ISS Formation Thwarted By SGA

By GRAY COOK

A group of independent men students at VSC have met possible defeat at organizing an Independent Student Society on November 4. The ISS constitution was formed and the officers were selected. The SGA met to decide on the constitution. The SGA tabled ISS constitution for further discussion and the SGA is to rediscuss the ISS on November 16.

The ISS formation is indicated by the following facts. The SGA tabled the Constitution. The constitution states that the officers are to have "C" averages or above. Receptions Needed For Entertainers

"Where is the reception?" This question is often asked by visitors to the VSC campus to entertain the students body. When this question is asked the answer is always, "there isn't going to be one." To me, the answer is only logical that everyone should have a chance to take part in the planning and giving of such receptions. The SGA sponsors the visitors, therefore most of its time would be taken up with this. If a representative from each campus organization could meet together and sponsor, under one name, these receptions, it would lead to unity among them.

The group, or council, could consist of the president or vice president of each campus organization and form for the main purpose of distributing and completing tasks necessary in sponsoring such an event. Club participation would increase student participation.

This is only one idea for presenting our entertainers with a reception in appreciation of their performances. Students welcome these performances. These same receptions are needed should get together with SGA representatives or other club representatives and start the ball rolling towards a more, organized, unified campus.

Grammar Course Valuable For Teachers

The English department of VSC has approved a recommendation to the faculty that a course in English grammar be added to the curriculum. This course will not be a part of the English major required courses but it will be geared to those students in the upper division English courses.

As a student in secondary education with an emphasis in English, let me state along with about thirty other students in my field, that a grammar course would be one of the courses the faculty could add to its curriculam.

However, there is opposition to this course among some faculty members. Those who oppose this recommendation say that the grammar taught in English 105 and 106 is sufficient for the students. They also state that an English teacher will pick up any knowledge of grammar as he teaches his high school courses.

I know that I have taken English 105 and 106, I do not feel that these courses, as they are presently taught, can possibly give me a good working knowledge of English Grammar. As the 1965-66 VSC Bulletin states, "the aim of these courses is to help students to an effective comprehension of the English language." Under this broad generalization, these courses teach little basic grammar.

S.G.A. Is Voice Of Students

The SGA is the Student Government Association at VSC. It is headed by students who were nominated and elected by the student body as a whole. This organization exists on campus primarily as a voice through which the students of this college voice their opinions and desires for a better campus. The president of the SGA, it is the job of the president to represent the students to the administration. The students have the right to have a voice in the administration of their campus. Last spring quarter the student body elected Jim Whiteside as the president of this organization. In his administration, the SGA has expressed an interest in the opinions of the students. Students Express Beliefs Forcibly; Protests Reach Morbid Pitch

American students are crying out over their convictions on issues of both social and political concern with increasing frequency. The student by his very nature is restless, inquiring and anxious to change the status quo. He is endowed with his own opinions, or too often prejudices, and asserts them forcibly and vigorously, no longer silent in deference to established traditions or personalities. Protests, the students’ test to which he has effectively initiated needed reforms, have in some instances frightened the wanton specter of anarchy, which has often ravaged the neighboring universities of South America. Protests have reached a morbid, hysterical pitch. Recently a Society of Friends minister burned himself in front of the Pentagon, and student member of the Catholic Pacifist Movement set himself ablaze in front of the United Nations to protest the Viet Nam war.

Concern for national affairs is commendable but such methods of protest are deplorable. Ironically Vietnamese Buddhists monks employed the same means of protest. For the Buddhist monks this invidious suicide is closely bound with their Eastern philosophy, their sense of fate and their rigorous mental discipline. However, in Western culture the pacifist, action aroused much more horror and indignation than sympathy for their cause. The violence of the act eclipsed its reason and their movement acquired the scorned label of extremist in the minds of many people. Unfortunately, for the most part, this was only a futile gesture, regardless of the sincerity of their motive.

