Ford To Edit '51 Pine Cone; Bush Chosen Business Manager

Owen to Represent Valdosta State at Engineer's Ball

By SUE BELLOFF

Miss Mary Owen has been appointed editor of the Pine Cone for 1950-51. Miss Mary Brand, president of SGA, also announced that Bush chosen to edit the Student Handbook for the next year. She has been an active member of the YWCA since her freshman year, and has served on the Cabinet for three years. She is a member of the Dance Club, the Math-Science Club, and the Home Economics Club. She has held the position of first and second vice-president of the Student Government Association during her junior year.

Miss Ford has chosen Miss Lucy Bush of College as new Business Manager for the Pine Cone. She has served on the Y Cabinet her junior year, and on the Student Council. She was elected a member of the year's team. She also serves in the capacity of chairman of ECA. She is a member of the Sociology Club, the English Club, and the Glee Club. She held the offices of treasurer and secretary of the Glee Club.

Miss Ford plans to announce the remaining members of the staff at a later date.

Campus Clubs Elect Officers

With the beginning of Spring semester, the various clubs on campus elected officers. The following clubs held their elections for next year:

- Arts Club: President, Sidney Jones; Vice-president, Leila Harmon; Secretary-treasurer, Dotty Deadwyler
- The Athletics Club: President, William John Bauer; Secretary-treasurer, Betty Deadwyler
- The Music Club: President, Mary Gibson; Vice-president, John Moon; Secretary-treasurer, Alice Carpenter
- The Drama Club: President, Betty Brand; Assistant secretary, Anna Marzano; Secretary-treasurer, Jack Baldwin
- The Basketball Club: President, William Buskin; Assistant secretary, Elia Yata; Vice-president, Mary Elizabeth King
- The Business Club: President, Betty Henderson; Secretary-treasurer, Mary Holder

Any person who has been staring around in the coldest of colds by the middle of the day, on some of the warmer days are an irony. They would be swimmers.

Mary Ann Dykes, Thadwene Pitt, and Jackie Silvis, who were chosen in recent election to lead their classes for the year 1950-51.

May Day-Play Day Plans Announced

The biggest day on the Valdosta State College campus this spring will be April 29 when we have our annual May Day-Play Day festival in honor of the May Queen and her court.

Selected senior girls from the high schools and Junior Colleges in this area have been invited to spend a day on the campus. The activities planned for them will begin with registration and assignment to color teams. Each girl loses her school identity in an effort to win points for her team.

The morning is taken up with games and contests between the teams and demonstrations of sports on the campus. There will be exhibitions of swimming, archery, and golf. After a picnic lunch under the pines, the guests will attend a Pine Arts program to be presented by the Speech and Music Department.

At three o'clock there will be a tour conducted over the campus to show the visitors the activities of the various departments. Open house will be observed in all buildings and there will be special exhibits in many of the classrooms.

The climax of the day will be the crowning of the May Queen, Miss Elizabeth Owen, and her court will then serve the festival in honor presented by the Dance Club and the Glee Club.

The cuts which will be allowed for Sport Spring Quartet have been posted. The rules are:

- Classes meeting 5 times a week. Jr. col., 7; Sr. col., 1.
- Classes meeting 4 times a week.
- Classes meeting 3 times a week.

Miss Herndon has been proudly exhibiting her newest possession—a black cocker spaniel. She answers to the name of "Buchie."
SMITH

Bare Facts

If I were asked to class attitudes I might make the following divisions: that of cooperation, that of apathy, and that of antagonism. Of course, there are many other types of attitudes, and varying degrees of those mentioned, but my main concern is the rather ordinary forms of each with which we all see every day.

We are all given certain rules by which we must live, not only here at college but in that thing we call society. Almost anyone will admit that it is rather ordinary forms of each which we call society. Almost anyone will admit that it is not always easy to conform, and make an issue of why should they?—They are not just anybody; they are members of a clan known as 'privileged class.'

Of course there are those who feel it is somewhat of a disgrace to conform, and make an issue of the fact that you are noticed very much, everywhere you go, and if you were noticed over us, perhaps there would be some change in the course. In some of the faces that greet you in the morning with a grim stare, or a change in the manner one sees people, if we need a change, there is no question, we must have it for our own good.

