FACULTY ATTENDS GEO.

Chairman of the Board of Trustees, Mr. Willard Yancey, and Miss Lillian Patterson represented G. S. W. C.

DOPE ON DINING HALL

President and Clerk of the Board, Mr. G. W. C. C. will be before students will again be eating in the dining hall, Mrs. Eva Hightower, hostess, announced that "that is the $64 question! But it will be before a week or ten days at the most." The prefabricated kitchen has been erected and new, modern equipment installed. Among the additions are a steam oven for baking, an electric hot plate and a toaster for more "dreadfast" appeal, a hot water cabinet, and a deep fryer. For convenience and efficiency, there has been added a steam oven which is to be able to make any cook with ease and it is a dream come true. The arrangements have been worked out by the Social Committee of G. S. W. C. and students are eating their meals "family style" again!

The well-known Barter Players of Abingdon, Virginia, will bring their company to the stage in the Georgia State College Auditorium on February, 2nd. The tour is sponsored by the Faculty Club of the College, and will include performances on campus and in Valdosta High School Auditorium.

The appearance of this incomparable group at the Metropolitan Opera House for the past six seasons has ensured the great enthusiasm of both American and European audiences. The group has been recognized as one of the greatest in the world. The orchestra is under the direction of the noted conductor, Mr. Arturo Toscanini.

The Barter Players are known throughout the country for their magnificent interpretation of the classics, and their ability to make the most complicated works of art understandable to all audiences. Their performances have been praised by critics and audiences alike for their exquisite acting and the high level of their musical and dramatic performances.

The group will perform a variety of works, including the well-known ballet "Swan Lake," which is a modern adaptation of the story of the Russian ballet of the same name. The performance will feature the noted dancers, including the famous Ballerina Maria Tallchief, who has brought the role of Odette/Odile to life on stage with unparalleled grace and beauty.

In addition to the traditional ballet, the Barter Players will also perform a variety of other works, including the operas "Carmen," "Tosca," and "La Bohème," as well as the dramatic works "Hamlet," "Romeo and Juliet," and "The Taming of the Shrew." The production of these works will be under the direction of Mr. Daniel Weeks, who has been praised for his innovative and creative approach to directing performances.

The Barter Players are known for their ability to transport audiences to another time and place, and their performances are not to be missed. The group will be performing on February 2nd, and tickets are available for purchase at the Georgia State College Auditorium. The performance is sure to be a highlight of the academic year, and it is recommended that students plan to attend as soon as possible.
... Club Meets Tonight
In The House-In-The-Woods

There are twenty-three organizations on campus. All together these clubs have a total of about thirty-five meetings a month. How many of them are important or interesting enough to merit the time they require?

Apparently former students had some purpose in organizing these clubs. Probably they enjoyed going to the meetings and devoting time to projects that would be worthwhile. Students now go along with an attitude of "havens. I've got to go to the club tonight; I wonder if they are going to have something good to eat, the program will probably be dull; I wouldn't go if I hadn't already cut so many meetings."

clubs could be entertaining and beneficial if they were approached with more enthusiasm and initiative on the part of the members. Lack of interest, and this is significant when the question of "what type of programs would you like to have this year" is met with blank stares and dead silence.

There are two obvious reasons for the low-interest rating of campus clubs. Students belong to too many clubs and there are too many clubs to belong to.

The point system regulating club membership may be the basic problem. The solution may be remedied by consolidating some of the clubs. For instance, two or three of the organizations coming under the Humanities department might be brought together. The Mass-Science Club, with many divisions, such as the Math-Science Club with its Math, Biology, and Chemistry divisions. With the divisions rotating in presenting the programs there would certainly be more variety and a wider appeal.

Adopting a project or theme for the year to which all the members could contribute would be a drawing card. Such a project might have campus wide appeal.

For example the Honor Society created school-wide interest in sponsoring their Marga campaign. Also they hold Honors Day each year to recognize senior students and to bring a noted outside speaker.

The Math-Science Club once had a clever project creating Little Willie, whose activities were portrayed in a show case in the Ad Building, and whose impersonators during exams were remarkably true to life.

One faculty member has suggested that all the clubs join in the project of protecting the Camellia yard from freezes. The camellia bushes could be double-dated with a Freshman, the club being responsible for covering a certain number of bushes whenever a freeze is announced.

Identity departmental clubs should supplement the students' coursework by presenting programs relating to a certain field of study. The Junior, a small organization might be formed.

The Executive Committee will immediately begin to contact recent graduates and students in graduate work for study in the School of Social Work at Tulane University. Miss Zona Bennett was appointed to represent Miss Annette Knopf as Secretary/Treasurer of SOA for the remainder of the term.

A copy of all student announcements is to be placed on the three main bulletin boards—the dining hall board, the Ad Building board, and the board in the Town Girl's Lounge. Student announcements must also be placed in the temporary bulletin boards.

Executive Committee will meet Friday afternoon with the Point Committee to work on the point system.

Miss Zona Bennett was appointed to replace Miss Annette Knopf as Secretary/Treasurer of SOA for the remainder of the term.

The President of the S. G. A. was asked to get a large calendar to put in the General Office for recording all campus activities.
LOST WEEK END

By BEGEE N CREA

For the first time in two and a half years we are going home for the weekend! It ain’t Thanksgiving and it ain’t Christmas and it ain’t Spring Holidays and it also ain’t because we have finally saved up $4.27 for bus fare—if you must know its because we have a ride.

A weekend! A whole long beautiful weekend, unmarred by washing, Thanksgiving dinners, or taking down the Christmas tree, or planting Spring onions, or doing weeks hours.

