Sociology Teacher Will Join Faculty Here Next Quarter

Tuesday Dr. Frank R. Reade announced that a new sociology teacher would be added to the faculty next quarter. Mrs. Frank Crane, a native Valdostian, will teach two classes of Sociology 111.

Mrs. Crane was born in Valdosta, later moving to Danville, Virginia, then to Chattanooga, Tennessee. She returned to Valdosta and graduated from Valdosta High School. She attended Shorter College in Rome and the University of Georgia in Athens, from which she graduated in 1940 with an A.B. degree in sociology.

Her family lives in Barney, Georgia, and her husband is a Captain, stationed England with the U.S. Army.

Dr. Olive M. Stone, head of the sociology department, will remain on campus, conducting private research.

Frosh and Faculty 100% for Red Cross

It's hats off to the Freshmen of Converse Hall! With their 100% goal reached in the Red Cross Drive on March 1-6, the freshmen take top honors on the campus. The Sociology Club team which collected from Converse was headed by Annette Massey. Alpha Mae Castleberry reports that her team went over the top with 100% of the faculty contributing.

Mary Mason, Sociology Club President, and head of the G.S.W.C. drive, announced today that approximately $275 had been donated by faculty and students.

The Club was divided into five teams. Head of the Senior Hall team was Ruth Hauser; Ashley, Betty Street; Converse, Annette Massey; faculty, Alpha Mae Castleberry; town girls, Anita Hunt.

There was no quota to be reached in the drive, but each captain had as her goal 100% contributions. Although the real drive was over March 6 at G.S.W.C., the team captains are still collecting from those who were unable to contribute. To those who haven't a word—put aside some of haven't a word—just put aside some of that check for the team captain who will come around to see you.

The Senior Honor Society has announced that the following girls have received bids to their organization: Maye Copeland, Betty Street, Mary Esther Carter, Doris King and Virginia Patillo.

All Classes Take Part in Rewriting School Constitution

Representatives from all the classes have been elected to work with Student Government officials in rewriting the General Regulations and the regulations for specific classes. These representatives will also offer suggestions from the classes to Student Government. The representatives are: Sarah Petty, Jean Williams, and Martha Williams, from the Senior class; Mary Melvin, Mary Agnes Wolff, and Helen Davis, Jr., from the Junior class; Ida Maude McKinnon, Mildred Wisdom, and Harriet Singleary, from the Sophomores, and Clare Carson, Bruce Thompson, Bea Rainbow, and Peggie Raiford from the Freshmen.

A committee composed of the Student Government Officers, Martha Goodwin, Emily Dekle, and Mary Creech, and the presidents of the classes, Kitty Harms, Betty Peters, Jean Rowe, and Jean Martin, are combining the suggestions offered by the class representatives and rewriting the constitution.

A trial constitution will be presented to the student body next quarter. The members of the Presidents Council will explain it to the student body, which will be divided into classes for this purpose.

A Code of Ethics, a result of the one now used by the Freshman, will soon be instituted for all students. It is announced.

Speech Class 302 Gives "One Acts"

The Speech 302 class, which is acting and directing plays, has just finished its quarter one-act plays.

Two of these plays were presented Wednesday night, and three were presented Thursday night.

The plays were presented before members of the class and visitors, and two of them were presented at the regular meeting of the Sock and Buskin Club, Tuesday evening. These two were directed by Nina Harris and Betty Peters.

Each member of the class selected a play and acted as director. The

Artist Series Programs Bring Varied Problems

By BUNNY BLOUNT

"What time is it? Something told me I shouldn't have gone to the show this afternoon when I knew we were having an Artist Series program tonight. Now I'm afraid I'll never be dressed in time and I do want a good seat for a change.

Oh where, oh where did I put my blue evening dress after I wore it last. It isn't in the closet and I don't remember putting it away in a box. I'll look in all these boxes under the bed thought. Heavens, here's that lavender hair ribbon that just matches my sweater—and I accused my room-mate of swiping it. What do you know!—And here's the mate to that blue sock that I threw away yesterday because it didn't have a mate. I should have known something like this would happen. Ouch!! My head! And two bobby pins! (Moral: "Sweep under the bed every day," or "He who sweeps under his own bed must lie on it." No, that's not right.)

Oh, anyway, where is my blue evening dress? That's what I'm supposed to be looking for. Oh, I remember, somebody borrowed it the other day to go to the graduation dance . . . don't some people have all the luck. Oh well, I'll just borrow Mary's white one. I've been dying to wear it anyway and this will be a good excuse. Now where is my other garter . . . I know I must have had it Sunday . . . I went to Church. Heck! I'll just use leg make-up. It won't show anyway. Now I'm afraid I won't have time to re-do my nails. But I meant to—that's almost the same thing and I can patch up this coat and nobody will know the difference—(I like to think.) Of all times for my hair to develop a mind of its own.