When you next go down the halls and pass upperclassmen in lines, does it show a person who doesn't do her share of the cleaning up in the room? Would it show a person who shuns membership on clean-up committees? Would it show a person who never goes back to the kitchen for anything in the dining hall? Would it show a person who monopolizes the telephone all afternoon? Should we stop before we get too personal?

Examine your reaction carefully the next time you think of a mirror and try to imagine what kind of character reference the mirror would give you. The Scripture states that 'whatsoever a man sows, that shall he also reap.' The reflection that you cast on yourself and on others, coming back to you, and all aspects of the phenomena cannot be explained by physics. For "life is the mirror of king and slave,* and what just we are and do: then give to the world the best that you have and the best will come back to you.

YANCEY

This Is My Prayer

To be awakened by the song of a bird,
To feed on the smile of a friend,
To spend the morning listening to soft voices,
To face the wind in the pines, to partake of raindrops,
To see the pink of a camellia,
To see the afternoon thus yellow of a butterfly,
The autumn colors of a maple, the slowly receding tide,
To see the dewy morning sun,
To spend the evening with a good book, walking in the rain, in lively conversation,
To know the sleep of a day well lived;
To begin the week with a zeal and a goal
To end the week in a happiness;
To begin each year with staunch resolutions
To end each year having kept them and having accomplished something;
To enter life without a purpose;
To end it knowing that such good has been done for having lived it;
For the happiness of others in every way;
For the universal good will and love;
For the beauty of the inner person;
For faith, hope and love.

This is my prayer.

KING

Through the Looking Glass

A mirror is indispensable to most of us. Its piece of silvery glass is the most honest hint that a person can have. It shows every flaw, every imperfection in our appearance, no matter how hard we try to cover them up. If our features are not much admired, or our clothes, wrinkled our mirror will inform us of the fact without a qualm.

Remember the old queen in Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs? She went to her faithful mirror every morning and asked, "Mirror, mirror on the wall, Who's the fairest of them all?" and the mirror did not mind in the least telling her that she was not the fairest.

We need a mirror like hers, not to tell us when we are in appearance, but to show hurts someone's feelings, snub someone's kindness, or quarrel with our neighbors. Man's quest for ages has been for that unknown element which would reveal what we are to our lives to make us happy. Robert Burns wrote, "O wad some power the giftie gie us To see ourselv's as ither see us!"

What would your reflection be in a magic mirror that revealed your thoughts and actions to you every day? Would it show who cheats on tests when the teacher isn't looking? Would it show a person who doesn't do her share of the cleaning up in the room? Would it show a person who shuns membership on clean-up committees? Would it show a person who monopolizes the telephone all afternoon, or a person who is too personal?

Examine your reflection carefully the next time you look into a mirror and try to imagine what kind of character reference the mirror would give you. The Scripture states that "whatsoever a man sows, that shall he also reap." The reflection that you cast on yourself and on others, comes back to you, and all aspects of the phenomena cannot be explained by physics. For "life is the mirror of king and slave," and just what we are and do:

"Then give to the world the best that you have and the best will come back to you.

What kind of reflection will come back to you?..."
A "Co-ed" Speaks

By TOM CROUCH

The CAMPUS CANOPY dated September 21, 1950, carried a headline stating that "Mon. Students Admitted to GSU." If you were to read further into this article you would find that this fall for the first time in its history, the Georgia State Women's College is admitting men as students at the regular sessions. This is an emergency measure brought about by the war and the resultant moratorium of Enrollment at Valdosta to the Atlanta campus of that university.

We use the term "The Measly Thirteen" by the rest of the GSU student body.

Time seems not to touch the college even though years, wars, change of presidents, post-war reconstruction, internal affairs and strife have marked the coming, going, and coming again of the Co-eds. Many of the same instructors are here, and some of the policies of the school are about the same. The campus is much as it was then—only prettier since the palms are growing tall and the azaleas bloom so profusely.