Sensationalism must never be allowed to displace rational action. To commit suicide to protest the slaughter of war defeats the purpose. Hopefully, these demonstrations were exceptions, not precedents for other senseless self-destruction. While to die for one’s beliefs involves courage, not to be confused with bravado, and drama, to live for one’s beliefs in most circumstances requires courage, resolution, and perseverance and ultimately bring great, tangible rewards.

Letters To The Editor

It is the policy of THE CAMPUS CANOPY to print every letter it receives. Obscene and anonymous letters will not be printed. Names will be withheld upon request.

Dear Editor,

I would like to verify openly to every student on this campus, no matter whether his major is social science or biology, that the Student Government Association is the student’s responsibility. Whether the Student Government Association succeeds or fails is in the hands of every student enrolled at VSC.

If a student is not pleased with the Student Government Association and would like to see change, it is up to him to actively do something about it through the proper channels. If it is important to him, he will see to it that there are results.

There is an exchange of people on this campus— the “don’t cares,” the chronic complainer, and the “doers.” Since the “don’t cares” couldn’t care less, the “doers” will have to take the burden of their own care and support each other. The “complainers” stop progress and create great disturbances. The student you are is up to your own discretion.

The Student Government Association belongs to you, the student. If you fail the SGA, it is you. If you succeed as a faith, faith, you are a true member of your organization. There’s an easy way to get it and use that way.

Take your pick.

Sincerely yours,

Joanna Flynn
Army Desperate To Draft Women

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (CPS)—A 17-year-old Brown Deer, Wis., girl has been "drafted" into the Reserve Officers Training Corps. Frances M. Ullenberg, received her orders along with her class schedule cards to the University of Wisconsin at Milwaukee. She enrolled there as a freshman this week.

Her first class, according to the schedule sent her, was to be at 8:30 a.m. in the fine arts building. The course, "ROTC Orientation," a course required of all freshmen at the university.

Miss Ullenberg figures that someone in the university's scheduling office must have selected her name and figuring her to be a male.

"I thought it was pretty funny," she told newsmen, "especially since a lot of my friends call me Frank."

She was planning to follow her schedule and report to that ROTC class. A World War II Italian army cap, borrowed from her father who brought it home, marched off to college.

KDs, TKEs Win Little 500 Race

Some of the more energetic and courageous students of VSC participated in the "Little 500" bicycle race sponsored by the SGA Nov. 6. The first event was a tricycle race among relay teams representing each of the four sororities. After two laps around the administration building, the KD's pedaled in first, followed by the Alpha Xi's, the ADPi's, and the Phi Mu.

Following the tricycle race, the men were given a chance to show off their skill as bicyclists and to test their endurance. The relay teams of four pedaled thirty laps around the ad building. The TKE's took the first and second place honors with the Sig Eps coming in third and the Phi Kapi's fourth.

The "Little 500" was one of the projects of the SGA to raise money needed to send the track team to the Georgia Intercollegiate Athletic Conference track meet at Berry College this spring.

A dance was held to present the awards. A profit of $50 was made, said SGA treasurer Tex Bentley.

Role Of Greeks; ‘Necessary’

By JO HODGES

Many students are either un­concerned or uninformed about the role Greeks play on the Valdosta State College campus. Dr. Louis Sosebee, Dean of Students, although never a Greek himself, says that he would not like VSC without them.

“Greeks are a necessary part of any college campus in that the spirit of competition they foster makes for a better all-round school spirit and pride in Valdosta State,” Sosebee said.

He also went on to point out that the scholastic average of the Greeks has been traditional­ly higher than that of non-fraternity and non-sorority members.

Greeks and the Community

Each year the city of Valdosta sees more of the efforts of these men and women. Such things as

- Health problems
- Drugs
- Safety

are all problems of leadership that Greeks will offer.

