Canopy Selects 10 Best Dressed at VSC

One To Enter National Contest

Two fabulous weeks in New York in June will be the prize awarded to the ten outstanding young women selected by Glamour magazine as the "Ten Best Dressed College Girls in America". The winners will be flown to New York on May 30th via American Airlines and will stay at the Belmore Hotel until June 10th as Glamour's guests. The ten best girls on the Campus of Valdosta State College will compete for the best dressed girl on the campus and the best dressed will have the chance to go to the top as the best dressed college girl in America.

Diane Higginbotham, Mary Dickey, and Emily McBride of Valdosta are among the top ten best dressed girls. Diane who buys most of her clothes, wears blue, pink, and yellow best. Her major is secretarial science and she is the second #2 dressed girl. Mary is a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority and she is one of the 1960 Calendar Girls. Journalism is her major.

Mary Carrell Smith, who is a freshman, chooses as her best colors beige, camel, green and black, and most of her clothes are ready made. Mary is a member of the Biology Department and she holds the honors of being the 1960 Miss Calendar Girl. Diane and Emily McBride, who buys most of her clothes and whose mother makes some of them, chooses red and yellow as her best colors. Emily is major and she is a member of the Sigma Phi Epsilon pledge class.

Music by Serenaders Heard In Belgium

Music recorded by the "Serenaders" at VSC has been heard and appreciated in Louvain, Belgium, according to a letter received here recently.

A taped recording of a program which the "Serenaders" presented to the Rotary Club of Valdosta last year, was mailed to the Rotary Club in Louvain.

Dr. Harold Gulliver, head of the English Department at VSC and a Rotarian, received a letter of appreciation for the recording a few weeks ago.

In addition to being highly complimentary on the music of the college students, the letter said in part: "The students of our universities are a precious plague that Rotary ideals never will die. We do our best for that and are sure that the "blue and golden ring" theme for this year's show is Night Life." The entire production is under the directorial management of Joe Webb and Bernie Brown. Tickets are on sale now. Students .25 and adults .50. So let's all come out and see a great show. The TEKE's even have a surprise for you--their answer to the Kingston Trio.

Religious Groups Plan Vesper Programs

By Sandra Patillo

Believing that a better understanding of the various denominational doctrines would result in better human relations, the religious organizations have set up a series of vesper services designed to inform students about several of the less well-known religious groups in our community. Each week a well-informed person will discuss the basic beliefs, order of services, and distinguishing characteristics of his denomination. He will also answer any questions presented at the time.

The series will begin Thursday, Feb. 4, and run for six weeks, or until the end of winter quarter.

On Feb. 4, the program will deal with the Christian Science Society, and the speaker will be Mr. Harry S. Smith, of Atlanta. As Chairman of the Committee on Publication, Mr. Smith is the highest authority on Christian Science in the state of Georgia. Subsequent programs dealing with other denominations will be announced in the next issue of the Campus Canopy.

Vespers are conducted each Thursday evening at 6:15 in the chapel in Ashley Hall. This is a Joint project of the Young Women's Christian Association, the Men's Christian Alliance, and the Baptist Student Union. All students and faculty are welcome.

The odds are that in the years ahead, a pioneering neighbor of yours—a man or woman who expresses not land, but the horizons of health and understanding—will meet with his fellows from other parts of the world. The meeting will be in a historic place, a cornerstone set by another pioneer of another era.

The place is Whitehall, former home of Henry Morrison Flagler. Those who’ll visit it are representatives of national and public service. Here and in Kansas City, Utah, the men who are present will speak of achievement and of America’s greatest pioneers of human understanding.

It was at the age of 14, in 1844, that Henry Morrison Flagler said goodbye to his father—a Presbyterian minister in Hopeville, New York—and left for Palm Beach, Florida. Later, in 1913, he laid to rest his father in a stone vault in the same place where his parents had set up a small store and became rich. Flagler was appointed by another pioneer of another era.

