We Support the Blockade

President Kennedy has taken risky action in establishing a blockade around Cuba. Such actions as this could easily plunge the world into nuclear war.

Despite the danger of the president's stand, we must agree with him. Our nation has too long been on the defensive, buckling under to pressure. We are still the strongest power to protect liberty from those who would destroy it.

The communist world in Cuba has been very brazen. We must take strong steps to keep the red plague out of other Latin American nations. But this is not our only concern in Cuba. The danger to our nation imposed by the missile crisis is immeasurably greater.

The world today is filled with the outbursts of the outbursts of the outbursts ofNutritionists throughout the Northem and Southern hemispheres, and their voices are heard by the world's masses.

Communism stives into the soul of the earth and generalizes itself everywhere. The minds, the thoughts, and the actions of the people. Dissatisfaction with their government, their country, their laws and eventually themselves is the beginning of communism.

Do Americans strive and try to allay communism as dictated by the present U.S. S.R. government?

Sunrise or Sunset?

The typical male college student is worried—perhaps a little scared. The current world crisis caused by Soviet control of Cuba and the resulting blockade imposed last week by President Kennedy is enough to worry anyone, especially the ones who are most likely to be called into service.

What are the thoughts of a young man, enrolled in college to prepare for his future, when he is suddenly faced with the fearfu fact that his plans must be postponed or possibly abandoned? He has attended his school for two or three years, perhaps. His closest friends live in the room next door; his sweetheart in the dorm across campus. The activities that make his life enjoyable take place at the college. The learning processes that will give him a greater chance for success are part of his collegiate life. And now he sees before him the stark reality that all of this may quickly be taken from him, that he will be placed in a completely new environment—one of danger and sadness in place of the gaiety and usefulness that he is accustomed to.

As stated above, his first thoughts are clouded over by worry or fear. The unknown always causes anxiety and apprehension; danger is always somewhat frightening. But after considering the situation a while does the fear go away? Does the worry disappear? No! They are still there, but the young student, who is now more mature than he was yesterday, feels creeping into his soul those emotions that have been common to his forefathers throughout the history of the United States; patriotism, bravery, willingness to fight for God and country, a love for freedom.

Yes, the fear and worry are still present; but so are the qualities that make an American young man the finest in the world. The danger is present, but he does not shrink back. The challenge is there. The liberty of the world is threatened, and it is up to him to meet the threat. What are the thoughts of the American college man? He thinks that when the time comes he is willing to go. He is ready to fill his place.

Let's Hear Them

Now that the Serenaders have been chosen and the glee club has been formed, one night won't just why these music groups are in existence.

President Kennedy has said that he will be placed in a completely new environment—one of fear. The unknown always causes anxiety and apprehension; danger is always somewhat frightening. But after considering the situation a while does the fear go away? Does the worry disappear? No! The Campus Canopy

When the co-eds of Ole Miss reacted in violence to the admission of a fellow-American to their campus, I lost faith in fellow man.

I was a junior in college, a football fan. When I made a trip to Atlanta and checked into a hotel full of drunk football enthusiasts, I lost faith in fellow man. But in the middle of the Cuban crisis, my hope is renewed. Americans have joined together in a common cause and a new unity of spirit is evident.

Prose and Poetry

When it somehow becomes one's responsibility to prepare a devotional thought or inspirational word for some occasion, one considers the point he will influence. It is hard to decide what course to follow. There are worlds of material written by others which cause a shiver down one's spine. One finds himself wishing he could write what Wheaton or Wordsworth said and state his feelings in such prose and poetic language. But he can read, if he cares enough and if he is not afraid of putting his thoughts into the world of God and country, to write for freedom.

I Disagree, Professor

High up in the building near the water tower, the professor, a department head, stopped us to say we had missed the boat with our musings about William Faulkner and the Hemingway light.

"Haven't you read Faulkner? Didn't you say he was going to shoot Negro integration came," the professor began.

Our first reaction was pleasure. It must be someone had read us a few feeble words, and the next we disagreed, and that he said in disagreement.

But there ended the pleasure. We wrote down the hall unconfirmed by the encounters. Looming before us was the little white barn running through the "bloody September" shadow, and the white mob. "Find out the truth first, I know Will Mayes. He didn't do it. Yet the white mob lynched the Negro because of Miss Minnie Cooper's sexual liaison in "Dey September".