On the VSC campus itself the importance of fraternities and sororities can be seen. The Miss VSC Calendar Girl Contest and the TRE Talent Contest are a few of the school functions that are made possible by Greeks.

The majority of campus leadership today is composed solely of Greeks. The spirit with which Greeks support members of their own fraternities and sororities is evident. It is in VSC that the Greeks are prevalent at any campus.

The Greeks’ Problem

The only problem within the Greek system here at VSC lies in their small membership. Dean Sosebee stated that he won’t like to see the membershipPortal of all sororities on campus raised in order to include more students. “There are many students on our campus who could become Greeks and better persons for it, if all fraternal organizations could be allowed more members,” he said.

Greeks have proven to be aware socially, in qualities of leadership, and of pride in own college community. Everyone who wishes to be a member of a sorority or a fra­ternity has a chance to be considered, regardless of quotas.

Housing

Sosebee also agrees with the Greeks on the question of separate fraternity and sorority hous­ing. Not only would such houses relieve the pressing needs of the too-small dormitories but also provide an atmosphere of living and working together that remains unparalleled in any other phase of college life.

Philosophy Will Be Added If Demand Is High Enough

By LARRY LONG

“We have, just this year, added to our school a major and minor in philosophy and I can see in the next year or two a move in the direction of a philosophy department,” said academic Dean Dr. J.A. Durrenburges.

VSC, along with nearly every other college and university in the nation, is suffering from a growing pains. Departments are being added, new professors are joining the faculty and a new construction program is doubling classroom space. Evidence of this growth is the fact that nearly half of the student body at VSC is made up of the freshman class. Along with the change, both President Thaxton and Dr. Durrenburges agree that a new department is about to be born.

Library's V-Book Collection Has Novelty, Serious Pieces

By JANE CANNON

Few VSC students realize that their college library has one of the most interesting valuable-book collections in the area. Books included in this group range from first editions of books copyrighted as far back as the early 18th century to complete, 26-volume set of Hearings Before the President's Commission on the Assassination of President Kennedy.

Shortly after the founding of the college, the collection was initiated with a donation of old and unusual books by the Georgia division of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. These books were given to the library with the stipulation that none of them ever be checked out of the library building.

Included in this first donation were many valuable historical writings about Confederate state and county affairs. The UDC collection also contains several old, out-of-print novels such as Dear Enemy and Porter's Polyanna, which, while of little value as reference books, make interesting novelty pieces.

For the past fifteen years the library itself has been building and adding to the valuable book collection begun by the UDC Consulting second hand book catalogues, it is not difficult to place orders with second hand book dealers to get specific books for use in order to complete a set. Many times we have to wait years before these books turn up, says Miss Thera Hambrick, head librarian.

Miss Hambrick stated that most of the books in the collection were not actually rare, but were valuable "either because they cost a great deal, or because they are now out-of-print and well impossible to obtain."

One set of picture-plates in the collection entitled "North American Wildflowers" is valued at $100. Other valuable books deal with southern histories, Georgia in particular. An original copy of "Acts of the General Assembly of the State of Georgia, November and December, 1861" is one such historical document.

Complete or nearly complete sets of books such as the Colonial, Revolutionary, and Con­crete Records of Georgia line the shelves of the closed stack area where the valuable books are kept. These books contain letters, papers, journals, and military orders written at the time the historical events were actually taking place.

Of particular interest to long-time residents of Georgia is the vast collection of county histor­ies. These books deal with all phases of the life and times of the county, including schools, churches, clubs, residents, and other county affairs. Old Georgia Church records, some of which list such facts as births, deaths, baptisms, and marriages, are kept. These books contain letters, papers, journals, and military orders written at the time the historical events were actually taking place.

Some of the more unusual books in the collection are handled and checked out as reserve books. Students who wish to see a particular book from the collection can ask for it at the desk and have it brought to them. Most of the valuable books, except those from the UDC collection, are handled and checked out as reserve books.