Now, I guess I'm all ready, but I do look a sight! I shouldn't even go. Wait, let me write a note so I'll be sure to sweep under the bed in the morning. I might find that golf ball I lost last quarter and I missed my only empty toothpaste tube yesterday.

Now I'm ready at last. I hope I look all right. I always did hate to dress in a hurry . . . My, doesn't everybody look pretty. I wonder if all the other girls have as much trouble dressing as I do. Why hello, Mary Jane, I see you are ready after all . . . Why thank you, you look awfully nice yourself. Let's sit up near the front . . ."

YOUR EDITOR WRITES

Ten years ago after GSWC had existed for twenty-one years without an official newspaper, the Campus Canopy was originated.

Plans were made then, and by every editor since, to have a space for publishing student letters, but the paucity of these letters is appalling.

The Canopy is, and will continue to be, YOUR paper—the paper edited by the students for the students.

It is the intention of the present staff to maintain this policy of reflecting student opinion. We want your letters—letters telling us what you think about any subject pertaining to our college.

It looks as if Cupid were working overtime on the GSWC campus this past week-end, judging by the number of unusually happy faces.

Juking around together were Helt Davis Jr. and "Hans", that most attractive college man from Atlanta.

Ann Bacon came in from Doerun Sunday all wreathed in smiles. Maybe that could be explained by the fact that she had a very nice visitor Friday—that cute "Buddy" Harp of the Army Air Corps.

"Sister" Hinton was seen during the week-end with a "back home" flame — Theodore Barrow, better known as "Ditty".

We read just last week that Kitty Harris had a new picture of Johnny and then Friday we saw Johnny himself—here to spend the week-end!!

Other current news on the campus—Betty Lee and Carolyn Dozier out with Carl and Joe, from Albany.

Betty McGinty, Joanna Barrineau, and Edith Collins strolling around with those cute little Moody Field cadets.

Joan Maupin's new idea on interior decorating—she's pasting Pratt's letters in a line along the wall and waiting to see how long it will take the line to "meet itself"!!

Gwen Hannigan all thrilled over Jeff's call from Michigan—

Merrill Dyal brushing up on her French and receiving letters from that fascinating French aviator.

Wynelle Belcher all excited over going to Michigan to see M.H. After seeing those pictorial proofs of M.H.'s pulchritude, we don't blame you for preferring your husband to G.S.W.C., Mrs. Belcher!!!

Martha Lindsey the proud possessor of a new picture of Jack—

Bruce Thompson dating Sergeant Jackson from Moody Field. Bruce, we hear that Jack likes interference in his frequent phone calls.

Title of DREAM GIRL OF THE WEEK unanimously goes to Mary Ellen Compton in "Ali Baba". Everyone agrees that she looked like something straight out of heaven, and good enough to eat, in that pink princess outfit.

The current Pin-Up Boy on the campus is our beloved Dr. Adams, of Brookwood fame. Wasn't he simply wonderful to send those beautiful red roses to each girl who graduates next week???

Martha Goodwin, Claire Peacock, Betty Street, and "Corky" report having a wonderful time at the Methodist conference, in LaGrange.

Goodwin Writes About Conferences

At four o'clock A.M. the day is just beginning or maybe it's been going on for four hours (I don't know).

Someone has said suit cases are scarce. I don't know if it's true, but it's better to carry a seat with you. A suitcase is the most suitable object since it will protect the owner or borrower in two ways—inside and out.

Traveling is no war time pleasure, but it's necessary in order to attend conferences. The inconvenience is minor. To be able to shoulder with other youth who have the goal in mind—a better world,—is worth anything.

Yes, conference this year was more serious than before. It seems youth has matured before its time to be able to shoulder shattered responsibilities passed on to it every minute.

Allen Discusses Columnists

I have become so interested in reading columns in the daily newspapers that I completely forgot that I am looking for a current event for his class, and get so involved in various columns.

My favorite, of course, is Ernie Pyle. He is a reporter, at present is with the American Army in Italy, on the road to Rome. I can just imagine as being the type who sits down at the end of a day and scratches off the events of the day as they come.

McGill is good if you are interested in politics and state affairs, which, incidentally, you should be. Of course, he doesn't write with the colorful effect that Pyle does.

