A. last year. She is a Phi Kappa, a member of Sports Council this year, and has won awards four years. She has been a member of the Canopy staff since her freshman year and is now a columnist. She has also been a member of the Pine Cone staff for four years and of the advertising staffs of both publications for a year. A member of the Sock and Buskin, she is appearing in the current club production. She is a member of the Sociology Club, a past member of the Philharmonic Club and the GSWC String Ensemble, and won her GSWC emblem during her sophomore year.

Miss Moseley, an English major, is president of the Y.W.C.A., was vice-president last year and assistant vice-president the preceding year. She has been secretary-treasurer of the Glee Club for two years, is a member of the Presidents' Council, the Sociology Club, the English Club, Sports Club, and a former member and advisor of the Freshman Council. She is chairman of the Student Attendance Committee. Last year she was awarded the GSWC Emblem.

Miss Johnson, art major, was S.G.A.'s Student Recorder of Points last year and is at present secretary-treasurer of the association. She is president of the Fine Arts Club, having served last year as vice-president. She is also chairman of the Artist last year.

Series Committee, a member of the Presidents' Council, and a former member of the Sports Council, the Y.W.C.A. Cabinet, and the Freshman and Sophomore Councils. She will be given her GSWC Emblem this spring.

Miss Thompson, a sociology major, is president of the Senior Class. She was house-president of Ashley Hall during her Sophomore year, secretary-treasurer of the Sophomore Class, and an S.G.A. monitor during her first two years here. She was treasurer of the Y.W.C.A. last year. She is chairman of the Presidents' Council, a member of the Senior Honor Society, and former member-at-large of the International Relations Club. She won her GSWC Emblem last year.

Corinne Smith, voice major, has been Glee Club president for two years. She is also president of the Senior Honor Society, and former two-year girl representative to the Student-Faculty Honor Council. She is a member of the Serenaders, Presidents' Council, former secretary-treasurer of the Philharmonic Club, was vice-president of her Freshman Class, and a former member of the Valdosta Club and the Freshman Honor Society.

Alice Meadors, an English major, is vice-president of the Sports Club, and was treasurer of the club during the last two years. She won awards during her first two years. She has been a member of Y.W.C.A. Cabinet for two years and is an advisor to Freshman Council, and a former member of both Freshman and Sophomore Councils. She is a member of the Artist Series Committee, the Sociology Club, wearer of the GSWC Emblem, and a former member of the Vesper Choir, and the Canopy advertising staff.

Jacqueline Smith, piano major, is editor of the Campus Canopy. Last year she served as associate editor, her sophomore year as editorial assistant, and freshman year as a reporter and headline writer. She was literary editor of the Pine Cone last year, is Senior Honor Society historian, and a member of the Presidents' Council, the Sociology Club, and Philharmonic Club, and accompanist for the GSWC String Ensemble. She is former vice-president of the Freshman Honor Society, former member of the Glee Club, and won her G.S.W.C. Emblem last year. She was chairman of the Finance Committee this year and is a member of the Committee on Publications.

Jean Saunders, biology major, is editor of the Pine Cone. She was on the make-up staff of the annual last year, and was managing editor of the Campus Canopy. She is also a former reporter and headline writer on the Canopy. She is secretary-treasurer of the Senior Class, a member of Presidents' Council, Fine Arts Club, and Math-Science Club. She is a former member of the Sports Club, the Vesper Choir, and the Camera Club. She won her GSWC Emblem last year.

A Christmas to Remember

The American people started wishing a Merry Christmas so early this year—in order that boys in foreign service get their Christmas greetings in time—that the Canopy's saying "Merry Christmas" on the fourth of December probably seems quite natural. The staff of the Canopy takes this opportunity to wish you a joyous Christmas, a Christmas you will remember.

Remember this Christmas because you watched the seniors walk elegantly about the Rotunda in their white gowns on December tenth to hang the greens for yuletide. Remember this Christmas because of the beautifully-appointed Christmas Dinner on December twelfth that made you feel so close to members of the college family. Remember this Christmas because of the cards you received from your college chums and the carols your college glee club sang and the traditions that make your Christmas different from anyone else's.

Make this a Christmas you'll be proud to remember because you mailed your Christmas cards earlier than usual and helped the postal clerks to enjoy the season a fraction more than they otherwise would. Make this a Christmas you'll be proud to remember because each gift was purchased without haste, apart from the Christmas Eve rush, and because there were many War Stamps among those gifts that will help to make the Christmases to come happier.

Christmases make such happy memories. . . .

