Evans Writes
For Magazine
by KAY WILLIAMS
A "Check List of My Loves" I love Chicago
Because of Sandburg,
And the French Quarter,
As opposed to L.A.;
England.
For the Renaissance mindset
That was;
Oxford, Mississippi,
For Faulkner's sake;
Burlington, Vermont,
Because Robert Frost lies near
I love Arlington, Cemetery,
And I love Darien, Georgia
Because it has not grown at all.
I love Georgia
Because in most things
She is brutish-frank.
This poem is the first one of fifteen poems written by Mar vin Russel Evans, associate professor of English and sponsor of the Campus Canopy, which have been accepted for publication in "The American Bard."
Mr. Evans started writing in 1951 when he had polio and he was confined to bed for several months. The poems he then wrote will be revised and published one day. It is a story about Georgia, Mr. Evans was born in Georgia and he loves every part of it, especially the southern religion. Naturally Georgia is his favorite subject of writing.
Mr. Evans likes to write poetry better than prose. It is good relaxation and fun after teaching English all day long. Generally writing poetry is not very profitable. The reward may be, rather than money, postage stamps worth eight cents or on another occasion two extra copies of the magazine in which the poem appears. The stamps Mr. Evans received are framed on the wall in his home.
Mr. Evans has not thought seriously of publishing his poems in a book. He admits, anyway, that after trying to get his poems published in different magazines, he has given up interest for books of collected poems.
Although Mr. Evans' poetry is not famous, he is very dedicated to his work in this field. In addition to "The American Bard," Mr. Evans' poems may be found in "Jean's Journal."

Service Lists Jobs
For Summer Work

Over 50,000 summer jobs open to college students are listed in the new 1968 Summer Employment Directory just off the press.

Employers throughout the United States and Canada who list their summer job openings include resorts, summer camps, national parks, summer theatres, restaurants, ranches and businesses. They invite applications now.

There are 12% more summer jobs available than last year. Salaries are higher in many jobs—an increase of $100 to $200 for the season. Camp counselors, resort workers and office help continue to be in greatest demand. Scuba divers, ham operators, special education students, and fly-tying and origami instructors are among many others needed.

"Summer Employment Directory" may be ordered by mail, send $3 to National Directory Service, Dept. C, Box 32063, Cincinnati, Ohio 45222. Mark "rush" for first-class mailing in December.

Faculty Exhibits Art

Seven faculty members of the VSC Art Department are featured in the Faculty Art Exhibit being held in the library gallery.

Joe Pember, head of the Art Department, is represented by three seascapes. These oils, "Wave Action No. 6," "Southern Beach and Waves," and "Sea Themes," are typical of his interpretation of the Maine coast.

Russell McRae utilizes outstanding color and imagination in his three paintings, "Nirvana" and "Armanda" are both examples of mixed technique. "Strange Animals" was done in oil. His "Drawing" in pen and ink was recently stolen from the exhibit.

Mr. Lee Bennett is represented by five beautiful pieces of stoneware pottery. He is presently experimenting in salt glazing. Mrs. Ellen Anderson's "My Brother's Keeper No. 2," sculpting in salt glazed porcelain, is another example of her interesting works.

Mrs. Lea Bennett is represented by two lucite prints, "The Grasshopper" and "Do Not Go Gentle," and an oil "Roadside Flowers." In her experimental lucite prints, Mrs. Bennett used nature materials.

Noel Lawson is displaying "Lithograph" and an unusual and engaging "Mahogany Pot."

The Faculty Art Exhibit will be shown through December 14. There will be four additional exhibits in the winter and spring quarters: one of graphic forms, one man's show of sculpture and another of painting, and the annual student showing in May.

Golf liars have one advantage over the fishing kind—they don't have to show anything to prove it.

Client — No, I wouldn't say that. My wife was in the back seat.

APO Selects Sweetheart

Alpha Phi Omega Service Fraternity has selected their APO sweetheart and sponsors: Judy Grondahl, an 18 year old freshman from Valdosta, was chosen sweetheart. Judy is an art major and a cheerleader at VSC.