I just can't resist Cornelia Otis Skinner. She hasn't a column, but you can find bits of her writing here and there. Don't forget to read them. She is hilariously funny, brilliant, and quite unusual.

Oh, well, there are columnists and then there are columnists. Some of them make me proud to be a columnist on the Canopy.

Beth Whitaker

This week, two Valdosta girls are in the limelight. Beth graduates in June with a Humanities Divisional with emphasis on English and Speech.

As to her ambition, I wasn't able to find out much. She says, "I don't harbor any desire to be a great actress, or even to revolutionize the world."

Beth likes people who are understanding and don't ask a lot of questions. Her pet peeve is two-faced people. She likes Joan Fontaine and Clark Gable, "Shoo, Shoo Baby", rhumbas, congas, and "most any South American music."

Now about clothes, that all-important subject. Beth likes sensible hats but goes in strongly for high-heeled shoes. She also has a strong liking for fur coats.

Martha Freeman

get around to it. She likes to dance, but isn't a regular jilt. Right now, Helen Davis is teaching her to "Boogie."

Beth says she likes to look at people on trains and wonder about them, and she likes capable looking hands. And, oh yes, now she's remembered that ambition that she wouldn't tell me at first.

Now, on the other hand, there is Martha Ashley Freeman, with a Biology major and a Voice minor. She is a member of the Valdosta Club, Math-Science Club, Biology Division, the Glee Club, Serenaders, and the Sports Club.

Martha's chief ambition, it seems, is to own "a house that we built." Her favorite pastime is going somewhere with "Wimp."

Dodd, Ga. Art Head Discloses Plans for Spring Art Exhibit

Mr. Lamar Dodd, head of the Art department at the University of Georgia in Athens, has announced tentative plans for the First Georgia Art Students Exhibition. As plans are now, the exhibition will be held during Spring quarter.

Any student in the state, from the first grade through Junior college, may exhibit projects. The pictures will be shown in the gallery of the Fine Arts Building in Athens. Projects may be of crayon, pencil, tempera, ink, water color, oil, crafts, and sculpture.

Mr. Dodd has stated that the purpose of this exhibition is to give recognition annually to the art being created in the schools of Georgia; to encourage students to consider art as a career; and to award prizes to those who show outstanding talent.

The time of this exhibition will be in May, and further details will be published in the Canopy.

Vesper Program to Be Led by Allen

Vespers Sunday night will be held at the House-in-the-Woods at seven o'clock. Helen Allen will lead the group singing. This is one of the series of programs to be held during the spring out-of-doors.

Last Thursday night the Reverend Cecil Thompson, pastor of the local First Presbyterian Church, was the guest speaker at Vespers. The service was held in the chapel, and the Vesper Choir, under the direction of Helen Allen led the singing.

Games and Waffle Supper Enjoyed by IRC Members Tues.

On Tuesday night, March the seventh, the International Relations Club held its regular monthly meeting at the House-in-the-Woods. The climax for this meeting was a waffle supper which followed the general business meeting. As a program for the evening, the entertainment committee conducted several games.

Frances Googe Prine and Helen Davies, Jr., did a "Take Off" on Dunninger, the great master thought reader. A game of Truth and Consequences was enjoyed. Members present were Helen Davis, Jr., Evelyn Meinert, Frances Googe Prine, Doris King, Martha Williams, Mary Frances Donalson, and Dorothy White. Meeting with the I.R.C. on this occasion were Miss Paty and Miss Price.

Mr. White Speaks to Students at Chapel

Mr. Clifton White, one of G.S. W.C.'s favorite instructors, again appeared before the student body in chapel, Wednesday, March 8. The subject of his program was "Illusion". The vesper choir, consisting of L. Anchors, J. Warren, G. Hill, M. Goodwin, E. Powell, B. Rentz, C. Garbutt, I. M. McKinnon, H. Davis, Jr., and E. Collins, sang the Doxology.

This inspirational little talk was the second in a group of programs commemorating the season of Lent. Many students probably do not know just what Lent is. Chapel hours for the remaining weeks before Easter will bring more Lenten discussions, and possibly a clearer idea of what the season means and how it can be observed.

sitting and letting the world go by." Good luck, girls, and the best of luck to both of you.

Spring Comes With New Styles, Color Is A "Must"

By BETH WHITAKER

When designers and advertising experts want to sell anything they always tell college girls it is a "Must". If we remember correctly, these urgent "musts" began with the lowly "saddle oxfords", which in turn gave way to "feather bobs" and moccasins. And so on down the line to "fascinators" and silver wings.