OTHER COLLEGES are talking about the 'teen-age draft bill, which current news magazines would have us believe will have swept co-ed and all-men-student universities clean by February. As a matter of fact Jay Richter, ACP's Washington correspondent, says only one-third of all male collegians will be taken. Approximately 25 per cent probably won't be taken because of physical disabilities, and those already enlisted in college reserve training courses and in senior ROTC won't be taken—they're already in the army.

Mr. Richter points out, it's only a dim-out, a blackout of educational opportunity for college 'teen-agers. Once they're in the army, they may take aptitude and intelligence tests to determine whether they may return to college for technical and scientific training.

Other campuses are announcing their choices for "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges." G.S.W.C. is picking no students whose biographies will appear in this year's edition, "because it merely creates a little flurry on the campus at the time

JANE WILLIAMS

Here's a girl who's finishing up her four years' work this quarter! The brownhaired little president of the Sociology Club, who minors in speech, will present her speech recital next week at assembly, take her exams in a few weeks, and begin eyeing wider fields for her social endeavors in a month or so!

Jane is a member of Presidents' Council, the Sociology Club, Sock and Buskin Club, SGA, YWCA, and is a former member of the Sports Club. She appeared in the Sock and Buskin play "The Old Maid." Child welfare is her favorite phase of social work and she would like to do something in this line after graduation.

Newly returned from a week-end at Auburn, Jane recalled that her most thrilling moment was her first trip to Auburn during her freshman year to the Kappa Sigma formal with orchids, cute boys, 'n everything!

Many and varied are the list of her pet "likes" and they range all the way from football games to high heeled shoes. Better than anything else she likes dancing, but she also enjoys reading novels and biography, playing bridge, eating steak ("because you feel so healthy afterwards"), and riding horseback—either Little Bits of her own horse. (By the way, she rode in the Horse Show last spring) She'll usually be seen in sports clothes with an occasional frilly creation but you can bet it'll be blue no matter what it is! She likes plain jewelry, pins (wings, especially), and used to collect bracelets until she lost 'em all. Benny Goodman rates with her but definitely and so does Harry James. "He Wears A Pair of Silver Wings" is a favorite selection.

If the lads want to make a hit with Jane they don't send her a corsage for a dance, they send her flowers for her hair instead.

Riding crowded buses annoys her no end with the dirt, confusion, and treamensness of it all. Rolling up her hair is another pet phobia, but most of us can sympathize with her on

MARY NEWTON BAKER

Mary Baker is another Senior who will not return after Christmas, although she will take a couple of courses by correspondence. She is keeping up with records set by three of her cousins who have finished in less than four years.

An English major and sociology minor, she has been a member of the Glee Club, Sociology Club, Sock and Buskin, Sports Club, and Vesper Choir.

Mary is one of several GSWC students who have successfully combined marriage and college. (She says her grades have been much better since a certain date last February, too!) She is anxious to get her degree so that she will be better prepared either to teach or to do clerical work when "Billy" is drafted.

In case you're wondering, Mary was introduced to her future husband by his cousin when she was dating said cousin. She had her first date with him a year later and six months later she made a permanent date with him! She confesses that the most thrilling moment in her life occurred when she received her diamond but she was a very frightened little soul when she marched down that seemingly endless aisle!

Mary is fond of reading and is perfectly satisfied to curl up somewhere with any book she may happen to pick up. "Fanny Kemble", a biography, has a particular appeal and she has read it three times.

A talented dancer who has taken lessons for eight years, Mary enjoys dancing with her husband most of all. Speaking of talents, she is also an accomplished cook and really likes to whip up tasty concoctions for hubby.

Always neat and carefully dressed, she usually appears in tailored clothes in shades of blue and green. Never able to find a brand of lipstick to exactly suit her, she compromises by keeping about four or five different varieties on hand all the time.

Here's something that will astound you readers: this girl can't bear Robert Taylor! Bette Davis and Ronald

Martin Has Money Troubles

Letters are peculiar things. They have a way of getting back at one when he least expects it. Four years ago when I was a Freshman I wrote a Canopy feature on the typical GSWC girl's letter home and it reeked with requests for money. I clipped the article, enclosed it with my weekly donation drive and sent it home to papa. Then I grew up and promptly forgot all about it until today. This came in the mail.

"Miss Martin:

"Time marches on but you stay as economically dependent as you were. Four years and you haven't changed one bit. So in reply to your latest request I send the check and enclosed you will find one letter.

