Students Select Five Girls To Be In Homecoming Court

Best Dressed Girl To Be Selected By Canopy Staff

The Campus Canopy announces that it is in quest of V.S.C.'s best dressed girl. The selection will be made from the contestants entered in the annual V.S.C. Magazine's contest to choose the "Ten Best-Dressed Girls in America." Only one girl will be chosen to represent V.S.C. She will be chosen by the Canopy staff on the basis of "a beautiful figure—absolute must for a best-dressed girl; a good grooming— not just neatness, but neatness in its purest form; makeup—know how— the sense to know how much to wear to look her best; pretty hair— and a knack for taking care of it; an overall wardrobe plan — that works off campus as well."

The candidate chosen to represent V.S.C. will be photographed in (1) a campus outfit, (2) a party dress, and (3) a swimsuit.

The ten girls chosen by Glamour from all the candidates entered under the contest in America will be the guests of Glamour in New York City for five days.

The Canopy will choose V.S.C.'s candidate for the contest.

Last year's "Ten Best-dressed College Girls" as chosen by Glamour were: Carolyn Rice, Oregon State; Karen Powers, University of Massachusetts; Mary Ann Lyle, Eastern New Mexico; Carol Simon, Western Maryland; Sara Van VYck, University of North Carolina; Claire Easterling, Ole Miss; Janet Vaughn, and Marla Lozier, Eastern New Mexico; Norma Lozier, Maryland; and Sara Van VYck, University of North Carolina.

College Newspapers Analyze Student’s Ability of Expression

(ACP) — Fun and games on campus get some editorial consideration. This from the Fresno, Calif., campus of California State University at Fresno.

The youth of today is probably the largest group of young adults attacked by public criticism and censure. The younger generation gets most of its information from the mass media. The student of today must have a body of knowledge and an action program in order to keep up with the demands of the modern world. The college student is often a social agency in the community in which his daily activities take place. The college newspaper is often a very effective means of communication. It is a way to reach the students and to let them know about what is happening on the campus and in the community.

As you stroll through the halls of VSC, let your mind wander back 50, 75, or even 100 years, to the days when the scad was full of bachelors!! She is majoring in English. Among her likes are water skiing, reading and watching good movies. She has a talent for playing the piano, but modestly admits that she doesn't play very well.

Jane admits to only one dislike: "I have enjoyed my years at VSC very much and I will always be interested in the growth and progress of this fine school." George Wallace deserves the title, "Big Wheel."

Although he was born in Stockton, Ga., in 1899, he has been living in Valdosta for many years. He is a graduate of VHS where he was pretty notable on the basketball court.

George has moved around a bit since high school days. He is a veteran of four years service in the Navy. This year, he is a senior and committee his Business Ad.

He is well established in extra-curricular activities. This year he is president of the International Relations Club on campus. He is active in this organization — last year he held the post of treasurer. George is also president of the Sigma Alpha Chi and president of the Wesley Foundation. (Pretty active, eh?)

Scholastically, George is among the leading students on campus. He makes theDean's list regularly.

Recently he was named as one of the students in the "Who's Who In American Universities and Colleges" poll. A graduate of VHS where he was pretty notable on the basketball court.

George says he likes the movies and good old bulb sessions, also.

In commenting about V.S.C., George offered some very commendable words. He praised the excellent faculty of the school and said, "I have enjoyed my years at VSC very much and I will always be interested in the growth and progress of this fine school."

George Wallace deserves the accolades of being termed an ideal student. Certainly he is a "Big Wheel" at VSC.
Sporting’ Around

I learned last week that VSC may become a member of an eight-team athletic league here in Georgia. Plans are being considered by VSC and seven other senior colleges in Georgia about forming a conference. The teams of each school could compete against each other in several sports, including basket-ball and baseball.

Colleges interested in forming the conference other than VSC are Berry, College, LeGrange, North Georgia, Oglethorpe, Piedmont, West Georgia, and Shorter College.

If the conference could be worked out, it would save a lot of headaches that VSC’s Coach Cottingham and coaches of other schools have when they try to work out a schedule. According to Dr. Ralph Thaxton, there has already been one meeting held by the officials of the interested schools and all of them seem to be in favor of the proposed conference.

The organizing of the conference might also help VSC give athletic aid to athletes who show ability. Although this is not definite at all, there is still a good chance that the conference might soon could.

Massey Clarkston of Georgia Tech has written a poem called “The Drought is Over.” I was looking through “The Atlanta Constitution” the other day and ran across a copy of it. I thought you readers might like to read it so here it is.

When things were under par.

Two victories over Old Georgia
Bu’ lldogs were asked to roll.

Like a bad dream during a nap.

For nothing had ever been so great
But now we start a new year
And things are going great
By Fire Marshal Tieron Sapp.

To reach the land of clover
But thanks to Hyder and his boys
The terrible Tech drought is over.

Study and Sputnik

(ACP) — The college press re­ acted to the Sputnik story and the look at our educational sys­ tems that resulted from American worry over the man-made sat­ ellite.

Students heard speakers on the subjects and discussed the future themselves. Here are typical ex­ examples of the talk.

“When Sputnik passed over Australia it went ‘boop, deep’. As it passed over South America and Europe it went ‘bop, beep’.

But when it went over the United States it went ‘hi, ho’.”

So said Countess Alexandra Tolksby, daughter of the Russian writer, in a lecture at Saint Mary-­of-the-Woods college, Indiana.

She explained, Russian brains have always been great, and the Americans seem to have forgotten that, scientific development is the only outlet for these people’s minds,” she said, "for they have no other opportunity to create.

According to FAGOTS, the college’s newspaper, Countess Tolksby feels Americans are playing into the Kremlin’s hands over Sputnik, but considers that while the Russians have the first satellite “they have no freedom, their food is scanty; they aren’t allowed to create or think for themselves. It is as though they tied up.”

Compliments of

Absent-minded Professor

Not so absent-minded when you get right down to it. He remembered the most important item—the Coke! Yes, people will forgive you almost anything if you just remember to bring along their favorite sparkling drink—ice-cold Coca-Cola. Do have another, professor!