Four sponsors were chosen. They are: Barbara Roysden, Tifton; Linda Irby, Valdosta; Lea Leath, Perry; and Bobbie Jo Harbwick, Macon.

A fourteen member Graduate Council was appointed by President Martin on October 27. Dr. Raymond Hunter, head of the Physics Department, is chairman of the Council.

At present the Council is responsible for mechanical details of the graduate school such as qualifications of the graduate faculty and requirements for graduates to enter the two programs offered at present. They are the Master of Education and Master of Arts in History.

All departments at VSC are represented on the Council. It includes Dr. Donald Gerlock, head of the Education Department; Dr. William Gabard, head of the History Department; Dr. Clyde Connell, head of the Biology Department; Mr. Maurice Lindauer of the Chemistry Department; Dr. Raymond Cook, head of the English Department; Dr. Randall Hicks of the Mathematics Department; and Mr. James Thornton of the Language Department.

Two others of the faculty were appointed as members at large. They are Mr. John Huxford of the Music Department and Dr. David Lewis of the Department of Economics. Two ex officio members appointed to the Council are Dr. Ward Paf- ford, dean of the college, and Mr. James Martin, director of admissions.

The graduate faculty elected two professors from among their number to serve on the Council. They are Dr. Lucille Pollard of the Education Department and Miss Helen Thornton of the Speech Department.

According to Dr. Hunter, graduate program bulletin will be issued shortly after Christmas holidays.

Obituary

The Wesleyan Foundation play, Midsummer's Night Dream, died quietly without struggle on Monday, Nov. 6 at 7:30 p.m.

Death was caused by the unusual amount of students dropping out of the cast, by lack of interest and lack of attendance at rehearsals, and by non-participation.

Rather than let the play suffer from the ignominious disease of non-preparedness, Director Stan De Hart decided that euthanasia was the only solution. De Hart explained, "I would rather cancel the play now than fill in cast vacancies and do a slipshod performance later."

Chamber Plans Jo's Program
Atlanta, Ga.—Juniors, Seniors and Graduate Students planning their South in the future will have an opportunity during the holidays for career interviews with representatives of companies operating in Georgia.

Sponsored by the Georgia Chamber of Commerce, this "Careers in Georgia Placement Program" is in its second year. Beginning Monday, December 27, personnel executives conducting the interviews will visit both business corporations and governmental agencies of national and local scope seeking qualified graduates to fill more than 25 different types of job classifications.

Serve Clifton, vice chairman, emphasized that the program is for the convenience of students and employees, adding that the Chamber's interest lies in retention in this area of well-qualified young people who might otherwise dispel to other regions. "We need to keep more of our brightest youths at home by acquainting them with the many promising positions now available here," he said.

Stated in the interview program will be "The Career Planning Committee," Georgia State Chamber of Commerce, 120 Commerce, Atlanta, Georgia 30303. They will be made of companies, local and national, containing full information on participating companies, qualifications and procedure to be followed in scheduling interviews.

A. B. McFadden Heads Evaluating Committee

Alexander B. McFadden has been appointed chairman of the Institutional Self-Study Program for reaccreditation of Valdosta State College by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools.

The announcement was made by VSC President S. Walter Martin, who said this program will be conducted over a 10-year period by Southern Association accredited institutions.

An assistant professor of English at VSC, Mr. McFadden will head the important steering committee which is responsible for the two-year project, and for the appointments of commit­tees involved in the self-study, Dr. Martin said.

Equally as important as the reaccreditation will be the value of the self-study information in charting the course of Valdosta State College.

The program of Institutional Self-Study will involve all the VSC faculty and administrative staff. It is one that permits an institution to measure itself critically and to be measured by an evaluating committee of qualified educators through the determination of strengths and weaknesses, problems and solutions.