"Dear Daughter:

"I hope you are well. I feel pretty good, but I'm sadly in need of money. There is so much expense attached to my business and, well you know how it is—money sorta goes in a hurry. I have been intending to write you every day but I have been so busy with duty call, club meetings and social engagements that I just haven't had time. Then I didn't have a stamp either. One of the fellows down here got this one from the boss' desk. He'll never miss it, and besides, what is three cents between friends.

"I do wish the boss would take the hint and raise my salary. I can't possibly clothe myself, attend all the functions where everybody who is anybody goes and still live comfortably on what he pays me. I'm going to ask him to give me some extra for the Red Cross drives, etc. He can't possibly expect me to pay for those things out of what I make. By the way for Christmas you might contribute something toward buying me a new suit I'm practically bare, since you and your mother cut most of mine up making suits for yourselves. I'm positively ashamed to get out in public looking like I do.

"I had an unusual surprise this week when three bills were delivered simultaneously for one evening dress $19.95, one tweed suit $14.75 and a pair of black dress shoes $5.00. I was sure there must have been a mistake some where so I sent the bills back and had them cancel the order.

"That's all the news for now.

"Love,

"Dad.

"P. S.—Since your last visit home I haven't been able to find my brown hat, one shirt, a pair of winter pajamas, three ties, and a tie chain. Have you any idea where they are?"

Barnes Describes a War-Time Train Ride

Now most everybody likes to ride on trains—just something about 'em—but there are times . . .

Coming home from Atlanta two week-ends ago, we boarded the train at twelve fifteen—and talk about things being crowded (remember that cute little game we used to play, called Sardines?—well it was something like that.) Sat by a nice man (grandfather that he was) who immediately proceeded to tell me about Little Jane (his only grandchild) . . . Yellow curls, so much personality, and the brightest little mind ever (you know the usual "only grandchild" type.)

After an hour, just before pulling out, some soldiers turned on their portable to a news broadcast—"First item", chirped the cheerful announcer, "comes from Valdosta!" Well sir, I just beamed all over! Wondered what nice, patriotic thing we had done. Then "Train wreck—three killed—several injured" floated into my hazy mind. Everybody got so quiet you could almost hear their silent prayers. Immediately after the announcement, the train started—which was a good thing because two elderly ladies were right ready to pris themselves off "Train wreck, indeed!

We huffed and puffed quite unconcernedly to Macon, where we had to change trains (Public Nuisance No. 1). The train would be late, so we had to perch on our bags right in front of the mighty contraption of steel—Do wish I had time to go into detail about that train but suffice it to

English Club To Sponsor Poetic Pauses Discussion Of Tolstoy's Novel, 'War And Peace'

For those students who have read or who wish to read the Russian novel, "War and Peace," by Count Leo Tolstoy, the English Club is sponsoring a new campus organization, The War and Peace Club, which will have its first meeting within the next week.

"Although this club has as its immediate purpose to stimulate the students to read one of the greatest novels ever written, there are other purposes," said Jean Mobley, English Club president. "First, the War and Peace Club wishes to create interest in the reading of more books, and books that are up to the college level of reading. Second, there is a definite need on this campus of discussion groups, but up to the present time there have not been many because the students have not known how to organize them. The War and Peace Club hopes to create interest in discussion groups through the discussing of the book War and Peace by the members of the club."

All students who have read or intend to read Tolstoy's War and Peace are eligible to be members. A paper will be placed on the bulletin board in the Administration building for those who wish to join to sign.

Four sophomores, Catherine Garbutt, Mary Sue Wilson, Mary Agnes Wolff, and Grantland Miller, have already bought copies of War and Peace and expressed a desire to become members of the club.

The first meeting, which will be before the holidays, will be announced soon.

I. R. C. To Sponsor Knitting Campaign

Diana Psaki was elected to represent the International Relations Club in the forthcoming Beauty Contest at the regular meeting Tuesday night.

In line with the Club's policy of devoting this year's programs to the subject of "Keeping Up With the War," Marguerite LaHood and Doris Callahan presented an interesting program on Jimmy Doolittle and the African Front.

Further plans were made for the International Relations Club dance to be held on the first Saturday night after the Christmas holidays.

The members considered the possibility of starting a campaign to interest other students in knitting and in giving wool yarn to the Red Cross. Details of this campaign will appear on the bulletin boards.

Refreshments were served.

Freshman Group Presents Vesper Service Sunday

The program for the Sunday night Vespers will be conducted by the Freshman Worship Group of the Freshman Council. Pat Forrester is chairman of this group.

