It's very sad that the Kaled gets two "new stories" in the same week, but since this is spring, anything can happen. The minute I darted around the bushes into the students who criticise the new stories don't stop to realize that they are the first to clean it up. If the students can sponsor Bonds drives that double the quota, they can't expect every body to swoon!

The Campus is unattractive as it is, and if each student would spend the effort cleaning it up, it would become more attractive. As it is, we would soon have a campus to be proud of. The labor situation is drastic and the weather is white out, so the students who criticize the most need to stop picking up a piece of paper or an empty soft drink bottle.

If the students can sponsor Bonds drives that double the quota and Red Cross drives that triple the quota, it seems they could sponsor a clean-up drive that would be successful. It would only take a small effort on your part.

Several weeks ago there appeared in the Canopy, a notice for all the articles that students had borrowed from the House-in-the-Woods to be returned immediately. Very few students responded.

The House-in-the-Woods belongs to us, it is our very own, but if we do not take care of it, our privilege of using it will be withdrawn. Several years ago the cabin was closed to the students because of some of the students and that can be done again. Return the borrowed articles immediately.

Sketching the Seniors

By Ethel Bentley

NINA HARRIS

Two more of our seniors will soon be out of sight. This time it is Nina Harris, "all the way from Waycross, and Margaret King, of Valdosta.

Nina with a talent called "The Potato" diverts the emphasis on English. She is a member of the English Club, the Math-Science Club, the Stock and Buskin Club, and the Romance Language Club.

She says that her tastes run mostly along conservative lines. In this, she is Margaret agree, both choosing blue as their favorite color, and both preferring tailored clothes. And strange as it may seem, they like the same model actresses—lovely Greer Garson. But for male leads, Nina wants Charles Boyer and Margaret prefers Ray Milland. Thorough good people, it is a point for debate—Boyer vs. Milland.

Now Nina has made a "new quartet's resolution", which is that she goes out only on week-ends—Saturday and Sunday nights. I think there is a hidden meaning to this, but I do not dare to speak of it. Speaking of men, Nina says, "If I'd like a man I can trust, it's possible to find one in the armed forces of the Army Air Corps and likes blondes with blue eyes.

Another point on which Nina and Margaret agree is picnics and sunbathing on the beach, and they both like to go camping, too, indirectly affected by Frank Sinatra, however, both would like to go picnicking, as long as he doesn't spoil the effect with a personal appearance. Ah, well! I suppose poor Frankie can't expect everybody to arom!

Nina says that one of her bad habits is writing letters and never mailing them and her pet peeve is people who are two-faced.

MARGARET KING

As for music, she likes swing and Deanna Durbin's rendition of "Say a Prayer," and she's still waiting for the one that fits her. For food, she'll take steak and lemon pie. One reason for her popularity, she says, is Mary Melvin around the dorms, threatening to tickle her.

Her ambition is to have a profession that she can use—in case she needs it, and to whom it may concern; she likes RED ROSES.

Now, on the other hand, Margaret is a Biology Major, with a minor Chemistry. Bonnie is a member in good standing of the Valdosta Club and the Math-Science Club, and she has previously belonged to the Glee Club and Philharmoc Club.

She likes all kinds of sports, especially swimming and tennis, and dancing is also a great favorite. She likes all music, but likes semi-classical best.

Her taste in uniforms runs to the Air Force Army Corps, but, says Margaret, "It's not so much the uniform, but the Air Force uniform that counts." At present she spends two or three very good reasons for liking—happiness at being home, the Lux Radio Theatre, and she loves to read and eat in bed.

She has several ambitions. One present one is seriously considering finishing a masters in the WACs, but the thinks she'll teach school—maybe. She had a pet potter, but she wanted Margaret and Nina, the best of luck with which ever you choose.

Goodwin Discussing Thinking

Once I walked into a complete stranger's room. The girl whom I had to meet was not at all pleasant, but a small plaque on her desk glared at me across the room. Each letter hit like a bad memory. I had to find some way to spell the single word THINK. If I put into all the dog huts, chicken coops and cages in the world, I would never find those written or carried out. That's the great deficit in the minds of the girls. Their minds rest upright on top of a vast column and live in the cranium of a human being.

