Collins Pres. Of Diocesan Young People

Edith Collins was re-elected to serve as president of the Young People's Division of the Episcopal church in the Diocese of Gorgia at the Diocesan Convention in Thomasville, May 10-12. Among the officers elected to serve with her are Martha Jane Miller, secretary, and Beverly Swanson, vice-president for the Albany District.

As president of the Diocesan young people, Edith will represent them at a Provincial meeting in North Carolina in July, and at the National Convention in Philadelphia, Pa., in September.

The convention at Thomasville was the first post-war convention for the group. As president, Edith presided over the convention and conducted the business sessions. The theme for the convention was Church Vocation, and speakers explaining the different vocations in the church were presented in the program.

Plans were laid at the convention for the next convention to be held at Camp Reese, St. Simons Island, Georgia, in the summer of 1947.

The Rev. Clifton H. White, who has served as advisor for the Albany District for the past year, attended the Convention of Saturday, and Dorothy Davis and Beverly Swanson represented Christ Episcopal church in Valdosta.

Mr. Welcher Speaks on Education

The League of Women Voters was in charge of the Assembly program on May 15. Miss Betty Hutchinson, president of that group, introduced the speaker, Mr. E. B. Welcher, who is superintendent of schools in Moultrie and Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the State of Georgia.

Mr. Welcher, by following the progress of education in Georgia since 1812 until the present day, proved that Georgia did not have a system worthy of the name "Educational" until 1937. It was in this year that a minimum educational requirement of all schools to stay open for at least seven months was enforced. It was also during this year that the present salary system was put into effect. The teachers are now paid for ten months out of a year instead of just seven, and with the new bill now to be enforced, the teachers will get fifty percent more than they are now getting.

Mr. Welcher explained such things as the qualifications necessary for one to be on a County Board of Education, State Board of Education, and Superintendent of Schools.

It is the theory of Mr. Welcher that if the curriculum and teachers are improved in quality and quantity during the next few years, Georgia will get better service for the money it allots for Education and the people in Georgia will benefit from it.

It will continue to be the policy of the League to present to the students educational programs.

Dr. Wade To Be Speaker On Honors Day Program

Math-Science Club Will Revise Roll

The May meeting of the Math-Science Club was held in the House in the Woods on Thursday, May 9, at 8:00.

After a short discussion, the members voted to revise the roll after the club's first meeting next year. This action was taken because there was some doubt as to whether the present roll is accurate.

Dr. Nevins, Mr. Spragens, and Mr. Mosely gave the club some information about the many fellowships and scholarships in the field of science that are available to graduates.

The Chemistry Division was in charge of the program. Anne Barbre and Charlotte Holzendorf divided the members into two teams and conducted an unusual spelling contest.

Refreshments were served by other members of the Chemistry Division.

Five Chosen As Officers By Fine Arts

The Fine Arts Club held its regular monthly meeting May 13, at 7:30 in the House in the Woods. Margie Massey presided. After the regular roll call the following officers were elected by popular vote:

- Reporter—Bertha Drexel
- Historian—Virginia Hagan
- Art Chairman—Beverly Swanson
- Co-Chairman—Hilda Crum
- Vice President — Bobby Snow (re-elected).

Each member has almost completed her puppet. The club is contemplating having the puppet show Freshman Week of next year.

Huckleberry short cake was served as refreshments.

Philharmonic Has Final Meeting

The final meeting of the Philharmonic Club for this year will be held on May 22, with the new officers in charge. After the business is discussed, several voice and piano students will give a program. Glee Club members and students of the Music Department are cordially invited to attend the program, which will be in the auditorium.

In conclusion, the members will be served refreshments in the Log Cabin. Each member is urged to attend this final meeting of the year.

Freshmen and Sophomores who are not going to the dance must be in their rooms by 10:30 on Saturday nights.

New officers for the ensuing school year of 1946-47 were elected by the Freshman and Senior Honor Societies at recent meetings. The officers chosen by the Freshman Honor Society were: Charlene Bowen, president Betty Gelders, vice-president; Gloria Love, secretary-treasurer; and Betty Jean Smith, historian. Harriet Arrington was elected president of the Senior Honor Society, Jan Musgrove, vice-president; Bobbie Snow, secretary-treasurer; and Simone Bassett, historian.