Thursday Alpha Mae Castleberry, Morning Watch Chairman of the "Y", was the speaker. Her topic was "You—The Person You Live With". Catherine Garbutt assisted.

TIRED

They let my brother go where fancy led;

They gave, to me, a little house to sweep.

"He's like his restless dad," they always said,

While I had hens to feed and bees to keep.

Through all the years I played a quiet part

In that small town with all its rigid bans;

While all my brother's letters hurt my heart

With talk of ships and roving caravans.

I braided mats and stitched the endless seams;

I washed the dishes, and I brushed the crumbs;

And no one knew that, in rebellious dreams,

I heard a temple bell and jungle drums.

They never thought, though it may be true,

Annual Fine Arts Christmas Bazaar Now In Progress

The annual Christmas Bazaar sponsored by the Fine Arts Club was held today and will continue through Saturday morning. Proceeds from the Bazaar this year will be given to the War Bond Scholarship Fund. Gwen Johnson is president of the club.

Items of all types were exhibited for sale. Attractive gifts included vases, stationery, toys, costume jewelry, pictures, and knick-knacks.

On the advertising committee were Reaunette Everette and Betty Jane Dorrough. Arrangement of the gifts was in charge of Mary Ellen Compton, Kathleen Hall, and Josephine McNeill. Virginia Snow, Catherine Garbutt, Jean Saunders, Julia Frances McCorkle, and Maria Davis composed the committee to arrange for obtaining the gifts to be sold.

The studio was arranged by a committee with Elia Meadors as chairman. The members included Jane Rogers, Emmie Carter, and Anita Hunt.

The public was cordially invited to attend. Students may also be able to buy the last few items early Saturday morning.

Bond Queen To Be Chosen

Something to look forward to after Christmas besides making New Year's resolutions and exchanging unappreciated Christmas gifts is the beauty contest to be sponsored by the Sophomore Class. Each of the campus clubs and classes, by paying a one dollar entrance fee, may sponsor a girl. These dollars will go to buy a prize for the winner, a $25 War Bond, which she will present to her club and which the club will in turn present to the War Bond Scholarship Fund.

In addition to the contest the Sophomore Class is also arranging an entertaining program for which they will charge a small admission hoping to further the cause of the War Bond Scholarship. Judges will be impartial.

Clubs, vying for the campus' prettiest, are already choosing the member who is to represent them. Up to date the clubs and the girls they are sponsoring are: Ethelyn Powell, for the Campus Canopy; Catherine Garbutt, for the Fine Cone; Marolyn Rowland, for Sports Council; Gwen Johnson, for the Senior Class; Dorothy Sawyer, for the Junior Class; Diana Psaki, for the International Relations Club; Jean Thompson, for the Senior Honor Society; Corinne Smith, for the Philharmonic Club; Rachel Cunningham, for the Sock and Buskin Club; Janet Joyner, for the Language Club; Mary Ellen Compton, for the Fine Arts Club; and Beth Whitaker, for the English Club.

The contest will be held in the auditorium early in January. The contestants will appear in formal dress. Catherine Garbutt, president of the Sophomore Class, is in charge of arrangements.

Reagan win her approval and she doesn't miss any of their pictures. During her freshman year she was elected Queen of the Turpentine Convention and received quite a few fan letters.

Another thing she recalls about her freshman year is the dormitory life she experienced then. She thinks that girls really get to know each other and are much more congenial when they live together as one big family.

McKinnon Champ In Table Tennis

Freshman Ida Maude McKinnon was officially named "Table Tennis Terror" and "Predominant Paddle Performer" when she defeated Sara Catherine Martin in the Paddle Battle finals Wednesday night. A huge crowd witnessed this event. Only two games were played, Miss McKinnon winning both of them by identical scores of 21-16, 21-16. Ruth Reid officiated.

To win her place in the finals, Miss McKinnon defeated Kitty Harms, while Miss Martin defeated Julia Storer.

Miss McKinnon when interviewed after the match only said: "The Frosh ride again!" Miss Martin, when questioned by this reporter, quipped: "Martin missed her major moment when McKinnon managed to make the match."

Entries in the tourney were: Eunice Fairchild, Nina Harris, Kitty Harms, Maudine Blair, Dorothy Hinton, Catherine Hickson, Julia Storer, Martha Ashley, Marolyn Rowland, Dorothy White, Jane Rogers, Mary Frances Donalson, Ethel Bentley, and Harriet Flournoy.