Bill Cribbs Discovers New Species Of Plant

By GORDON SMITH

Bill Cribbs, a sophomore from Fargo, has had some interesting luck with one of his hobbies. It began when Bill brought in a plant specimen to botany professor Mr. Wayne Faircloth. Bill brought in the plant specimen that he thought Mr. Faircloth might identify it. The plant was quickly identified as a genus Nyssa. Close examination showed the plant to be a cross between Ogeechee (a tupelo gum) and N. biflora (a black gum). Such a hybrid had previously been reported according to available resource material. Specimens of the plant have been deposited in the herbarium of the Smithsonian Institution in Washington and at the University of Zurich in Switzerland.

"Finding the plant was nothing," said Bill. "The real work will be in taking a chromosome count, testing the plants virility, and trying to locate an other specimen." If this can be done to completely verify the plants identity, Bill will likely add another species to the kingdom, and some interesting, the tree is deciduous, most of the work will have to be postponed.

Several weeks after bringing in the first plant specimen, Bill returned to the herbarium. "I think that I have found a plant that is in the same genus as Spanish moss and pineapples," he said.

"Tellandia," said Mr. Faircloth.

Tellandia Setacea.

Pember Displays Art Work In Local Bank

An exhibition of paintings by Joe Pember, head of the VSC Art Department, is now on display at the Valdosta First Federal Savings and Loan Association. Being shown through January 5, 1968, the exhibit is composed of paintings of Christ's story, selected interpretations from the artist's work.

The paintings are predominantly expressionistic in means and ordered by the divisional stained glass forms of ancient religious art. "Annunciation," "Crucifix," "Salvation," and "Altar Flowers" are four of the 15 works on display.

Mr. Pember's works have been shown in state, regional, and national exhibitions including the Miami International and the Georgia Association of Artists. He has exhibited in one-man shows in Georgia and Florida.

Mr. Pember has earned many awards for his works including two first prizes in painting in the Seventh Annual Regional Exposition of Southern States 1954, and in the Association of Georgia Artists 1965. His works are in numerous public and private collections throughout the United States.
Students Need Quiet During Final Exams

In the past, at the end of each quarter there has been much "hollering." This noise always begins before finals.

It is well that tensions can be relieved by getting rid of all the worry and fret of finals. However, it would be well to remember that other people may be trying to study for a final even though you are not.

If you finish your exams early, celebrate quietly or wait until your room is "free" before "hollering." Just remember that there is a enormous variety of things that will happen during finals is that many students will be residue and completely out of their way.

Pep pills are very dangerous. The Council on Pharmacy and Chemistry warns of this pill may become habit-forming. There is a danger that the warning signal of sleepiness in individuals may be eliminated by the drug.

Whatever you do during finals, be quiet and stay away from drugs.

DAVID STROUPE
Librarian Disagrees With Door-Checkers

The question of door checkers at the library is a situation that calls for clarification. Though it is unfair to regard this question as a long-time problem, it has been a problem this year by reports—actual or rumor—of book thefts and most recently by the heisting of certain works of art from the Facult Art Exhibit.

In the interior of the library, Miss Hambrick, head librarian, stands firmly against door checkers at this time—a position not without justification. Due to poor design of the library, the circulation desk is merely a door if one can force it. If one student, obviously, cannot work with two or three more students, the rather than non-functional door checkers.

There are two sides to the problem. Miss Hambrick, head librarian, stands firmly against door checkers at this time—a position not without justification. Due to poor design of the library, the circulation desk is merely a door if one can force it. If one student, obviously, cannot work with two or three more students, the rather than non-functional door checkers.

Miss Hambrick's contention is that what money the library does not have at its disposal could better be used to hire qualified adult library staff members instead of door checkers. At present 1000 books are being processed. In restatement of Miss Hambrick's position, then, physical facilities prevent an economically feasible operation of checking at the door and the library needs more staff rather than non-functional door checkers.

Dr. Martin has said that a remedy would come sooner than this. As so often happens, the responsibility now rests with the administration. It seems that something is being done about it. In fact, if they could wait long enough, the number of student suspensions will be reduced.