Plans have been made to have Honors Day, the day on which students with an average of B or better are officially inducted into the Honor Societies, on May 22. The service will take place in assembly at the regular period, and Dr. John D. Wade, retired English professor at the University of Georgia, will be the speaker. Students joining the Freshman Honor Society will be: Anne Barbre, Zona Bennett, Charlene Bowen, La Trelle Carter, Ann Du Priest, Betty Gelders, Sylvia Gelders, Charlotte Holzendorf, Gloria Love, Carolyn Mathis, Betty Jean Smith, Morris Smith, and Anne Ziplies.

Students joining the Senior Honor Society will be: Carolyn Bowen, Mrs. Mary B. Brooks, Evelyn Connell, Faye Dixon, Betty Gunter, Margaret Hardy, Edith Jones, Pauline Jordan, Betty Keene, Barbara Kennedy, Jan Musgrove, Bobbie Snow, Jacqueline Talton, Gladys Thames, Harriet Arrington, Simone Bassett, Virginia Bolen, Edith Collins, Laura Converse, Nell Kenney, Marion Newsome, Elizabeth Pate, Marguerite Storer, and Martha Wilcox.

All new members of the Honor Societies attended the regular meeting on May 16. Mr. Clifton White spoke on phases of contemporary Southern art.

First Foot Forward

This year has marked the beginning of many things, some of which we hope will last for many years to come. One of these is Homecoming which is being initiated this week-end. Although there are only a few alumnae returning this year it is a beginning and each year more and more alumnae will return.

At Dr. Reade's suggestion during last quarter, plans for a Homecoming for this year were begun and as time passed, these plans multiplied. An orchestra was engaged, the Country Club was reserved, plans were made for a picnic at Twin Lakes, and only last week suggestions were made to have a buffet supper after the dance.

As another tradition to be handed down from year to year, Homing is an added attraction to the social side of our college life.

Another event which is being added this year, and one which we hope will remain as a tradition is Honors Day. Next Wednesday has been set aside as the day on which all students who are members of the Honor Societies are to be honored.

A special program has been planned for the Assembly program that day and these students will be further honored at lunch. Dr. Wade is to be the speaker for this occasion.

Students who have made a high standing in their academic work have never received just recognition for their work on this campus. All along, too much stress has been placed on extra-curricula activity until at times it seemed that these outside activities were more important than actual classes. One student was heard to remark that we come to college supposedly to learn something and then study only when we cannot find something else to do.

This seems to be an entirely wrong attitude and we hope this will be a step forward on a different path.

Betty Hutchinson

The state convention of the League of Women Voters is positive proof that women are interested in government, and are not only interested, but also create a voice that is heard throughout the state and the nation.

The convention was held in Columbus, Georgia, on May 9 and 10, with about 100 women from all over the state in attendance, and the college girls and young women of Georgia are also interested in better government and took a large part in the convention.

The meetings started on Thursday afternoon in the Ralston Hotel in downtown Columbus, and ended at the same place the following afternoon. The first part of the meeting on Thursday was the official red tape of getting a convention started, but special emphasis was put on the intended program of the League for next two years. Some of the things included on this intended program were supporting home rule, helping to promote better procedure in state elections, helping to get the county merit system repealed, and improving the Departments of Health, Education and Public Welfare in the state.

On Thursday evening there was a banquet in the Ralston Hotel with Dr. Philip Weltner, president of Oglethorpe College, as the guest speaker. Dr. Weltner's subject was the discussion of some of the issues in the gubernatorial election this summer, presented from a non-partisan point of view, to put before the group some of the things to be considered in the wise choice of a candidate.

The debate on the intended program, which took place at the Friday morning session, finished up the convention, and a tired, but satisfied group of women went home.

Women have an as important place in the government of their state as the men have, and the League is their way of studying the bills and policies from a non-partisan standpoint, and of making their small voices one, to help create a better state.

EDITH ROBERTS and BETT KING

Edith Roberts, who is better known as "Slappy," is a Valdosta girl and is majoring in Biology and minoring in Chemistry.