The greatest change can be noticed in the appearance of the young ladies—the show now of the anxieties of their war-time predecessors dropped around and just waited until the next shoe stamp, sugar stamp, shipment of cosmetics and sweethearts came due.

Speaking as a Co-ed let me assure you that it is a privilege to have the opportunity of attending a senior college here in south Georgia instead of having to run clear to the time when this college will be one of the greater educational centers of this area.

The question of the week: Is love truly blind or merely nearsighted?
We've really started the quarter off with a bang—so many events and activities are on the calendar! A beginners’ team is being organized, and there is no excuse for anyone not to come out for sports and activities on Monday and Wednesday nights. This team will have practices and games scheduled for the plaque as well as the other team.

The Sports calendar is filled to its capacity this quarter, having tennis, archery, golf, and badminton tournaments plus swimming and softball practice. Rehearsal and the Aquade. Five match games have been scheduled so the Kappas and Lambdas should stimulate the “team spirit” and be out to win and win big.

The Swim Tournament: All freshmen are sure to sign up for the singles tennis tournament. It is posted now, so be sure to get your name there before the list is taken down. From the number of Freshmen seen on the tennis courts lately this tournament seems to have the making of a good one. So come on out. Freshmen, this is your chance to show your skill with a tennis racket.

Competitive Swimming: Swimming practice for the competitive portion of the aquacade will begin soon, so everyone watch for announcement. You don’t want to be the only one who knows about it, do you? The least you can do is to try out, so when the coaches announce practice go out if you can qualify for any of the events. The breast stroke, back crawl and competitive events—will be the events.

Senior Recitals To Be In Near Future

Two members of the senior class, Miss Mary Owen and Miss Edwina Fott, are unanaesthetized with the idea of planning to present recitals within the next few weeks.

Miss Owen plans for her recital to be at eight o’clock on Tuesday, April 16. She will present a song recital, and will give her debut in this field. Her program will consist of songs based on the life of Anne Boleyn, one of the wives of Henry the Eighth.

Miss Bone is a piano major and will present her recital on Monday, April 16.

The program is to be made up of an intersection of modern dance which the audience will enjoy. After they pass on. you set tie to your room, you are promptly met by the group and if you now are. According to the length of time you were exposed, you lie down and die.

If you realize your toasted epidermis and determine what shade you now are according to length of time you were exposed, you are either tomato red, fuchsia, scarlet, beet-red, magenta, cerise, fuchsia, or crimson. But no matter how red your face is or how much you feel, you usually can see, one of the realizations looking like Revlon’s latest shade of nail polish—"Pink Lady."

Tuesday, April 16: After dinner coffee, Cocktails.

Wednesday, April 17: Student Council, Y Cabinet, Social Club, Sports Practice.

Thursday, April 18: Owen recital, Sports Club Installation, Sports Council, Glee Club.

Friday, April 19: Philharmonic Club, Glee Club, Honor Society, Glee Club, Vaspers.

Swimming: Swimming practice (from Page One) is guided with the group and if permission is obtained beforehand from the Physical Education Department. Recreational swimming will be at these times: Tuesday, 4-5:30; Friday, 4-5:30; Saturday, 10-12:30; Sunday, 3-5, and everyday from two to twelve.

BROOKWOOD

Week-End Special

Banana Split 19c

BROOKWOOD

PHARMACY

Drugs and School Supplies

Thirty-Eight Students Make Dean’s List

Winter Quarter

The Tennis list for the Winter quarter of 1950 included the following students:

SOPHOMORE CLASS: Sue Beloff

Annapole Bore

Gayle Hemmingway

Jean Shultz

Janice Thornton

MRS. Ralph Zeigler

JUNIOR CLASS: Edvinda Ford

Margaret Mann

MRS. Bonnie Cunningham Shadrick

SOPHOMORE CLASS: Edgitha Eassett

Lucil Bauer

Ruth Dinkins

Joanne Gilmer

Barbara Green

Katherine D. Hill

Rabeyle Joke

Gloria Johnson

Loeine Keene

Emnie Kenny

Mary Elizabeth King

Joyce Long

Melba Moore

Gloria Proctor

Marjorie Ellen Smith