the question has been presented many times as to what our college needs. one man is convinced that we have every-thing we need, whereas another is convinced that we need a gymnasium and library. however, since we do not have these plant facilities, we need a more over-all school spirit with more emphasis on making the student body improve the welfare of the entire school and less on small groups.

this study is only a cross section of the faculty, but one may easily predict that there is a consensus of opinion about this matter. all of these needs cannot be fulfilled immediately, but a systematic plan of integration and construction is expected to begin soon on two of these needs, the classrooms and the gymnasium. it is the opinion of the honor system. we will lead us to a larger and more well-rounded institution in the near future.

does this sound familiar?

an editorial writer of the mesa college criterion sketches a college girl:

she is a little too fat and usually has some trouble with her skin. she is always afraid she will get a pimple and she is under control.

her hair looks nice most of the time, but she insists it's a mess. she is most often seen with a sweater, a skirt, saddle shoes and antibacterial. while the other girls, she is the only one of the group. she looks well washed and brushed and attractive.

she has an inferiority complex, she says—just an awful one. she is very sensitive to criticism. she likes to be left alone and does not like being disturbed.

she finds her own actions and reactions fascinating. she likes to tell how tired she is, and how many exercises she did today. "i am the only one of the group."

her powers of concentration are just gone at the end of half an hour of listening to that man, she says, and she gets so bored, and she loves being one of the group. she looks well washed and her sense of humor is all marrted up with puns. also, she finds it amusing to alarm her friend in a situation.
brushed and attractive.

if you probe ever so slightly you will suddenly be face to face with her serious side. she will confide it, as a fault, that she is not all americans are noted for being professional grappers because they are hot; they gripe about things because they are cold. they gripe because the weather is too cold, or too hot, or too windy. they gripe about every thing to do; they gripe because they are hot; they gripe because they are cold.

graspers are not americans, all americans are grappers, but some are not grappers and are without Grippers it would be difficult to make a man understand his need for an appreciation course. when you probe ever so slightly you will suddenly be face to face with your serious side. she will confide it, as a fault, that she is not all not long ago there appeared in this column a few, probably not very well put, remarks on the subject of giving those persons who try to make an impression a chance to prove that they have a well developed sense of honor. they have a well developed sense of honor. the honor system which has been recently inaugurated as an integral part of v.s.c. is in the hands of the student body and its success or failure will completely depend upon what the students do with it.

the honor system does not necessarily mean that when a test is given the instructor must leave the classroom to prove his faith in the students and their system. an instructor remaining in the classroom should in no way indicate that the honor system is not in effect, or should students use this as an excuse for not adhering strictly to the regulations of such a system. the presence of an instructor should bring forth no objections from those students abiding by the system.

Under The Spreading Canopy

Mr. Webster defines as a word, “the Explanation of the meaning or meaning of a word.” (Copyright 1936). He must be right. However, that nothing to do with this article, which has nothing to do with anything. This was written while beating around a bush located about 200 yards south of the Administration building on the VSC campus - this quite a beat for one reporter to cover.

A recent survey at Snodgrass University has brought to light some statistics on the college newspaper game. The article, "Campus Canopy," reports these findings.

"Campus Canopy" May 3, 1947, points out "Campus Canopy" is around a bush located about 200 yards south of the VSC campus.

However, Barmy College for Women declares that by printing rainy days, it doesn't seem to matter in the quality of journalism writing throughout the nation. 89% of college students use their newspaper over their heads on rainy days.

Incidentally, "The Name Your Newspaper" contest for VSC students closed last Friday. The lucky winner was Helene Jazwell, freshman dog education major. Helene submitted the lucky winning title of "Campus Canopy," thanks to Miss Jazwell, who, of course wins a life subscription to "Life" magazine.

Milo O'lins, one of the foremost Irish actors is well known for his performances in his country's dramatic literature. He has been played by Paul Vincent Carrell "one of the finest actors of today." He spent four years at the Gate Theater in Dublin before coming to America. He joined the LONDON REPERTORY COMPANY, sponsored by Touring Players, Inc. to play "Trinculo" in THE TEMPEST.

Thomas Coul, of the Birmingham and Worthington Repertory company, England, has joined the LONDON REPERTORY COMPANY, here, sponsored by Touring Players, Inc. to play "Antonio" in THE TEMPEST.