"We must warn people how expensive these books are and how hard they would be to replace, but if they want them, we will check them out for them," says Miss Hambrick.

Sosebee Tells Of Scholarships Available To VSC Students

Financial aid to students at VSC has increased this year with the addition of the loan program of the Georgia Higher Education Assistance Corporation and the Georgia State Scholarship for study in dentistry, nursing, pharmacy, social work, paramedical and other fields of study.

Both of these new programs were voted on by the state legislature in 1964 and are available to VSC students this year, said Dean of Students Louis Sosebee.

Requirements for the Georgia State Scholarship include state residency, financial need, and good scholastic standing. The scholarship is repaid by the recipient's employment in the state of Georgia for one year for each year the scholarship is received. An interest of six percent per annum is charged on the loan.

The GHEAC loan is provided for students who are residents of Georgia and who lack financial means for a college education. The program of study must lead to a degree. Repayment of the loan does not begin until one year after the student has completed his course of study or three months after he becomes regularly employed. Maximum amounts to be borrowed under this program range from $900 per year for freshmen to $1200 per year for seniors. Thirty students at VSC have already been awarded grants from this fund.

In addition to these two new financial aid programs, another loan fund and two more scholarships are offered through the Dean of Students Office.

Regents State Scholarship, the most important of these scholarships, with generally the same requirements as the Georgia State Scholarship, has been available for students since 1961. VSC is presently allotted $6,000 by the State Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia. Twenty-one VSC students are now receiving about $1,000 per year under this program.

Each year the Lowndes County chapter of the University of Georgia provides a certain number of tuition scholarships to students within the county. A "C" average is required by students making application. Money for the Chamber of Commerce scholarships is contributed by local business people; the fund has recently been increased so that students are awarded this scholarship receive $225 a year instead of the previous $180. Twenty-five VSC students are currently attending under the Chamber of Commerce scholarships.

In 1958 the National Defense Education Association established a loan fund from which needy students may borrow on reasonable terms. This first year, the loan fund has been available to VSC students. The individual college provides 10 percent of the money a college can establish in its NDEA loan fund. The VSC fund is now providing financial aid to fourteen VSC students. Administration of this loan rests with the individual college and repayment, extending over a 10-year period, is also made to the college.

Donations from individuals and organizations make the college's NDEA loan fund. This fund is now providing financial aid to fourteen VSC students. Administration of this loan rests with the individual college and repayment, extending over a 10-year period, is also made to the college.

According to Dr. Sosebee, all of the scholarships offered by his office "require the existence of financial need. Every scholarship is awarded on a yearly basis, and those students already on scholarships are given first consideration for renewal."

A new student must apply and be accepted at VSC before he is eligible for financial aid. Freshmen applicants are considered on the basis of high school records and SAT scores.

All students are given financial aid must fill out the Parents' Confidential Statement, a form which is sent by the College Scholarship Service in Princeton, New Jersey, and processed. An analysis of a student's financial need is usually made from this report.

In addition to the scholarships and loans offered by the Dean of Students, several loans are handled through the Comptroller's Office. These loans, along with some independent scholarship aids, are listed in the college catalogue.

Teacher scholarships are available through the state Department of Education, and applications for these are handled through the Comptroller's Office.

Students Enter Speech Forum December 1st At Pound Hall

The Sock and Buskin Club at Valdosta State College is sponsoring a Speech Forum on Wednesday, December 1, in Pound Hall auditorium.

At least one student from each Speech 105 class (basic speech course) will present a speech of information, persuasion, or entertainment, which must last from five to seven minutes. Students and instructors will select the participants. A panel of judges will choose first, second, and third place winners from among the contestants.

Each selected speaker is to have his subject screened for appropriateness. Then turned in to Jerry Dickson, president of the Sock and Buskin Club or to Col. Ren Christie, the faculty advisor and speech instructor.

No program of this type has ever been presented at VSC. Having participated in a similar forum, Christie introduced the idea to the club.