Flagler had the ability to look over the horizon. Wouldn’t Key West, if developed, be the closest American port to the Panama Canal? Would’t it also be the closest to Cuba? Looking out to sea, Flagler conceived the idea for one of the most remarkable construction projects in history. The extension of railroad facilities to Key West (in those days, shipment via rail was cheaper than via ship) was a titanic struggle of man against the fury of sea and storm. After three destructive hurricanes, the last of thirty majestic concrete and steel viaducts was completed to form the permanent structure. Many acres were reclaimed from the sea to build the terminal.

Another Flagler enterprise, the Peninsular and Occidental Steamship Company, liked the railway with Cuba and a car ferry service between Key West and Cuba was established. The Casa Marina, still one of the finest hotels in Key West, was built.

Flagler built more cities, however. He created job opportunities for thousands of Floridians, gave away hundreds of thousands of dollars in municipal gifts and grants. During the yellow fever epidemic of 1898, when many of Miami’s laborers were in real danger of starvation, Flagler “ordered street work started and gave everyone a job who wanted one.” In the words of Eugene Sewell, one of the city’s first mayors, “The city development work was carried on for about two years by Flagler, and we had to depend on this for most of our business.” When a cold wave ruined the tomato, bean and eggplant crops, said Sewell, “Flagler within 24 hours sent his agents to those who had lost their crops and loaned them enough money to re-plant—without asking for security.”

Henry Morrison Flagler died in 1913—a little over a year after he had ridden the first train out to Key West. But the public service connected with his name and fortune continue. The newest Flagler gift to human progress is Whitehall itself, now The Henry Morrison Flagler Museum.

The Latest Word

Inauguration among the Greek organizations rank among the most important items of interest items this week. The pledge classes of the first quarter are finally getting the thrill of becoming actually affiliated with their groups and are beginning the real work with their groups.

Some Delta Delta Delta held their formal initiation on Sunday afternoon. The initiation banquet was held at the Greenbrier. The tables were done in green and white, the sorority colors, with pink camellias. The chapter would like to extend to the new sisters a sincere welcome and are looking forward to working with them. The girls who are new wearers of the diamond shelf of Kappa Delta are Beth Anderson, Martha Sue Bragg, Lisa Carroll, Elaine Fallen, Norma Lou Maxwell, Jean Phillips, Dale Vickers, and Bonnie Waterman. At the luncheon on Monday night the new sisters received gifts from their "bigsisters" which were new wearers of the diadem.

I have asked permission to use a quote from that address. The quote is entitled: "The True Gentleman."

"The True Gentleman is the man whose conduct proceeds from good will and an acute sense of propriety, and whose self-control is equal to all emergencies, who does not make the poor man conscious of his poverty, the obscure man of his obscurity, or any man of his inferiority or deformity, who is himself humbled if necessity compels him to humble another; who does not flatter wealth, cringe before power or boast of his own possessions or achievements; who speaks with frankness, but always with sincerity and sympathy, whose deeds follws his word, who thinks of the rights and feelings of others rather than of his own; and who appears well in any company, a man with whom honor is sacred and virtue safe."
Rebels Lose to P'mont 56-55; And 79-75 to North Georgia

Road trips certainly have had a marked influence on the VSC Rebels' efficiency this year. I certainly am glad to see them come home for a few games. Having played before foreign crowds for six of their seven games has resulted in a 1-6 record.

You the student body can exert a great deal of influence on the outcome of most games. An athlete will muster forth his last reserve of energy when he knows that there are loyal spectators in the bleachers rooting for him. I know the team hasn't become complacent, so students don't you become complacent either!

VSC's Rebels lost a heart breaker Jan. 15 in Demorest. They were leading 55-54 only to have a field goal defeat them in the last seconds of play.

After playing Piedmont the Rebels journey to Dahlonega to play North Georgia. This game was a close one also. Four points, in fact, decided this contest. Both teams appeared to be able to hit the basket with efficiency. Perhaps the deciding difference was the thirty points garnered by the Cadet's Boyd.

For VSC Hansel Faulkner emerged as the Rebel star with nineteen points. During the last three games that the Rebels have played, the likeable lad from Sparta has hit in double figures.

Buck had an off night, and most likely if he had been in top form the Rebels would have trounced the Cadets.

Rounding out the scoring for VSC and: Doug Parrish with seven points, Ethridge ten, NIchols Melvin six, Vinson nine, and Hunt five.