This year (1944—Leap Year, of all things! Hm-m-m-m) is no exception. Stylists again rack weary brains for something new for the typical college girl. That exotic creature who doesn't smoke, doesn't drink cokes, doesn't date cadets, doesn't like Sinatra, doesn't—how did that get in here?

And what is a "Must" this season? The little lady who would get around must have a suit. It may be three or two-piece, flannel or gabardine, tailored or alluringly feminine. But a suit she must have. A jewelry neckline blouse is a charming added attraction.

Did you know: Sleeves are getting shorter and shorter? And necklines are getting lower and lower? Oops, my dear! Low and behold, styles are taking over. And if you don't know what we mean, the "U" neckline, square or deep around should give you some idea.

While the public isn't looking, the fashion experts do the strangest things. For instance, have you noticed how they are sticking in a dash of color in the most unexpected places. A "sleek-looking" dress may also be surprising. It isn't sleek all over. Oh, no. It has yards and yards of fullness. Right in the center back! Are you hoarding a neat pair of evening sandals? Then this spring you will have a charming and subtle way to exhibit them thusly: a slit excites slim skirt (?) interest in the new spring dresses for dinner.

And in what colors are these exciting creations to be found? With springs comes the inevitable polka dot. Beige is still a favorite to win, gold, Kelly, and of course, blue (because it's the color men like). Ye who would increase your color vocabulary, add these to your list: "Wildcat Yellow", "Agean Aqua", and "Burma Brown".

We have given you the facts. The rest is up to you. We sincerely hope your reflection this spring will bring a smile to your face. Happy Hunting! And—give 'em fits!

Wednesday night bringing of the ways for the staff members of the Canopy. At a hamburger supper in the House-in-the-Woods Mary Frances Donalson, Gordon, retiring editor and manager of the paper, took to the land of college type and heads.

The new staff presented farewell gifts to the two former heads of the paper, and formally became the new rulers of what goes into print in the future.

Frosh Down Upperclassmen In Basketball Wednesday 20-18

In a game that was filled with spills and chills, the Freshmen eked out a 20-18 win over the Upperclassmen in the final basketball game of the season Wednesday afternoon.

The Upperclassmen were the first to score, on a free throw by Harms, and increased their lead with a field goal to lead 3-0 at the end of the first quarter. The Freshmen forwards then began to hit the basket, and their guards held the Upperclassmen, so at the half the score was 10-9 Freshmen. The game was close throughout the last half with the lead changing hands several times. The Upperclassmen tied it up at 18-all in the last minutes but a field goal by Moore for the Freshmen broke the tie. The game ended with the ball in the Upperclassmen's territory, but they couldn't score. This game made the Freshmen victors of both Dormitory games this quarter.

The Upperclassmen's guards were the out-standing players of this game. Cunningham, Compton, and Edwards played the entire game and kept the Freshmen forwards sewed up much of the time. Harms' shooting and Storer's ball-hawking were other notables for the Upperclassmen. For the Freshmen, Edith Moore, who sunk the winning shot, was very good, while Dot Davis turned in a very good big of guarding. Grantham and Moore both accounted for 8 points apiece while Harms was high-pointer for the Upperclassmen with 7.

The line-ups were:

- FRESHMEN:
 Grantham, Moore, Bolen, Davis, Middleton, Downs.
 Substitutes: Peacock, Dellinger, Hill.
- UPPERCLASSMEN:
 Storer, Harms, Tarver, Cunningham, Edwards, Compton.

doubles team of Henrietta Tarver and Julia Storer finally pulled through for the Kappas' only win of a match. Effie Powell and Virginia Bolen of the Lambdas gave them stiff competition, and it was the net play of Storer which finally proved the deciding factor in the last—and match—set. The set scores for this match were 4-6, 6-4, 7-5.

Quite a number of spectators were out to watch the matches and found them very exciting. Another of this type of tennis tournament is planned for Spring quarter and an even larger crowd is expected for them. These matches count on the Sports Club plaques, so come out and pull for your team's entry.

FRESHMAN FINDS COUNCIL OUTING AT TWIN LAKES DELIGHTFUL!