Jack Harahan came to America for a role in the Nipper Bruce production of YES M'LORD. Born in France, Mr. Harahan has spent much of his life in England in that theater, and joined the LONDON REPERTORY COMPANY to tour here as "Ferdinand" in THE TEMPEST. The tour is sponsored by Touring Players, Inc.

Martin Waldron, the "Propero" of the London Repertory Company's THE TEMPEST, left a large role in the Broadway production of ST. JOAN in order to join the London Repertory Company, sponsored by Touring Players, Inc. to play "Trinculo" in THE TEMPEST.

Everyone tries to be popular! Everyone wants to have friends! People spend hours reading books on how to improve their personality and more hours practicing what they learn. They start sending out compliments as freely as a politician does into the atmosphere; they use soap and toothpaste; and the first thing they know, they have more friends than Dale Carnegie.

If you have any friends left, you can easily rid of them by completely ignoring them whenever they speak to you. Just because other people are friendly and want to talk, you can talk for hours and hours in that atmosphere.

You can create a life-long enemy of the monitor if you will play your radio loudly enough so she will have to come and tell you to please turn it down at least twice during quiet hour.

Of course all of these things, there is someone who still insists on being your friend, just send her to us. We're ex-clubber, in no time flat. We re ex-clubber.

If, after trying all of these things, there is someone who still insists on being your friend, just send her to us. We re ex-clubber, in no time flat. We're ex-clubber.

And on I rode...

SELECTIVE SERVICE PROVIDES DEFERMENT

Major General Lewis B. Hershey, head of Selective Service, today announced that Selective Service will not make any special provisions to give students 20 or 21 years old or male members of their academic year to enlist in the service of their choice. General Hershey explained that such arrangements are not necessary this year. Any arrangements to the Selective Service law provide that students are herefore to be DEFERRED instead of having their induction POSTPONED. They will, therefore, have ample opportunity after the completion of their academic year to enroll in the service of their choice.

The Selective Service Act of 1948 provided that any student who, while satisfyingly pursuing a full-time course, was ordered for induction would upon presenting the facts to his local board have his induction POSTPONED until he completes his academic year. At the end of the year, the student became liable for immediate induction. The 1951 amendments to the Act changed this. General Hershey pointed out, by providing that any student pursuing a full-time course who was ordered for induction would, if he had never before been deferred, be DEFERRED in Class I-S until the end of his academic year and could receive only one such deferment. A student who is entitled to a statutory I-S deferment must be deferred for induction if his local board determines that he is satisfactory pursuing a full-time course at the time the order for induction is issued. The law says that he shall be deferred "upon presenting the facts" that he is satisfactory pursuing a full-time course at the time the order for induction is issued. A student who is ordered for induction should not be notified by his local board, General Hershey explained, all that is necessary is to notify the boy and his parents that he is insufficiently enrolled, acceptance and registration do not count, actual attendance at classes is the prerequisite.

Selective Service law places upon each registrant the obligations of citizenship. Before a boy is notified by his local board that he has been notified of his current status. It would therefore be a wise move, General Hershey explained, for each student to have his school officials notified that he has passed his preinduction physical examination. If the local board put on notice that the student is pursuing a full-time course, General Hershey emphasized that it will be little danger of a last minute mix-up, which might academically the student legally entitle to a statutory I-S deferment.

The new Selective Service law provided for the Class I-S statutory deferment and gave the President authority to prescribe regulations governing the deferral of students who meet either of the criteria as deemed necessary to the maintenance of the national health, safety, or interest. The President subsequently prescribed a Class I-S deferment program. Students meeting one or both of the criteria in this classification, General Hershey said, will be given an initial review of their local boards. To assist the boards in making such decisions, students who are in the process of satisfying either of the male members of their class or who made a score of 70 or better on the College Qualification Test may be considered for a Class I-S deferment. The law provides, however, that local boards are not required to defer men who meet one or both of the criteria. This is still under the discretion of the board. General policy is that students meeting either or both criteria will be deferred.