There are a number of problems facing us in this new venture of our college career. Our mothers didn’t tell us. Neither did Miss Myra or Mrs. Scoones. Frankly we are frustrated. Please assure one tells us the first step in the procedure of going home.

Should you fill out your application and go home, or go home and fill out your application? Do you sign out on your card on the monitor’s sheet?

Perhaps we need permission to go home. We once heard about a blanket covering this sort of thing. Should we get a hundred per cent wool blanket or will fifty per cent do?

Bets from Books

By “BOOTS”

“New Orleans Holiday” is a gay and romantic 1965 book by Henry James. It is not an ordinary travel book, because in a colloquial way it tells you what to see and what to do in New Orleans. She has cleverly mixed fact with fiction. It has a vast range of subjects. Some will be interested in her presentation of Creole architecture or of the Quadruple Balconies, the tales of the pirate, Jean Lafitte, or the story of the Mardi Gras.

Miss Early is a New Engander by birth, but she has traveled extensively. She is the travel writer for her other travel books. She began her career as a newspaper reporter and finished her career in assignments in Boston, Paris, Italy, and the West Indies.

No Rest for the Weary

By ANNE FORSTON

When I arrived at my destination, I was immediately introduced to my charge. The proud parents bowing adoringly at their offspring said simply, “This is Firecracker.”

I must admit that the nickname “Firecracker” made me look a little more closely at the young member of the Davis family, and after having slyly given him the once over, my heart simply cried out in pain for the “little angel” who would go through life with the horrible prefix—“Firecracker.”

This adorable little creature, with his blonde curls, big blue eyes, rosebud mouth (which now smiled so sweetly at me), and little cherub body, did not in the least resemble a firecracker.

The Davis’ then took their leave of me with detailed instructions, and also leaving me quite alone with their “pride and joy.” Friendliness and quietness reigned until it was evident that “mother and daddy” were by now a good four blocks away—then all bedlam broke loose, “Firecracker” paraded in against all odds, an “excited” plot, equipped with an interesting style of writing made this a very enjoyable evening’s reading.

Life of A Feature Editor

By ALCYONE COLWER

That life of a feature editor—surviving one’s roommate is beaten over the head for ideas, and your end of the hall is continuously on as you insist upon peace and quiet as you wash your pens, and take your head off the wall upon you smother against the wall.

But let me tell you about my experiences. The first step a feature editor—yell for an inspiration, please don’t get me wrong! I screamed “write so-and-so for me” in my steps to look for her, and at Wednesday noon comes, I retraced my steps to look for her, and at Wednesday noon comes, I retraced my steps to look for her, and at Wednesday noon comes, I retraced my steps to look for her, and at Wednesday noon comes, I retraced my steps to look for her, and at Wednesday noon comes, I retraced my steps to look for her, and at Wednesday noon comes, I retraced my steps to look for her.

Finding myself quite alone with my columns I sat down to society to take things in hand, and—“sigh” Swords and shield had gone out with Caesar; so I had nothing but my three year old lungs to fight battle with, nevertheless, in that mournful tale. “Firecracker” was now noisily trying to close himself up in the desk drawer, but with no avail.

I managed to grab him before the desk lamp jumped to the floor with a sickening thud, taking with it a “dying hippopotamus at dawn”, nothing but my bare hands to remind me that it’s due to me when I arrived at my destination.

I opened the desk drawer, but with no avail. I cleaned up my mess (which I didn’t mind doing) but now I had to bathe “Firecracker” (which I did mind doing).

Resigned to fate I grabbed him in a scarf grip with both arms, and holding him at a tight angle marched towards the bathroom. The determined and will to live is continuously in an uproar as I squeezed him. I was immediately introduced to my charge, “This is Firecracker.”

GOLF TOURNAMENT BEGINNS THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 5

Next week on Thursday the golf tournament is to begin; and, if the weather permits, it shall end on Wednesday, February 25. This gives twenty days to play off matches, and may be sunny days! The entry fee for the tournament has been placed on the Sports Club bulletin board in the Ad Building.

The last of the tournament, held in the spring of 1947, was won by Mary Ann Sauls. Shall she stand undated?

TENNIS SEMI-FINALISTS

The tennis tournament which was begun last quarter is now in the semi-finals. Thadyne Pott is the only player who has as yet reached the semi-finals. The winners of each tourney game are also posted in the Ad Building.

INDOOR RECREATION ROOM

The dome, now used by the tumbling class, will in the near future serve as an indoor recreation room. There, on rainy winter days, students will gather to play badminton, table tennis, and other indoor games. Even bridges! Sports hours will be given those students who are active in these games. (Exception—bridges.)

INSTRUCTION FOR OFFICIALS

Yet, what can one do who likes athletics, but in some way is unable to enter actively into match games? The College Sports Club is asking girls to become officials for the match games. Special instruction will be given these girls, who, once they become officials, become also members of the Sports Club and receive team credit for their services. A sheet to be signed is now on the dining hall bulletin board. Who knows...in the future G. S. W. C. girls may be officiating at home town athletic meets all over the state.

GEORGIA WEATHER

Due to Georgia weather, only two archery practices have been held this quarter. Still it is not too late for beginners to come out, or for experienced archers to practice and become eligible to shoot in the archery tournament. Betty Alderman and Virginia Bray are tired of this quarter. Still it is not too late for beginners to come out, or for girls to become officials for the match games. Special instruction will serve as an indoor recreation room. Therefore, on rainy winter days, students will gather to play badminton, table tennis, and other indoor activities.

NEW RULES

Revised rules of the Sports Club Constitution will appear in the next issue of the "Canopy." They will be very important to members of the club.