There are two sides to the problem. Miss Hambrick, head librarian, stands firmly against door checkers at this time—a position not without justification. Due to poor design of the library, the circulation desk is merely a door if one can force it. If one student, obviously, cannot work with two or three more students, the rather than non-functional door checkers.

On the other side of the fence is the Library Committee which has asked Dr. Martin, President of the College, to put checkers at the library. This has happened in many universities and is under the chairmanship of Dr. William Gabard, head of the History Department. Because these two groups cannot agree, the decision has fallen to Dr. Martin—and he is determined not to take any rash action.

"Personally, I would like to have door checkers, but I want to do what's right and it may take several months to solve the problem," he said. Dr. Martin does not particularly like the position of arbitrator in the matter but it is unavoidable, and he is indeed trying to remedy the situation. To help towards a solution, a library consultant will be called in to discuss and study the situation with the library staff and Dr. Martin, and the consultant will then make recommendations. It seems highly probable that in this study there will be an emphasis on checking in the library. Only then will we know what is fact and what is fiction concerning theft of library materials.

I am very much concerned with the matter and I have given it a lot of thought and exploration. I have written to and has replies from other college libraries.

Those that are concerned with the situation can rest assured that the流通 will be handled by the administration. It seems that we have already been suspended. The number of student suspensions does not seem large, but it is large for a first-quarter freshman class. The college administration appears to be extremely severe in handling of these cases. A student off campus should not be condemned for his actions by the college. The college is a place of higher education, and due to the large number of people in one area, it is necessary that there be regulations concerning conduct on campus. Once a student leaves the campus, the college should not have any interest in that student. Several of the suspended students were suspended for off campus offenses.

The college should have an influence on the student while he is in the dormitory or on the campus or at college sponsored functions, but off campus he is to be considered just another member of society, responsible to that society.
Author Praises Trip
Clinic For Acid Use

EDITOR'S NOTE: This article is the last of a three part series about a VSC student who took LSD, met on campus, but elsewhere.

By ED LIGHTSEY

There are of course many hang-ups connected with taking any drug, but with LSD the hazards are magnified. The user knows himself that he is perfectly aware of all his hang-ups. If not, the resulting effect is a bad trip which could lead to serious psychological results. For this reason LSD or any mind expanding drug should be used only by people who are under close clinical observation. This does not mean, however, that it should be unavailable to anyone who wants to trip out. It does mean that step by step preparation should be taken to improve maximum self-revelation. All thoughts of kicks and search for euphoria should be removed. The person who is to trip out should give himself and allow the participant to incorporate informal discussions led by an experienced trip guide.

The guide would be allowed to remove any persons whom he thought would not be able to have a good experience. Each group previously de- signed their own trip guide through the entire indoctrination period and on the trip itself in order to establish a relationship based on trust. This would provide added protection to the student needs to be talked down from a bad trip.

LSD is not the cure for all social problems but it has cured some of them. In discussions with people who have taken a trip I noted that a great majority were enthusiastic about the potential of the drug as an aid in discovering the causes for some deviant behavior. Most of the people I talked to were not the shaggy, ill-dressed social rejects usually associated with the drug movement but were average students with above average concern for their place in the world. True, their appearance was not what is typically known as the All-American look, but then neither were their ideas.

It seems that such young people should be commended instead of condemned. It takes guts to be so concerned as to jeopardize the mind in search for something so elusive as “being”. Perhaps the college-factories should look in their direction for explanations and assist in all possible ways, including a trip clinic.

If this idea seems unbeli- vable, one has only to visit the West Coast, notably San Francisco to see such clinics already in action. Although they are underground by necessity, the participants of such programmed trips are excited about the possibility of bringing their ideas out into the open. Some have even suggested drug lobbyists to assist in prompting government Sentence.

It would be interesting to see the effect of such a program in action.

French Student Likes Southern Way Of Life

Suitcases vanished. No clothes. A watch broken. A contact lens lost. That's not a very auspicious beginning for Heleni Roland from Breast, Brittany in France. But the 24 year old foreign exchange student has overcome all these problems and is currently enjoying her stay at VSC.