"Slappy" has an odd combination in her music tastes for she likes semi-classics and swing. Jose Iturbi is a favorite musical artist and Edith especially likes "Clare de Lune." "Shoo Fly Pie" is also number one on her hit parade.

"The Robe" by "Lloyd C. Douglas is Edith's favorite book. She also likes historical novels. Edith likes to lie up in the bed and read at night, especially with the radio on.

Sports clothes and sometimes extremes in clothes give an idea of Edith's taste in clothes. She likes suits and especially likes wide belts with big gold, shiny buckles. "Slappy" likes to go barefooted and she despises hats. Her favorite colors are brown and yellow.

Food is a specialty with "Slappy," especially apple pie. She also likes thick steaks, shoe string potatoes, any kind of vegetable salad and raw carrots.

Edith's ideal man must be a gentleman, that is, have nice manners. He doesn't have to be good-looking but he must be tall. Edith summed up his requirements by saying he must be like Walter Pidgeon.

Golf and tennis are "Slappy's" favorite sports but archery runs a close second. Her favorite pastime, however, is to eat, sleep and be happy. "Slappy" admitted after this statement that she was lazy. She also likes to walk in the rain and get soaking wet.

"Slappy detests people popping gum while she is trying to read. She also has an intense dislike for anyone who reads the newspaper over her shoulder as well as anyone with poor table manners.

Not only is Edith a member of the Math-Science Club she is vice-president of the senior class and a member of the Valdosta Club.

In the not too distant future, Edith plans to attend Emory and study to be a Laboratory Technician. This summer however, she plans to work here in Valdosta as a chemical analyst. Whether at Emory or in Valdosta you can always count on "Slappy" to make a success of whatever she attempts.

Betty King, another Valdosta girl, is majoring in Chemistry and minoring in Home Economics which seems like a very practical combination.

Tschiowsky and Mendelsohn are Betty's favorite composers and the Pathetique Symphony is a special favorite classical composition. She also likes NIGHT AND DAY, BEGIN THE BEGINE and INTER-MEZZO.

Bathing suits, shorts and real high heels sum up Betty's likes in clothes while hats are one thing she doesn't like. Her favorite color is blue.

Fried shrimp and any other sea food except oysters are favorites of Betty's. She likes any and all desserts but especially ice cream and cream puffs.

As far as movies go, Betty likes musicals and love stories. John Wayne and Dennis O'Keefe are her favorite actors and Song of Russia and The Desert Song are still her favorite movies.

Betty's ideal man must be tall, at least six feet, must have blue eyes, blonde hair (she added as an afterthought that black hair is ok too.) Also he must be athletic.

People who repeat the same advice even though it is not asked for is Betty's pet hate. Betty admits that one of her failings is criticizing people's use of the English language.

Betty likes all out door sports, especially horseback riding and swimming. She also likes to bowl. Walking in the rain barefooted and walking in the country are also favorite pastimes. Betty also likes to buy sheet music and play it for her own enjoyment. She likes to sing in the bathtub.

Member of the Math-Science, Valdosta and Home Ec. Clubs, Betty's post graduation plans are uncertain but whatever she decides to do, Betty can be counted on to do it right and do it well.

Collins Hear No Evil See No Evil Speak No Evil

Some of us, in the last few weeks have been surprised to hear tales and rumors told on our fellow students which seemed to expose a side hitherto unknown to us. Upon further investigation however, we have found that these rumors were based upon a distorted view of the facts, or a lack of the true facts. The damage, however, in many cases had been done.

There is something in us, it seems that makes us gullible to gossip. Unless the person involved happens to be a particular friend of ours, we tend to accept the story as fact, and glibly repeat it to others, perhaps unintentionally adding a few things in the telling, whether it is an attempt to bolster our own ego by pointing out how "good" we are in not having committed the supposed deed, or just that we are so naive as to believe everything that is told to us, I do not know, but the situation is deplorable.

If an act by a student is of sufficient gravity to form the basis for a juicy bit of gossip, then the facts should be laid before the proper persons, whether they be faculty, student government officials, or whoever they may be. Let them investigate the facts and handle the situation. We cannot hope to help by spreading stories based on half-fact or a prejudiced view-point.