How simple the word might look does not matter from the enchanting glory of thinking. To live is to learn, to learn is to think. By learning what other people have thought is to take another mind's all their lives. Of our importance of learning what other minds have tributed to us was very necessary because it is a new mind based from which to think, nothing is built without a foundation.

Through concentrated concentration of mind old learning must be gone all the way. If then we can take this knowledge as our own and add our own thinking to it, we evolve! Your imagination is as good as you seem to see in it. Those cages are rooms which remain unlocked. Rooms which solutions to more mysteries of science, soul, and deep mysteries of thought. When doors opened life will be more complex to be able to understand and sit among.

What can start a mind thinking, This is the mind is ever just sitting home blank and the thought must be passing through but that can't be expected. Right there is originality for solutions of and for opinions.

The mind is capable of amazing mind you are interested in miracles, build up the foundation of known knowledge they explore the unknown worlds of THINKING.
Miss Ivey Attends Joint Meeting in Atlanta On Friday

Leonora Ivey attended a joint meeting of the Georgia Association of Recreation and Education, and the School Principals at the Creavation Association meeting in Atlanta, Fri day. The three administrators look at health, Physical Education and Recreation. Some pertinent points and questions raised by members of the panel and from the floor are:

1. Victory Corps programs in our schools do not give the remedial and preventive dentistry.

2. Proper use of lunch room if an excellent opportunity to give needed instruction in nutrition.

3. Towns and cities must recognize recreation needs in their community.

4. There is a need for more and better education as regards venereal disease. It is most important that we bring up a generation which will have wholesome attitude towards sex.

5. Our school systems must cooperate to meet the needs of Special Education. We must become aware that illiteracy and venereal disease go hand-in-hand. Physical Education and Training must be properly and adequately handled in all of our schools.

6. We must be trained to cooperate with our students to use those leisure activities learned in school and college.

7. Do our schools give programs in athletics for all or for the privileged few?

8. We have a program without testing in our schools.

9. Superintendents and principals with a vision of the need, are leading students and student bodies in the right direction.

10. Every day activity is necessary for all the students.

11. A good physical education program makes for a good discipline.

12. Every student in high school should be given an experience that will assist him in making his decision as to future occupation and we must all walk together.

Miss Campbell is Speaker At Vespers Thursday

"All things working together" was the subject Jean Campbell chose when she spoke at Vespers last Thursday night. Ida Maude McJinnoo was in charge of the program. At the last meeting of the Y. W. C. A. cabinet, it was decided that for the remainder of the Spring quarter one Vesper program would be held each week. This weekly service will be held on Thursday next at 7:30. It was planned that students should take an active part in the Sunday night Youth services at the various Valdosta churches, rather than attend the services at the college.

English Club has Meeting Tuesday

On Tuesday, April 11, the English Club met in the House-in-the-Woods for its regular monthly meeting. The Creative Writing class presented a program, which was introduced by Mary Melitta Peters, a junior. The group, composed of Virginia Bird, who read her poem, "Mary Martha."

The meeting was held in the auditorium, and Betty Peters reading an informal essay. Attendees were served at the meeting.

Enthusiasm Shown In Tennis Matches

The Kappa and Lambda tennis tournaments are well under way in spite of the bad weather. Both teams have some good players and as we get nearer the finals of these tournaments the matches become closer. The elimination tournament will be finished sometime this week. The big match between the winners and semi-finalists of the Kappa and Lambda tournaments will take place.

The Lambda team have no quitters and we have always thought of them as a good team.

These who are already playing are: B. H. Black, Orin Bolten, A. L. Boyer, C. P. C. McGee, V. D. Leonard, and M. W. M. Moore.

The Lambda team has won all of their matches this year.

The Kappa team has won their matches this year.

Kappas Win First Softball Game

The first softball game has already been played with the Kappa team winning 15-5. The second match game is coming up next Monday and the Lambda team is expected to win by a large margin.
