Lord's Day
22 May 1949

Dedications, like epigrams and epitaphs, usually have to be taken with a grain of salt—even by those of us who are on salt-free diets! In 1934 it has been a long, long time since anything has given me such genuine happiness as has the dedication of the 1949 PINE CONE. The words pleased by the PINE CONE dedication—first, perhaps, just because I have been remembered, but chiefly because whoever wrote the simple dedicatory words has said everything worth saying about me. It makes me feel I'm still alive. I'm a little embarrassed at having been taken so completely by surprise. It hasn't been too often in the fifteen years that girls have been able to keep anything from me—not very long anyway—and I rather enjoy the situation.

Well, I might as well quit stalling and say goodbye. Whatever I may have been able to do for any one of our GSWC girls since joined the College of Arts, Sciences, or Home Economics, for the last fifteen years that girls have been able to keep anything from me—not very long anyway—and I rather enjoy the situation.

Congratulation To The Class of 1949

Memories: Yes, even in 1935 those names were the same. The strain of the final exams, of the final meetings of the year. The twenty-sixth graduation of the college boasted three seniors. Dr. Lena J. Hawk, dean of the college, presided, presented the senior class.

The Baccalaureate sermon was delivered by the Reverend Dr. A. T. Whitehill G. B. in the Ad. building so promising and so reminiscent of the past. AQUACADE: The Miller with tears streaming down his face, yelling, "I'm sorry!"

MAN'S BEST FRIEND
Ask Mary Ann McDonald what you will. She's finishing school this year. With which she did very well. She has a boyfriend, too. And now, a most famous last word—"Good Luck!"

Thoughts of a Junior

"Write about how it feels to be a Senior—about what you think of when you look back over the last four years."

Between September 18th, 1945 and June 9th, 1949 there are twelve sets of final exams: some 4000 hours spent in studying (optimistic); 3180 five minute deadlines, half of those final hours, and an ending number of walks to the Woman's Building (during a certain quarter) in the cold, grey, wet rain for mass.

There are also several collisions (far more near misses with the monitors, a handful of court warnings; and a stint of being camped-out. Sprinkled ever the four years, too, are the "first" unsatisfactory; a period of cut probation, quarrels, etc."

"And your future..."
KAPPAS WIN PLAQUE FOR '49

The GSBC Aquacade of 1949, an annual event for Swimming Quarter, was given Friday night, May 27. Rev. Clinton White was the announcer for the occasion. The program included three parts with competitive, comedy, medley races and diving.

The theme of the event, Indian Love Story, was carried out in the posters of Indian and a group swimming to the playing of "Indian Love Call." The story was dressed as Indians sitting in front of the pool. Marjorie Nichols sang and divers were told with swimmers the "Indian Love Call." The story was told with swimmers wading up to their bare toes. (A lot of good that will do.)

The presentations of awards were made to the members of the American Legion Club, The Brightest Cleaning Service, Brookwood Pharmacy, for that Quick Build-Up, after Class Let-Down, and Solly Shows, at 319 E. Hill Ave.

Thoughts of a Junior

Summer—schools close and graduates begin seeking jobs; June comes, the month for gifts for graduates and brides; organized playground activities; vacation time; travel; increase in motorizing; height of the baseball season; picnics; parties; fishing; summer excursions; heat prostrations; and "Dog Days.

This might seem to be a full summer and very long, but there is so much to do before school starts in the fall. Maybe some of these things will take place during the summer, but many of the others to come to the faces of everyone because it is the time to rest before beginning another period of hard and steady work. Swimming and fishing trips to the lake or the coast may not be as frequent during the fall, but they can be just as enjoyable as the longer periods. The height of the baseball season probably brings excitement to the hearts of many who thrill when they can watch the crack of the bat or the balls called "Cokes! Popcorn! Peanuts!" The visits to the Grandmother in the country or in another town or state will most likely take place sometime during the summer. The fights with little brother or sister may not be as frequent, but they might throw a light, dark, on the picture, but only for the moment, because it is wonderful to be at home if only for three short months.

But the time comes. September and school again. It is a short time, but you will discover how much you missed it. Many more days and years will be spent on the campus, at work, at school, and on the beach. Most of us seem to disagree with the learned men or either find it inconvenient to distribute our learning over a long period of time.

May I suggest that everyone dig out the dusty, unused books, try to find those glasses which are hidden under the laundry or some such place and retire to the library, a secluded corner, or under a big tree. After doing this, open your mind to what is past. Between September 18th, 1945 and June 9th, 1949 a few more days and years will be spent on the campus. This is the time to begin to expect the future of "WC.

To Those Who Graduate

With the date of graduation approaching, thoughts turn to the Seniors who will be leaving. Among them are future career girls and women who are entering a more serious life—simple private lives. But behind all of them is their common bond—"WC.

There will be reunions and class meetings on the annual homecoming day. They will be small things, seemingly insignificant now will prevent them from returning to their Alma Mater and renewing old times with fellowclassmates.

In spite of all this, we will remember the days that they spent on the campus going to the clubs and classes—days at the pool or going to the show or the beloved Brookwood. All these things make life a little easier.

But the future is bright and these graduates are part of the "future generation" that is coming. This will be a great year to graduate and to look ahead. In 1949, we wish the best of everything in the years to come as we will never forget you.

ANN SMITH

All Ye Who Procrastinate

Now is the time for all good "WC"ers to come to the aid of their quality points. Maybe this is a trite parody on an old familiar saying, but considering your state of affairs. Do you have enough hour to be changed to a higher classification and do you have enough quality points to balance your hours?

Unfortunately somewhere, somehow, back in the history of the school, stated that for every hour you must have a quality point. The student body could be divided into three groups—those who have quality points to spare, those who are sitting right on the margin, and last, those who are hopelessly behind.

The psychology books suggested that it is more satisfactory to study a long period of time than to study a few days or get some homework. Of us seem to disagree with the learned men or either find it inconvenient to distribute our learning over a long period of time.

May I suggest that everyone dig out the dusty, unused books, try to find those glasses which are hidden under the laundry or some such place and retire to the library, a secluded corner, or under a big tree.
