GATHERED Gossip
by Kathelen GRANThAM

Those golfing around at the Officer's Club dangle their clubheads on the putting greens. One golfing group has been seen to be taking advantage of the newest trend in golfing: putting on grass. A group of four hit the putting green last week, and two of them were seen playing a game called "Tiger Woods". The group was later seen practicing their putting on the nearby putting green, and one of the members was heard to say, "This is the way to do it!"

The freshmen really have the jump on the upperclassmen when it comes to novelty. A group of freshmen at Moody Field were seen playing a game called "Tiger Woods". The game involves hitting golf balls into the air and trying to land them in the putting green. The freshmen were later seen playing a game called "Piggyback Golf". The game involves hitting golf balls into the air and trying to land them on the back of someone else's head. The freshmen were later seen playing a game called "Tiger Woods". Among the places that made the off-tastic games were the competition (very much a match) carried by Tarver and Cunningham during the basketball game last Wednesday. You should have heard Cunningham with both hands and after the game, you should have had the whole team to pick him out.

Bolet tells us that she can't wait with both hands and after the game, we wonder why it was so quiet in the dining hall. The answer is: She has no idea what she means. She wants to play, so she'll try hard. She'll even go, certain that she knew how to do it right and left.

Carson and Boyette were out on the golf course Saturday getting in some practice. Say the ground is a good place for a little. Carson!

By all the jogs in the air it would seem that the horses go plenty of work these days. Almost any time you can see Baldwin landing out a class for an hour ride along the roads around Valdosta but sometimes it would seem that the rider gets more out of the workout than the horse.

It shouldn't be too long before you will get a chance to see beautiful scenery around Valdosta on a hike. Whether it be by sunlight or moonlight it should be fun to watch out for it and let's all go.

Jerry Sheffield and Lou Sims seem to think there's nothing like a long bicycle ride to pick you up and set you right so maybe we had better try it. Why not get them to tell you about last Saturday afternoon? It's GOOD!

Some of her favorites in general include Philip Morris cigaretes with the American ball field, and the Lambdas were almost so excited about it all. You saw the game and market at those beautiful one-hand-ershirt may be a little too much, but she doesn't need to use both hands.

"Friend" Green is also living up to her name for the guards we have coming in rather vocal match) carried out with a victory to win the Kappas, 21-14.

may be radio or journalism that we have better try it. Miss Olive Berry, stylist for Simplicity Pattern Company, will present her new designs for Fall on February 19th by the Home Economics Club. The committee will meet in Mrs. Murray Lassiter's home. All women are invited to attend and will be introduced to the student body to model the wardrobe that Miss Berry will bring in chapel. All dresses were made as illustrations for the news and were made from patterns found in the Simplicity Spring 1945 Schoolgirl Wardrobe.

Converse Doors Meet Spring
With Amusing Signs, Signals

By CAROLYN STAFFORD

Most of us have been taught by our parents to obey signs. For instance, if you saw a sign in bold letters saying, "No Parking," you would not put your car there. In Converse Hall, and saw that sign across the hall, you would not bring any of your belongings across the hall. Yes, just about every room in Converse has some sort of sign on the door.

The champion sign owners are Mary Tharpe and Jean Lang in Room 107. They are greeted at the door by one saying, "For Men and Beautiful Blondes Only." Of course the first part is very useless around here, and the last part doesn't mean Mary Tharpe is not interested in you here. It's the spirit of the thing. Well, I got in the way of the building, and so I held my breath, turned around and sailed down the hall. On the way a boy passed Dew Drop Inn and although I realize the halls are too small to be really small, I stopped for a moment, but Betty Bates, the hostess was stepping out the door and so I realized it was just another one of those things I was telling you about. What was it? Oh, yes, I remember. Signs.

The thing that made this sign so full of enjoyment was the fact that Betty Bates, the hostess, raised me a line and said, "Hello, what do you want?" I realized that was the Doo Doo sign number 179. But suddenly it became alarming. Along of my was a war bomb. But no, wait, it was another sign that meant something else.