Students who meet one or both of the criteria for I-I-S deferment have a right to appeal if their local board does not defer them, General Hershey reminded students. He said a student may appeal to the State Appeal Board within 10 days of the date the local board mailed the notices that they have placed him in Class I-A. There is no particular form for taking an appeal. General Hershey explained, a letter to the local board stating both the decision and selective service number being the only requirement. If the State Appeal Board sustains the local board, it is a final decision. General Hershey pointed out, the student then has a right to appeal to the National Selective Service Appeal Board. An appeal to the national board is reviewed in the same manner as an appeal to the state board, General Hershey explained. All that is necessary is another letter to the local board.

Many students have been confused, General Hershey observed, by reading the statute, which states that a student may be deferred for either a 1-I-S or I-I-S deferment. The I-I-S is said to be upon the basis of class standing or qualification test and is granted automatically on the part of the local board. General Hershey explained. It may be granted by the local board each successive year, thus enabling students to complete their education. The I-I-S is thus a one-shot proposition designed only to allow those students who have not made a score of 70 or better on the College Qualification Test and meeting the criteria for I-I-S deferments, and who have never before been deferred, the opportunity to complete their current academic year.

General Hershey revealed. If during the academic year his work was such that he is in the prescribed upper portion of his class, or if he takes the Selective Service College Qualification Test and makes a score of 70 or better, the local board can consider him for a 1-I-S deferment for the next academic year.

The law provides generally determine during the summer months to whom I-I-S deferments shall be granted for the next academic year. In making their determination, they consider the student's class standing for the previous academic year as established by the school on Selective Service Form 108. For example, a freshman student with a 1-I-S deferment may, General Hershey pointed out, keep his class work to a point where he is in the prescribed upper portion of his class at the end of that academic year or during the year take the College Qualification Test so that he thereby becomes eligible for consideration for a 1-I-S deferment for the next year.

Whether a man is classified I-S or I-I-S, it is a deferment classification, and not a postponement of induction, General Hershey pointed out. At the end of the academic year, the local board must reenumerate his classification to determine whether he qualifies for any classification other than I-A. Following the period he is deferred another year, to enlisting in the service of his choice. General Hershey reminded students, is no particular form for taking an appeal. General Hershey explained, a letter to the local board stating both the decision and selective service number being the only requirement. If the State Appeal Board sustains the local board, it is a final decision. General Hershey pointed out, the student then has a right to appeal to the National Selective Service Appeal Board. An appeal to the national board is reviewed in the same manner as an appeal to the state board, General Hershey explained. All that is necessary is another letter to the local board.

Although the Selective Service law allows a man to enlist at any time until ordered for induction, General Hershey explained, he would request the Dean or Registrar to immediately give his local board official notice that he has completed his preinduction physical examination. This notice would be given to each time student doing satisfactory work at the time the order for induction is issued. A student who is ordered for induction should not be notified by his local board, General Hershey explained, all that is necessary is to notify the boy and his parents that he is insufficiently enrolled, acceptance and registration do not count, actual attendance at classes is the prerequisite.

Nile door opens. People opened it. The paper before me is blank, the specified time is here. My mind is blank. The specified time is here. My series of paragraphs is not.

The pertinent definition of an essay is a series or paragraphs that must write before a specified time. The specified time is arriving with the speed of a rocket plane. The series of paragraphs is not.

There is an unnatural silence circling over Senior Hall. Any silence circling over Senior Hall brings atonement. My duty is to take advantage of this odd situation, not a quotation its character.

The paper before me is blank, except for twenty-seven horizontal blue lines and one vertical red line. My mind is blank. There is an act which fills empty minds: thinking. I am trying to think. The complete lack of disturbance is encouraging me.

One lone idea approaches slowly, stalls its engine and crashes lands just out of sight behind the trees. The noise of the crash must have exited all the other ideas for they are flying in and out in all directions. I concentrate. Now the ideas are flying in an orderly V formation. One is larger and more streamlined than the others. My mind signals it to land.

But my idea is gone! I wonder if I will ever know whether it was shot down or saw the danger in time and escaped to a safer field. I am trying, again, to think. All the other ideas are gone with the streamlined one. I concentrate. I look at my paper and see twenty-seven horizontal blue lines and a vertical red one. My mind is blank. The specified time is here. My series of paragraphs is not.