I don't think that any of us would intentionally harm another person, and yet how frequently we can do, when unthinkingly we carry tales. If this action is intentional, then we should be ashamed of ourselves. But if it is unintentional, then we should check up on ourselves to see wherein we err.

The first and most obvious thing to do is to question any choice bits of gossip which come your way. Try asking the person who tells you the story, where he got it, and make an effort to track it down. Failing this, the next step is just to refuse to repeat it, and suggest that the other person do until it is substantiated. The third thing to keep in mind, is the question as to whether your repeating the story would help the situation, or only confuse the issue. It is fair to the persons involved, and, even if true, would your telling help them.

There are certain things which should be told, but to the right people. I think that we have all learned by now the difference between tattling and telling those things which are necessary for the welfare of both the school and those people concerned. It does not help, however, if we spread stories to the four winds, thereby making it more difficult for those who must, to find out the truth.

Student Government Anounces

The purpose of this column is to keep all students notified of recent changes in the Constitution, and the new interpretations or additions to Student Government rules. We hope that this column will be used by students as well as S. G. A. to bring about a better knowledge of our campus government.

On April 29, after a discussion of fire hazards, all fire lieutenants were given authority to enforce all fire regulations and issue court warnings to persons breaking fire rules. All dormitories have been notified of the change in the fire warning bell. It has been decided that two shorts and a long ring will be given twice.

All classes and clubs should notice the ruling that any money-making projects or student activity should be taken through the Executive Committee to the Student-Faculty committee before it is carried out. This means trips out of town, club picnics, etc. so that activities won't conflict in any way. The Activities Book, with Jean Land in charge, is also to help us keep dates (calendar) and meetings straight.

On Sunday evenings, the Log Cabin will be locked from 6 to 7 o'clock if the hostesses aren't there. Since the hostesses change at 6:00 when supper is served, this is for their convenience.

Students coming from home after a weekend may call (from town) in to the General Office for permission to eat supper. That is, if their bus or train arrives after the supper hour, and they want to eat again before breakfast. This does not count as a time out, since the student is up town only a few minutes. However, once a student comes into the dormitory, she isn't allowed to go back again to eat. Freshman must be in groups of two to have this privilege.

On May 6 it was decided that students may call in for late leave until 11 or 11:30 AFTER they have left the campus, but they must first have permission of their dormitory head for 12 o'clock late leave.

Girls in groups may attend day games (baseball) in Pendleton Park. However, only girls with dates may attend night games.

A Calendar Pin - up Speaks

By ANNE SHIPP

Yes, I'm a pin-up girl. I know that ordinary girls envy me. Who can blame them? After all it is not every girl that is given perfect blond hair, perfect long legs, and a perfect figure, that makes every man turn into a wolf. Too, it is not every girl who is lucky enough to have a pre-war one piece white bathing suit, that fits them like a close fitting girdle. But then, of course, Mr. Varga is quite generous with his gifts of perfection to his girls.

I do get tired of lying on the beach all the time, and there is a disadvantage to wearing a bathing suit, for when the temperature drops a few degrees, I shiver and shake. Then some bobby-socks, who are warmly dressed look up wistfully, "I wish I were in her suit." Silly girls!

I wonder what a date is? I heard one girl say "I had the cutest date last night." She seemed awfully happy over that fact so I guess it didn't hurt her. It is awfully confusing for another girl came in and said, "Have a date" and all present took something out of a box and ate it. That couldn't have been the kind of date the first girl had, for it brought her some roses. Wish that I could have a date. Wonder what I would do on a date? Would I get some roses?

I wonder what it would be like to have as many clothes as Joyce has. She must get tired of changing. She changes for P. E., for dinner, for classes, for "dates" with Jimmy, and for bed. She has a picture of Jimmy, and he looks like a boy. You know, I bet dates are boys. Now wasn't I dumb?

I wonder why Jane laughs so much. She is so very pretty and popular, always going out with "dates." I feel like blushing now when I think of that word. Jane has a wonder-personality, at least all the girls say she has. I wish I had one, but what does a pin-up need with a personality? After all she has copies of herself hung up on many walls all over the world and in many magazines.