By LAURA HELEN DOWNS
 A Freshman's impression of a week-end at Twin Lakes. No bells—no blinking of lights—no signing out—no classes—(sounds like Utopia, doesn't it). Come Friday at 5:30 we started our heavenly week-end. Arriving at the bus station 20 minutes later than the rest of the council members caused some disturbance and I think I detected a few uncomplimentary comments. After Rachel asked about six bus drivers where the Jacksonville bus was we finally got on a bus bound for Lake City, Fla. Getting on the bus caused some commotion. They made us stand in line until all the negroes were in, then the driver took one last look at his peaceful bus and told us we could get in now. A mad dash—a crash—and a freshman got a seat! Seeing the sights was wonderful. There it was—yes (oh's and ah's here). Oh boy—Van's! We've heard about it for months and at last we see the place. A silent moment, Rachel pulls the bell chord—we get off—only to find we are about 300 yards from the side where we are supposed to turn off to go to the cabin. After walking a mile or so (exaggeration, of course) we got to the Reid's cabin. The committee had our blanket rolls, the food and the slippers for us to draw to decide who was to do the cooking when. (Incorrect sentence, isn't it.)

We raced down to the dock to get a better look at the lake, and it was beautiful. The moon cast a silvery reflection on the dark water and gave us all an empty feeling in the pit of our tummies. Then someone yelled "FOOD," so we rushed back to the cabin. We feasted for about an hour and then various groups started playing bridge. The upper-classmen called it three card draw, deuces wild, and stud, but I guess their games were just different ways of playing bridge. After almost everybody in the bridge game said, "I'm busted," we decided to put a puzzle together. At 1:25 a. m. the puzzle began to take shape. At 2:15 a. m. we gazed in wonder at the masterpiece. Rachel made some cracks about circles under people's eyes until it looked as if they had a new set of coloroids. At this moment we heard a blood-curdling scream, somebody was tickling Donaldson, Miss Ivey then sleepily said "Curfew" so away to bed. (Ask Cunningham what she meant by rocks in her stomach).

We were awakened the next morning by Kenney, who was trying to get eager beavers to go on an early morning hike with her. At 10:30 we had breakfast. Pan cakes a la Harms style and coffee made by Home Ec. major Cunningham, was enough to make anybody's mouth water. Tarver set the table and forgot to put the plates on. Guess she's not a Home Ec major.

Then came the real fun. One group lined off the badminton court while the rest went fishing and alligator hunting (right, Compton?) The Ashley Jeep had arrived earlier in the morning bearing Martha Freeman, Laura Mae Youngblood, Buff and Twink, coca colas, and a couple of cakes.

Next—to Van's for steaks. Now this frosh can understand why one of the main topics of conversation with the upperclassmen is Mr. Van and his steaks.

After supper Saturday night the moon and stars put everybody in another one of those moods, so they went on another hike and others sat and looked at the moon and sang songs about "Oh, How I Miss You Tonight." At 12:00 in the dot some musical soul played taps on the fox-horn, so we decided to call it a day and hit the hay (Corney, eh wot?)

The next morning we were to catch the bus back to Valdosta at 9:00 and it was our turn to cook breakfast. At 8:15 someone woke the cooks up. We had to hurry and as per usual everything went wrong at the wrong time. We had an argument about whether you put grease or water in the pan before frying eggs. The first pan of toast burned and the other pan didn't even get done. It was a mess.

Despite all these mix-ups we arrived at the highway on time. Our leader asked how you were supposed to stop the bus. Some brilliant-

Softball Comes in With Spring Session

Softball has hit the school with a wallop. Girls are so eager to try this sport that they are out with the ball and bat, lined up for the next quarter. On Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday after supper you'll find these beavers, and others who will line up, down on front campus playing softball. It's an interesting game and all can play, so be sure you get out to play or to watch!

A few of the players from last year's teams will be back on the quarter. Some of these players are JUNE VAUGHN, MARY ELLEN COMPTON, MAUDINE BLAIR, JEAN ROWE, and MARION ANNE ROBERTS. Many of the freshmen are showing much interest in the game and have already been practicing. Among these are "JAKE" HART, MARION COMPTON, DOT DAVIS, CORREY DELLINGER, KATHLEEN GRANTHAM, and many others.

During Spring quarter there will be Match Games between Lambda Kappas, so, girls, come on out to practice. These games should be good, so if you are not the athletic type, don't let that keep you from coming out, be there to cheer your team and friends on. Lots of interest is being shown now, so let it drop; keep it up and come!

Lambdas Victorious In Tennis Matches

The Lambda tennis team came out on top, two matches to one, against the Kappas when they met Saturday morning. These were the only tennis matches of the quarter, and consisted of two singles and one doubles match.

Both of the singles matches were won by the Lambdas. Dot Hinton won out over Helen Allen, of the Kappas, after dropping the first set 3-6. She took the next two sets 6-3 and 6-4 to win the match.

The other Lambda singles entry, Laura Helen Downs, took Kappa Kitty Harms in straight sets, 6-1 and 6-2. Although the score on this last match is low some pretty good tennis was played in it. The Kappas