The basic idea behind the forum is to help students see the practical use of speech and to allow them to continue their training beyond their basic class assignments. Christie stated that many of the class speeches are worthy of further attention, which the forum will provide.

Another result may be a Speaker's Forum to help students see the practical use of speech and to allow them to continue their training beyond their basic class assignments. Christie stated that many of the class speeches are worthy of further attention, which the forum will provide.

Christie explained further the aims and purposes of the forum. "We hope to revive an interest in public speaking. The public as well as college students will be invited. Also, we have a debate team, and it would be a tremendous asset to have this Speaker's Forum to help provide the necessary material for the debates."

All speech students may be required to attend this evening of prepared speeches, said Christie.

Frosh Elect Representatives

VSC classes have no officers this year, but each class gets more representatives on the SGA. In recent elections the new froshman class representatives to the SGA were named. Reba Baker of Valdosta is the Converse Hall representative. "She is a TKE Delta pledge and cheerleader. Freshmen girls' representative is Priscilla Bagby, and Alpha Delta Phi pledge from Atlanta. Priscilla is a TKE Calendar Girl, the Pi Kappa Phi pledge class cheerleader, and a VSC cheerleader. Freshmen boys' representative to the SGA is John Harrington of Valdosta, a Tau Kappa Epsilon pledge. Out of a freshman class of over 600 the voting turnout was very low, according to SGA vice-president Bud Bridges. Votes cast for boys' representative numbered 136, 158 for girls' representative, and 166 for the Converse Hall representative.

Want To Become A Dirty Old Man

(APC) — Want to be "in" by dressing "out"? It's a new game Wayne State University students are playing, says the Daily Colleague. Typical uniform is too-short levis which must be so dirty that it is impossible to approximate the original color, a moth-eaten sweatshirt, and a moody U.S. Army field jacket. You may have to search through a thousand grubby army surplus stores before you can find a jacket with just the right number of bullet holes, rusted snaps, and mysterious stains on the sleeves, but that's all part of the fun. It's a new game dressing "out"? It's a new game.

Herbarium Not Greenhouse
But Plant Museum At VSC

When most people hear the word herbarium they immediately think of a greenhouse, but a herbarium is in itself a plant museum. It is a collection of dried classified plants that are cataloged like books are cataloged in a library. The herbarium at VSC is headed by Wayne Faircloth, the professor of botany and biology.

Faircloth, a VSC graduate, got his master's degree from the University of North Carolina, and is now working on his Ph.D. at the University of Georgia.

The herbarium at VSC is located in the biological lab on North Campus. Before a plant can be mounted and classified, it has to be pressed with cardboard and heated for six hours. This process completely preserves the plant. Then the specimen is mounted on a large sheet of 100% rag paper. This kind of paper will not age or yellow, and it will not tear. This is very important in later years. The specimen are then grouped according to species and placed in folders. On each specimen is a small index card explaining the kind of habitat of that particular specimen, the region where it grows, and a number. The number is used for a reference to a book fully explaining more about that particular specimen.

In 1961 there were about 400 different specimen in the herbarium at VSC, but now in 1965 it has grown to around 5,000 specimen that are cataloged.

Most of this work was done by Faircloth.

Usually, more than one specimen of each kind is needed for each herbarium. The others are exchanged with other schools over the country.

There is a regular exchange program with the University of Georgia, the University of North Carolina, the University of Mississippi, the University of Southern Mississippi, Shorter and Tennessee.

VSC herbarium has thirteen rare species that date back to the eighteen hundreds. These were found, and prepared by John K. Small in that century.

Faircloth said that the big problem of the herbarium is the need for help and storage space. There are now over 5,000 specimen waiting to be cataloged, but there is no help, time, or storage space. However, by fall quarter of 1966 the new biology building is planned to be ready for classes. In this building will be a special room for the herbarium, and this will allow for more space area to catalog the specimen.