I wonder why there are no men that ever come here. There are lots of pictures of them around the dormitory room. I get awfully bored with girls all the time. Girls are so vain and silly. Joyce primps all the time—combing her hair one way then another, always changing her makeup. It must be fun because sometimes I wish that I could do it.

I do have the most names, every blond that comes in our room flatters herself by calling me by her name, Anne, Betty, or Jean. I suppose they wouldn't like it if they knew that their special one, Bob, John, or Charles was looking admiringly at me pinned-up on their wall. But what they don't know won't hurt them.

I didn't know that I could talk so very much. I guess it is because I don't talk very often. Anyway, I'll see you in Esquire or on your calendar.

Your Musical News Letter

FROM EDDIE LEE

Dear Bolo:—Reading your letter it just doesn't seem that I have been away from the campus almost ten years. In fact, if I hadn't known I was wishfully thinking, I would say that I was right there enjoying the fun with you. But that only goes to prove what our old Latin prof always used to say—you know, "tempus fugit." Incidentally, concerning your request in the last paragraph, I'll be delighted to send you a semi-monthly letter informing you of what's cooking on the sharps and flats around the country.

Say, by the way, do you remember Sid Wayne, the tall skinny kid who used to go to Brooklyn College. He just got back from overseas the other day, a full-fledged hero. Sid has more fruit salad on his chest than one of old Pop Turner's sundaes. That isn't all though. Just listen to this. Our Sidney is on his way to fame and fortune. It all happened when Sid was shot up as an aerial gunner and was sent to a French hospital. To while away his time, Sid put some notes on paper, called it "Which Way Did My Heart Go?" and sent it to Peggy Mann, his favorite singer. Peggy liked it so much she had it published a few weeks ago. And what do you know? I just looked at the semi-monthly poll of the campus cuties and he-men, and the tune was picked as a near future hit ballad.

Before I forget, maestro Bill McCune, the tall handsome Irishman with the swell sense of humor and fine staccato rhythms, whom you hear coast to coast via the Mutual Broadcasting System four times a week from New York's McAlpin Hotel, sends his best. And don't you think that Bill's contest idea, "Write a tune with Bill McCune," isn't lots of fun for the dancers. All you have to do to win a couple of pairs of those precious NYLONS is write an original set of lyrics to a given song.

I remembered to say hello for you to Gerry Larsen, the luscious blond vocalovely with Vincent Lopez' band. When you listen to her five days a week on that "Luncheon with Lopez" broadcast over the Mutual Broadcasting System, you realize just how much she's accomplished since graduating from East Stroudsburg Teachers College in Pennsylvania.

When I told the Three Suns I was writing you, they asked me to say "long time no see," and hoped you would stop in at the Picadilly Circus Lounge to hear them the next time you're in New York. Incidentally, don't you think that they've got another hit in "It's Dawn Again" which you undoubtedly have been hearing all over the dial. As for me I think it is zipper than "Twilight Time," their last hit. Before you disagree listen to their Majestic record of both tunes and then judge for yourself.

Keep your eye, the good one, I mean, Bolo, peeled for Buddy Waples and his band. Take it from your old campus sidekick, this ex-University of Missouri lad is really going places and quickly with his band. Buddy has just come to Manhattan's Pelham Heath Inn with his semi-society styled musical group. Maybe it's his Novichord, maybe his delovely vocalist, Charee Moysee, maybe it's his band, or a combination of all these things, but we haven't been able to get a reservation since the orchestra started about a week ago.

Come to think of it, Bolo, the fraternity and sorority lads and lassies have just finished giving their opinions of the four top tunes in the collegiate spotlight as well as the two newcomers just making their bid for fame. You might be interested in the list, so here it is, kid.

SENIOR SKETCHES

By CAROLYN STAFFORD

REGINA GEIGER and BETTY ALTMAN

This week's Seniors are Regina Geiger, an attractive brunette from McRae and Betty Altman, a petite redhead from Jacksonville.

Regina, better known as "Gig", is majoring in Sociology and she intends to teach after she graduates and loafs a long time.