We saw Nancy "That Evening Sun" in bloody in the dust of the street saying, "It took three times... when you to pay me, what made you..."

We thought of old Carothers McLean "doomed and fatal blood" surviving in Negro quarters after his grandson lost his life.

And the white boy Charles Mallison in the elderly Negro Lucas Beauchamp in "Stude in The Dust", from the mob (after Lucas was accused of shooting a white man), "You...you white relations, was driven to this action... to us...self respect, pride, pity, humility, sadness..." - these are Faulkner's true words in "The Bean".

Add compassion: Listen to the Compson tragedy in "The Sound and The Fury", take a look at the 35-yard-old idiot Compson son, Benjy, the Church: "They...told him it wasn't enough to white man... but nigga church isn't black enough for him. Tell un de good Lawd when ever whether he smart or not. "Dixie story of one my favorite characters," Faulkner said.

Math Course

By Karen Clary

Ending on Oct. 29 after a seven-week session was the course in Modern Mathematics taught by Mr. Leroy Babcock, math professor at VSC. This course was begun Sept. 17 and was open to all interested persons on a non-credit basis.

Approximately 150 people met for the first class. The enrollment increased to 170 before the course was ended. Of this number, only about 30% were college students.

The course was taught with reference to The New Mathematics by Irving Adler; a regular textbook was not used. Homework or exams were not given. Classes consisted of discussions, lectures, and films on modern mathematics. The course was similar to our Math 105 course at VSC in that it included the study of base systems and set theory.

Mr. Babcock was the originator of the idea for the course. The introductions of a similar course into the local schools prompted him to offer the course to anyone interested. He submitted his idea to the superintendents of schools in Lowndes, Echols, Lanier, and Berrien counties. The class was then set to meet every Monday night for approximately one hour.

Many of the students have expressed the desire to continue the course, which, according to Mr. Babcock, has been well worth-while.

Thanks

Thanks to everyone for the many expressions of sympathy in the loss of my mother. My family and I appreciate them so much. May God bless each of you.

With the return of war spreading rapidly across the nation, many of the men around campus are becoming worried about the draft board. Attention all students in History 330! Mr. Gabard will give his final exams at the University of Havana. It is also possible that Mr. Owen and Mr. Brown will be leading a youth march against Castro, shouting "Viva los Estados Unidos!"

The sororities and fraternities are really getting prepared for Greek Week this year. If you happen to be strolling on back campus and hear unusual sounds coming from the House-in-the-Woods, don't worry because it is only the sororities practicing for the song fest. The fraternities are getting into the swing of things too, so be careful when walking in front of the gym; those jawlines are hard to guide.

The Calendar Girl Contest sponsored by the Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity was a great success; over phases along with those javelins are hard to guide. This is important and nerve-wracking time. The sorority also celebrated their Founder's Day Banquet on Oct. 23 at the Green Turtle Restaurant. The guest speaker was Mr. Saunders Garwood.

Greek Week Begins Next Thursday Night

Thursday night VSC Base will open Greek Week with the song fest held in the gym. Each fraternity and sorority will present songs. The Alpha Delta Pi will sing "We're the Alpha Delta", "National Song", and "A D Pi, I've Lost My Heart to You". Alpha Xi Delta will present "Evening Hymn", "Hoy, Look and See", and "There's a Room In The Sistern and Pledge, "Kappa Delta Song of Praise" and "K D Hymn", will be the Kappa Delta offerings. The choices will be announced later.

Activities will continue Friday night with a informal dance. Saturday is the big day with the Olympics, scheduled for 2 p.m., in Sandspur Stadium, Sorority pledges will participate in inter-event events---egg roll, trip to Basset race and three legged race. These will be alternated in the eight fraternity contests.

How To Be Miserable

Think about yourself. Talk about yourself. Use "I" as often as possible. Mirror yourself continually in the opinion of others. Listen greedily to what people say about you. Expect to be appreciated. Be sensitive to slights. Be jealous and envious. Never forget a criticism. Trust nobody but yourself. Shirk your duties if you can. Love yourself supremely. Be selfish. Do as little as possible for others.