Kappas Again Win In American Ball

Winning their second American ball game of the season, the Kappas downed the Lambdas 2-0 in Monday's game. This quarter the score stands Kappas 2, Lambdas 1, and 1 tie game.

Making their first goal early in the first quarter when Meadors kicked from the sideline, the Kappas fought desperately to score once more. The defense of the Lambdas prevented their scoring until the last quarter when Ashley made a break and rushed down the field to score once again.

Outstanding on defense for the Lambdas were Langdale, Alderman, and Taylor, while the Kappas were led by Martin, Meadors, and Ashley.

The official line-up follows:

Kappas	Lambdas
Roberts	Crane
Gainey	Alderman
Clements	Taylor
Maxwell	Langdale
Hill	Finklea
Rowe	*Griffin
Martin	Wilson
Flournoy	Powell
Ashley	E. Meadors
A. Meadors	Joiner
Best	Lawson

*Turner—substituted for Griffin.

score of 22-19. Supper was served after the meeting. Mary Frances Donalson and Grace Lawson, the official "kitchen committee" were in charge of arrangements.

Lambdas Score A Decisive Victory

The Lambdas scored a smashing victory over the Kappas in Monday's fistball game, crushing them by scores of 18-9, and 23-13. This was the most decisive victory won by a team this season.

Superior teamwork on the part of the Lambdas proved to be the major factor in the defeat of the "Big Red Team." The Purples were on the offensive at all times, and could not be stopped, despite the valiant efforts made by the Kappas, led by S. C. Martin. Numerous rooters, including quite a few campus celebrities, were on hand to witness the gala event of the fall season.

The official line-up follows:

Lambdas	Kappas
Vaughn	Martin
Statham	Statham
Goodwin	Goodwin
Powell	Powell
Jones	Jones
Pattilo	Pattilo
Smith	Smith
Clements	Clements

GOOD TO SEE YUH after such a long vacation. Got plenty of things to talk to you about so just where would you like to start?

THE PHYSICAL FITNESS FUND IS still on and those boxes aren't too heavy to lift with one hand. Let's get a substantial start before Xmas!!!

ORCHIDS ARE IN ORDER THIS WEEK TO Jean Rowe, a grand team player all season. S. C. Martin, an all-round sportswoman.

Grace Lawson and Mary F. Donalson, for providing the Sports Council with real coffee and sugar at the supper Tuesday night.

"Two-Gun" Meadors, Harriett Flournoy, Sunny Taylor, and Louise Ogburn, valuable team members throughout the season.

BASKETBALL SEASON IS FAST approaching our campus. Are all of you stars ready to shine? The winter quarter will give you this opportunity. We have some excellent material in the freshman class, so everybody come out for basketball next quarter.

OUR SPORTS QUEEN OF THE WEEK was a difficult task. After several press conferences (during which time my assistant (?) and I both suggested ourselves for this honor) we have hit upon what we think is a grand solution. As you know, each week we have attempted to pick one outstanding person in campus sports.

Sometimes this is a hard job; there are so many good sportswoman on our campus. Somehow we wanted to throw some bouquets at all those freshmen who have gone out for sports and really taken an interest. They have played hard and clean, and always come up smiling. You're a swell bunch, freshmen. So, the Press nominates THE FRESHMAN CLASS, as our SPORTS QUEENS OF THE WEEK!

LOOKING FORWARD TO NEXT QUARTER we find that the Sports Club initiation is due the early part of January. This event promises to be lots of fun, so let's all take it in the good spirit in which it is given.

MERRY XMAS TO YOU ALL.

Lougenia Davis, Janet Joyner and Doris Callahan thought that it was funny that this fad has just come into the eyes of the press—they have been wearing these shirts for over two years. Sara Petty, Sis Brown, Sarah Bowen and Betty Dukes have an array of these little polo shirts that will not wait.

JANE WILLIAMS— (Continued from page one) peared in several dramatic productions here. Among them are "Ladies In Retirement," "The Old Maid," and the one-act Christmas play, "Why the Chimes Rang."

Miss Rollison, who is assisting her, is appearing in the current Sock and Buskin Club production, "Letters To Lucerne."

The play is directed by Miss Louise Sawyer, head of the Speech Department.

WINTER QUARTER PLANS MADE AT COUNCIL SUPPER

The Sports Council met Tuesday afternoon at the House-In-The-Woods to discuss plans for the winter quarter. President Martha Ashley presided and an open discussion was held. The Council voted against having any more match games this quarter in American ball and fistball. Plans for the Archery Tourney on Saturday morning were discussed. The Lambdas now lead in the race for the Sports Club placque by a