Her favorite type of clothes are sort-of-dressy with not many frills and she likes the color blue. She doesn't have any special hobby but she does like baseball. Gershwin's RHAPSODY IN BLUE heads her list of music, which is all semi-classical, and she doesn't like jazz at all.

Her favorite actress is Greer Garson and she doesn't have a favorite male actor. But speaking of males, she likes for her own self, a man about 5' 8" with brown hair and green eyes.

Gig's favorite foods are steak and sweet potatoes. We'll leave Gig now and wish her the very best of luck and plenty of steak and potatoes always.

Betty Altman is a Math major and a English minor. Her post graduate plans include loafing and loafing, but then she's going to do office work.

Betty, like Gig, doesn't have a special hobby but she likes football and she likes to play golf. Her favorite clothes are well tailored sport clothes and she likes the color green. Spencer Tracy, Van Johnson, and Gregory Peck are her favorite actors.

Poetry is her favorite type literature and she likes all good music. Spaghetti is Betty's favorite food and she really likes it.

And so we say goodbye to Betty and wish her, too, the very best of luck.

Sox and Buskin Club Goes to Jacksonville

CATHERINE PHILLIPS

Bright and early next Saturday morning, about thirty of the Sox and Buskin Club members are going to Jacksonville. It will be a struggle to crawl out of bed, but in the long run it will be sleep well lost.

Miss Sawyer and Miss Whitaker are going along with us.

How we're rating rooms at the Mayflower Hotel—I'll never tell!! It will be fun though for Mayflower is located downtown right in the heart of Jacksonville.

To those fortunate individuals with a full billfold there will be shopping.

The big event of the evening will come after we have had dinner. It's the Club's own treat to its members—tickets to see "I Remember Mama" at the Little Theatre.

Not only are we going to see the play but we have a SPECIAL invitation to go back stage afterwards and meet the entire cast.

Sunday morning comes soon but not too soon for those sun tan lovers. Yes, you guessed it, it's the beach for the whole bunch of us. When we come back with all those gorgeous sun tans we'll even make "Rousie" sit back and stare. A dinner at the beach is never complete without hot dogs.

Oh! my goodness the afternoon is over—the whole week-end's over, and we've got to come back to school. I like GSWC, but oh, what a wonderful time.

Softball News

By MATHIS

Just in case any of you upper-classmen need something to boost your ego—this is it. The Upper-classmen have really taught the freshmen to respect their elders in the last two softball practice games by trouncing them by scores so big we hesitate to print them. Come on freshmen, nobody can push you around. Let's see if the score can't be evened up next game despite Tack (Slugger) Brunson & Co.!!

Kappas Score In Golf Match

The Golf teams played off their final matches Saturday morning at the country club with Mrs. Mathis, P. E. Instructor, acting as judge. The matches consisted of four holes and the Kappas won three out of four of them.

Those competing in the match were Jeanne Painter and Martha Wilcox, Betty Proctor and Jerry Sheffield, Dorothy Futch and Dolores Bryce, Mildred Sage and Dorothy Hightower.

These eight girls will make up the golf team for this year and until the golf tournament next year; so until then keep playing golf so you will have another good chance to be a member of this team.

ENGLISH CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

The English Club met on May 14, at the House in the Woods. The meeting was called to order by the new president, Martha Wilcox and minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Lizette Black, vice-president and program chairman, presented several members of the creative writing class of this quarter who read some of their creations. Taking part were Anne Shipp, Harriet Singletary, Celeste Champion, and Bobby Snow. After the readings comments were made on the writings with suggestions from members of the club.

which she developed by conversation.

Celeste Champion read her juvenile story of "The Little Straw Twins." Bobby Sue and Betty Joe, the twins, met many adventures with their friend, the little leaf.

Mrs. Odum also suggested that the girls send their works to the Atlantic Monthly and Whitman Company. After the program, there was a general discussion on verse writing with addresses from "The Writer Market."

Bobby Snow read an essay, "On Being the Youngest Sister," an appeal to those who have always been the one to wear Big Sister's "hand-me-downs."

Harriet Singletary read Ethel Bentley's "A Dog's Life." It is the story of a little dog who, sent as a present from an admirer, finds out what life with girls in a dormitory can be like.

Anne Shipp used as her idea a picture from "The New Yorker,"