“I have a good time all day long because I never study,” confides the tall, athletic student, who has already completed her Master's degree in geography in France, where she plans to teach college.

Having learned English only during her high school years, she has difficulty in understanding the language and is taking freshman English along with senior history.

Sponsored by the Valdosta Rotary Club, who bought her clothes through the travel agency lost her luggage, Heleni claims that her major problem has been in converting measures— from miles to kilometers, from quarts to liters, and from Cen- tigrade to Fahrenheit.

The only objection to U.S. customs is the amount of commercials on television. Having used pay TV in France, she has the trouble becoming acclimated to the noisy interruptions.

Heleni is also amazed by the friendliness of the Southern people: “I go along and say hello all day long to everyone I meet,” she says, although used to the French custom of shaking hands at meetings.

Among her favorite hobbies are photography, singing, "meeting people," sports, and judo, in which she has earned the second highest title, the Brown Belt.

The widely traveled European has toured Australia, Germany, Portugal, Switzerland, Italy, and Spain, and is planning a tour through the U. S. and Mexico with other exchange students.

“It all depends on the money, she explains.

Georgia was desired as the state in which to study because of the climate, which is similar to Breast, because of the history (“I saw 'Gone With The Wind'”) and because of the nearness of Florida. “Because everybody knows Florida,” she adds.

Student Uses Quill Pen For Homework

By LYNN HODGE

It all began one night when Folsom's attention wandered from his studies and centered upon a crow feather that he had found while hunting. Soon he began wondering how our forefathers had ever written such beautiful penmanship with a quill pen and all his homework with a quill pen and a bottle of ink.

In the meantime, he has acquired two turkey feathers and one peacock feather. The peacock feather makes the most beautiful pen, but it doesn't write as well as the crow feather, Folsom's favorite. What's the next project for this curious chemistry major? When pokeberries come in season, he hopes to make pokeberry ink, which was used in the days of the quill pen.

Delta Chi Initiates Brothers

The newest brothers in the Delta Chi fraternity had a most unusual initiation. They and their advisor, Mr. Sam Brooks, assistant comptroller, all went to the University of Florida the weekend of October 15 to undergo ceremonies which formally sanctioned their fraternity. These brothers had been the only members of the social fraternity which was inaugurated at the University of Florida in 1967. The roll then of twelve members has grown to thirty, including 10 members of the second pledge class.

Among those recently initiated are Mac Wilcox, Abbeville; Ervin Wood, Moultrie; Ronny Gilliard, Camilla; Ronny Williams, Cordele; Eddy Hanly, Waycross; Eddie Fisher, Generalissimo; Mds; Bill Moore, Ocala; Fla.; Randy Arthur, Decatur; Bobby Simpson, Tifton; and Glen Smith, Valdosta.

Also, Glen Phelps, Camilla; Charles Riggins, Blackburn; Ronald Cook, Dublin; John Trimeni, Columbus, Ind.; Dick Kitchens, Vienna; Barry Bowen, Bainbridge; Mike Cozian, Albany; Howard Brohawn, Cambridge, Md.; Vernon Twitty Camilla; and Mike Norm, Fort Valley, was initiated as advisor. The Delta Chi fraternity which will receive its national charter in late March, 1968, is under the administration of president Ronny Gillard. Assisting him are Eddy Hanly, vice-president; Mac Wilcox, secretary; Glenn Smith, treasurer; Ervin Wood, corresponding secretary; and Bill Moore, parliamentarian.

Twelve years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Folsom, the owners of the bookstore, opened up "little gym." It wasn't half as convenient as the new student center, stated Mr. Jolly. It only contained the bookstore, snack bar, and post office. The bookstore was half its present size.

Unlike the new student center, the old one had a dancing area. It had no tables; booths were placed around the walls. There were screen porches on each side with ping pong tables.

We are all quite proud of the new student center. As you have seen it differs from the old with its modern appearance and purposes. Naturally one would think that the new one has dominated the old; on the contrary, they will work hand in hand.