What is this game that we in the United States call football? Twenty-two men dressed in a heavy coat of armor fight over a pigskin filled with air. American football is a complicated set of rules and lungs. Yet many people in the United States think this so called game of football is the genuine article. But do we have the right to call this game football? True football, that we now call soccer originated many years ago. Soccer is played in every country in the world, whereas American football is played only in the United States and Canada. Soccer requires both skill and physical fitness that far exceeds that required in American football. A soccer player must be able to play an entire game of two 45-minute halves. If a player is ejected from the game, his team must continue without him. He must be able to answer his body expertly. He must handle the ball entirely with his feet, never touching the ball with the hands. The only player that touches the ball with his hands is the goalkeeper. There is no confusion in the keeping of the score because each goal counts one point. The football played by every other country is indeed less complicated than American football. But each country probably thinks Asia is the best.

Town, MCA, NC, TKE Take Wins

After three weeks of intramural football action, three independent teams rank in the top four. Four teams were played in the past two weeks. On Oct. 18, TKE won a hard fought gridiron battle from North Campus. TKE scored first on a 60-yard double reverse by Butch Kirkland. TKE had several scoring opportunities, but were halted by stout defensive play by NC. Chester Dubberly personally stopped TKE drives on three occasions with timely pass interceptions. In the fourth quarter NC scored on a pass from Dubberly to Mike Cason. The try for extra point failed. Since the score was tied after 4 quarters of play, a sudden death was necessary. The NC line consistently halted the TKE offense. TKE had several scoring opportunities, but were halted by stout defensive play by NC. In the fourth quarter NC defeated previously unbeaten MCA by a 12 to 7 score. The NC line consistently broke through the MCA offensive forward Wall. Chester Dubberly was outstanding offensively and defensively. He figured in both NC touchdowns, scoring one and passing to Ronnie Merritt for the other. In the third quarter the MCA scored on a pass from quarterback Larry Thomas to Bobbey Overmeyer. After making the extra point, MCA led 7 to 6, but a spirited NC team scored in the fourth quarter and won 12 to 7.

Football Race Features Balance

The intramural football race continues to tighten with each team in the league fighting for a playoff berth. Representatives from each organization supporting a team voted to play each team once. In this setup every team plays five games. The top four teams at the end of the season will compete in a playoff for the intramural championship. Each of the four teams will draw to determine each team’s playoff opponent.

Coach William Grant stated that the teams are playing good, rough football. This year’s intramural league is the most well balanced of any in several years, stated Grant. The teams as a whole are well organized this year which is probably responsible for the good play of the teams. Good sportsmanship and team spirit has characterized most of the games. Coach Grant stated that the teams were improving every game, and that if the teams continued to improve, some exciting football should be seen in the playoffs.

87 Students Hold Jobs on Campus

This year, out of a little over 87 VSC students, 87 have -time jobs on campus. The average "rat" upon first hearing this, should not attempt to draw a part-time job, until it is absolutely necessary. Our Ally speaking, it takes one or two quarters to adjust oneself to this excitingly different way of life and to adjust to new study habits. After making necessary adjustments, working on campus is not difficult if you have learned to budget your time.

If a freshman must work, the dining hall job is probably the best. This job, which may be arranged through Mrs. Maddox's office, is paid by flat-rate. Certain learned to budget the earnings, which may be arranged through Mrs. Maddox. Reappearance every year is required. If you apply in the spring for a job fall quarter, you will be notified about this job before you return to college.

Many VSC men have just reached the age when they are required to register for the draft. College students have certain things they must do to meet selective service requirements.

Every male citizen is required to register at his local Selective Service Board within five days after his eighteenth birthday. A Registration Certificate with the registration number thereon is then mailed to the registrant. He must keep this certificate on his person at all times, and in addition, must notify the local Board of all changes of mailing address.

The nine teams will be operating officers in imaginary manufacturing companies with assets of about $13 million each and net profits of about $70,000. Each team will be responsible to and guided by a "board of directors" composed of school faculty members and leading businessmen in the college community.

The competing teams, or "firms," will feed decisions representing a quarterly report into an electronic computer at the university every two weeks. The decisions will relate to amounts for research, production, wage rates, advertising and other items that influence their market.

An I. U. business school committee will referee the contest, and the competing center will issue two-week progress reports with sportLIKE standings showing how each team fared in comparison with others.
